Flournoy, Brown are easy winners

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, hurt by a Watergate indictment, went down in overwhelming defeat Tuesday in his bid for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Edmund G. Brown, Jr., 36-year-old Secretary of State, defeated San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto for the Democratic nomination in the race to succeed Gov. Ronald Reagan who was retiring after two terms and expected to make a run for the Presidency in 1976.

Reinecke was once Reagan's protege but the governor did not support him in the primary and Reinecke was beaten by a margin of more than 2-1 by Republican state Controller Houston Flournoy.

Obviously dampened by "Watergate apathy," the total turnout for both parties was well below that in the last gubernatorial primary four years ago and particularly noticeable in Republican ranks.

With 90 per cent of the precincts reporting, semiofficial returns showed Brown defeated Alioto 38 per cent to 19 per cent, or 989,201 to 491,101. Assembly speaker Bob Moretti tallied 17 per cent, or 437,885, and millionaire businessman William Matson Roth received 10 per cent, or 272,386.

Reinecke, who has pleaded "absolutely not guilty" to three grand jury counts of perjury resulting from his testimony in connection with the International Telephone and Telegraph case, was crushed by Flournoy 63 to 30 per cent, or 1,029,548 to 493,625.

Conservative state Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia, a former member of the John Birch Society and a tough law and order man, captured the GOP U.S. Senate nomination from Earl Brian, a former member of Reagan's cabinet who had concentrated his fire on incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston. Cranston easily won renomination to a second term.

The candidate who will succeed Reagan, a leading contender in the polls for the 1976 GOP president nomination, automatically will be propelled to the national political scene as leader of the California delegation to his party's presidential nominating convention.

Reinecke, appointed by Reagan in 1969 as his heir apparent, was charged with lying in 1972 to the Senate Judiciary Committee about when he informed then-Attorney General John Mitchell of an offer by the ITT conglomerate to help finance the GOP national convention then slated for San Diego. He is scheduled to stand trial July 15.

California voters, apparently reflecting a "Watergate apathy" and a general disinterest in an election campaign that failed to spark excitement, turned out in lighter numbers than expected. A statewide average of 60 per cent had been forecast by local officials but it appeared that mark wasn't reached.

Brown, who despite his big lead, refused to claim victory Tuesday night but talked like a winner anyhow. He told supporters, "I think we can call all Democrats together under a banner of unity."

Flournoy, the two-term state controller who outspent Reinecke 6-to-1 in the final days of the campaign, likewise addressed his supporters in tones that pointed toward November.

"I don't think there is going to be any apathy then," he said. "I know I'm going to need your help and together we can do it. I'm sure about that."

Moretti, who has served as the legislature's most powerful Democrat for four years and who based his campaign on the theme of a man who gets things done, told an estimated 2,000 supporters, "There's no bitterness in my heart. The people of California have decided, and I will live with that decision."

An aide said Moretti "will support Brown and will work for him."

Alioto, the only office-holder who wasn't thrown out of his job by losing the gubernatorial nomination, all but conceded. "I like to win and I don't think we have," he said late in the night.

Brown, who called for a "new spirit" in Sacramento and sought to make "political reform" his No. 1 issue, led Alioto in most of the heavily populated counties.

THEY'LL SQUARE OFF IN NOVEMBER

Houston Flournoy, Republican, left, and Edmund G. Brown Jr., Democrat, are the winners in the California primary gubernatorial race. Flournoy, State Controller, and Brown, son of former California Gov. Pat Brown, won their victories early in the balloting. They'll square off in November finals.

Veysey, Lloyd win in 35th Congressional

In the hotly contested 35th District congressional race for the Democratic nomination, West Covina Councilman Jim Lloyd emerged victorious from a field of 10 contenders Tuesday.

He will face Congressman Victor V. Veysey, R-43rd Dist. in the Nov. 5 general election. Veysey was an easy winner over two Republican opponents.

According to semi-official tabulations, Lloyd received a total of 10,925 votes in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties. As expected, his major support came from Los Angeles County, where he dominated the field with some 30 per cent of the vote with a total of 8,937.

In San Bernardino County, however, his 1,988-vote total trailed Montclair Councilman Tom McClure 3,702, Mrs. Mary Montes of Diamond Bar 2,832, Claremont attorney Bob Stafford 2,592, and former Congressman George Kasem of West Covina, 2,446.

While San Bernardino County tabulations were final, the Los Angeles County totals were only 99 per cent complete.

Among the runnersup, Stafford led with a combined total of 7,467, followed by Kasem with 6,418, Mrs. Montes with 5,920 and McClure with 5,095.

In the Republican contest, Veysey maintained an overwhelming lead over his two opponents, Chaffey College professor Jim Barreca of Mira Loma and physicist Henry Gerardo of West Covina.

Veysey's combined total was 30,738 votes against Barreca's 4,404 and Gerardo's 5,567.

Young bandit foiled by coin dealer, 82

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A young bandit met his match Monday when he tangled with an 82-year-old coin dealer, Addison Smith.

When the bandit entered Smith's coin shop in Jenkins Arcade and pulled a knife, Smith drew a .38-caliber revolver from a desk drawer and the two wrestled to the floor.

"He grabbed me and tried to get the gun while I was trying to get the gun pointed at him," said Smith, who described himself as "still pretty husky" despite his age.

The shopkeeper finally squeezed off a shot which struck the door, ricocheted through a sliding display window and came to rest among a tray of coins.

The bandit escaped —without a cent —before police could seal off the building.

All issues passed except Prop. 7

Prop. 9 receives landslide approval

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California voters gave landslide approval Tuesday to a Watergate-inspired reform, enacting the strictest campaign spending law in the nation.

Proposition 9, a controversial measure to reduce the influence of money on campaigns and government operations, swept ahead by a margin of more than 2-to-1.

With 18 per cent of the vote tallied, the count was 576,746 in favor to 247,619 opposed.

Backers of reform advertised it as a model for national legislation to prevent future scandals such as Watergate.

The proposition puts a ceiling on how much money can be given to candidates or spent on campaigns, builds in a financial advantage for challengers against better known incumbents, and enacts a host of new controls on lobbyists.

It creates a five-man commission to police the political process, with power to issue subpoenas and levy fines.

It forbids cash or anonymous campaign contributions of more than $50. All donors contributing more than that amount must be registered by name, address, occupation and employer and must contribute by means of check or bank draft that can be traced. The reports of all major candidates would be audited.

Voters also solidly passed Proposition 5, authorizing use of some funds from the state gasoline tax for construction of mass transit systems.

It marks the first time since the gas tax was enacted in 1938 that revenue can be used for anything but building and maintaining highways.

The measure provides that if voters of a county approve companion legislation, part of that county's share of the state gas tax fund can be used for mass transit. The companion initiative in Los Angeles County, Proposition A, passed by 60 per cent approval.

It has been estimated the initiative will make available about $200 million a year, which can be used to attract matching federal funds.

Voters gave the go ahead to most of the propositions, including three bond issues, with the only losing proposition a measure that exempts certain education commission members from civil service employment requirements.

The failing measure, Proposition 7, would have exempted the top six staff members of the state Post Secondary Education Commission from the civil service requirements.

Proposition 1, a $250 million bond issue for the acquisition and development of additional recreational land, won narrowly, while the "clean water" initiative, Proposition 2, won a more resounding victory.

The "clean water" measure is a $250 million bond issue to help construct sewage treatment plants and water reclamation facilities.

Another widely accepted bond issue, Proposition 3, provides a $350 million bond act to recharge the state's diminished fund for veteran home and farm loans.

Proposition 4, the reassessment measure, was also widely accepted. The constitutional amendment allows the reassessment of property damaged by "misfortune or a calamity" so that owners would be entitled to a tax break. This tax break would cover, for example, a home fire.

Previously, disasters had to be widespread before tax relief was granted.

Receiving the largest yes vote was Proposition 6, the public proceedings measure. This initiative writes into the California constitution requirements for open meetings of the legislature, except when the legislature votes otherwise.

Proposition 8, another constitutional amendment, was well received. The proposal allows the county of Sacramento to consolidate into a single government with the capital city and any other community in the area that wants to join it.

The measure was supported by Sacramento city and county officials.

Experts' conclusion: somebody erased the tape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without saying who did it or when or why, court-appointed audio experts have concluded that 18 ½ minutes definitely was erased from one of President Nixon's Watergate tapes by someone.

Though the report fixed no blame and suggested no culprits, the lawyer for Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, angrily labeled it an attempt to "incriminate" her and said she could be charged with no crime because she had no "specific intent" to commit one.

Even before the experts' final report on the June 20, 1972, tape was delivered to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica Tuesday, attorney Charles S. Rhyne denounced the report as "worthless" and demanded that Sirica not accept it.

He charged that Sirica, the White House and Watergate prosecutors had plotted secretly to prove Miss Woods guilty of some criminal offense, perhaps obstruction of justice.

There was no immediate reaction from Sirica, and it was believed the report would eventually go to a grand jury that is considering whether criminal actions were involved in the tape erasure.

The experts, jointly picked by prosecutors and White House lawyers, were assigned by Sirica last November to find out what caused the 18½ minute buzz that obliterates a Watergate conversation between Nixon and then-White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman just three days after the bugging arrests.

In a preliminary report in January, they said the gap was caused by at least five, and perhaps as many as nine separate erase and re-record operations, all done by hand. The final report, rich with charts and graphs, reached the same conclusion.

"This report draws no inferences about such questions as whether the erasure and buzz were made accidentally or intentionally, or when, or by what person or persons," it said. "The report does provide a solid basis in experimental fact for concluding that the erasure and the recording of buzz required several operations of the push-buttons on the control key board of the Uher 5000 recorder."

Another expert hired independently by the White House, Michael H. L. Hecker, told the court he was in "general agreement" with the six-man court panel but feels "it is still possible that some internal malfunction of the machine," not thoroughly considered by them, "could have been partly responsible" for the erasure.

Unruh scores comeback victory

Riles in landslide; Harmer to face Dymally

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California schools chief Wilson Riles, the first black to hold statewide office, Tuesday won re-election by a landslide while former Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh completed the first step towards a political comeback.

The primary election for statewide offices saw two other victories by minority group members in addition to Riles' win.

Black Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles captured the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. Assemblywoman March K. Fong of Oakland, who was born in the back of a Chinese laundry, picked up the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Unruh beat Sen. Alan Short of Stockton and Los Angeles attorney Gray Davis in the Democratic primary for state treasurer.

Dymally will face Republican Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale in the November general election.

Harmer defeated John Veneman in the GOP primary for lieutenant governor. Veneman is a former assemblyman who most recently served as undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Dymally downed Sen. Lawrence Walsh of Downey and USC law professor Howard Miller, who had leveled charges of perjury and illegal use of campaign funds against Dymally.

Riles ran up more than 2 million votes in his runaway victory. His closest rival had about one-tenth that amount.

Mrs. Fong, who has become known for her legislative efforts to ban pay toilets, will contest Republican Brian Van Camp in the November general election. Van Camp was corporations commissioner under Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Losing to Mrs. Fong were Assemblyman Walter Karabian of Los Angeles and Los Angeles educator Cathy O'Neill.

Van Camp had little trouble with his rival, Michael Montgomery, a South Pasadena attorney.

Another Reagan appointee, John T. Kehoe, former state consumer affairs director, will be Unruh's general election opponent. Kehoe defeated Henry Quigley, an Irvine businessman.

In the controller's race, Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael— who was worried rival James L. Flournoy would win votes from citizens confusing him with the incumbent—triumphed over the Los Angeles attorney. Flournoy is not related to incumbent Houston I. Flournoy.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cory of Garden Grove, who campaigned as "the man the oil companies fear the most"' convincingly won the Democratic nomination for controller.

He defeated San Francisco Supervisor Robert Oendelsohn and former state Treasurer Bert Betts of Elverta.

Republican Attorney General Evelle Younger faced no opposition in the primary election.

Democrat William A. Norris, former president of tte Los Angeles Police Commission, won the right to oppose Younger in November. Norris defeated Vincent Bugliosi, the Los Angeles lawyer who successfully prosecuted Charles Manson in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

Bolivian coup attempt is crushed

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — The Bolivian government announced it totally crushed a coup attempt today led by a small group of army officers including the lieutenant colonel responsible for the capture of Cuban revolutionary Ernesto "Che" Guevara in 1967.

The official version, which did not report any bloodshed, was issued by the ministries of information and interior a few hours after the attempt occurred.

The motives of the young officers was not clear other than that they were considered "rightists," but it was the most serious military uprising in three years and 10 months since President Hugo Banzer overthrew the leftist government of President Juan Jose Torres three years and 10 months ago.

The two ministries said the rebels belonged to the Tarapaca Armored Regiment, considered one of the most powerful in the country, with headquarters in El Alto, 10 miles from the capital. They were led by Lt. Cols. Raul Lopez Leyton and Gary Prado Salmon. Gary Prado was the officer that commanded the company that wounded and captured the Argentine-born Guevara.

The official account said that around 2:30 a.m. the rebel officers riding in 10 assault cars entered the Plaza Murillo in the center of La Paz and halted in front of the governmental palace.

One of the cars smashed down the iron door of the government palace, opening and partially destroying it in the process. The rebels entered through the gate but 15 minutes later they were ousted by the Colorados Regiment which serves as the guard regiment at the palace.

A short time later the Ministry of Interior announced the rebels had ceased their attempts and had left their assault cars to ask for guarantees for exile in foreign embassies. There was no official word of where they were but they were believed to have received asylum in the Brazilian Embassy.

The Ministry of Information said the two lieutenant colonels were members of a young officers group and that the only political background that either had was that which supported the regime of the late rightist ex-president Rene Barrientos. Barrientos was killed in a plane accident several years ago.

Tanks, armored cars and infantry troops filled the streets of the capital before dawn, sealing off the the presidential palace and strategic areas.

A presidential spokesman said Banzer was not in the palace at the time of the revolt and had left Tuesday on a trip to the town of Tupiza in southern Bolivia.

Republicans select unknown to face McGovern

By STEVE GERSTEL
United Press International

Republican voters, girding for what could be the GOP's sternest test ever in November, picked a politically unknown war hero in South Dakota and chose a harsh critic of President Nixon in Iowa in Tuesday's primary elections.

Leo Thorsness, a Medal of Honor winner who was held captive by North Vietnam for six years, made his first political outing an impressive one by winning the GOP senatorial prmary in South Dakota.

In what could be a classic political match-up, Thorsness will face Sen. George S. McGovern, the incumbent Democrat next fall. McGovern, completing his second term, was the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate and one of the most outspoken critics of the Vietnam war in which Thorsness fought.

In Iowa, State Rep. David Stanley handily won the Republican senatorial nomination while Rep. John Culver took the Democratic primary without opposition. Stanley, who narrowly lost to Sen. Harold Hughes in 1968, sharply criticized President Nixon during the campaign.

Stanley said of Nixon: "He's hurting our party, he's hurting our country and he's giving the appearance of having something to hide."

In all, eight states held primaries—the busiest day so far—and almost everywhere there was a low voter turnout.

These are the results:

IOWA —Stanley, who narrowly lost to retiring Sen. Harold E. Hughes in 1968, easily won the Republican senatorial nomination, beating State Sen. George Milligan. He will face Rep. John Culver, who was unopposed in the Democratic primary. Gov. Robert Ray was unopposed in his bid for a fourth term. The winner of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was state party leader James Schaben, who defeated former state Rep. William Gannon and former state Democratic chairman Clark Rasmussen.

SOUTH DAKOTA —Thorsness, in his first political outing, won a clear majority in a three-way race for the Republican senatorial nomination. He ran far ahead of businessman Al Schock. Former National committeewoman Barbara Gunderson trailed badly. McGovern was unopposed. In the governors' primaries, incumbent Richard Kneip outdistanced his lieutenant govenor, William Dougherty. The Republicans chose former state highway director John Olson by a wide margin.

MISSISSIPPI — Republican Thad Cochran and Democrat David R. Bowen, the only members of the House delegation with primary opposition, swept to victory. James H. Meredith, a symbol of the civil rights crusade when he became the first black to enter the University of Mississippi in 1962, was forced into a runoff against Kenneth L. Dean for the chance to take on Cochran in the fall.

NEW JERSEY —Incumbents faced only token opposition, but the retirement of Rep. Peter H. Frelinghuysen touched off a race among nine candidates in the fifth district. Millicent Fenwick won the Republican nomination by 72 votes but assemblyman Thomas H. Kean indicated he would ask for a recount. The Democratic winner was Frederick M. Bohen.

ALABAMA —Jere L. Beasley, riding the coattails of Gov. George C. Wallace, won nomination for a second term as lieutenant governor in a runoff against businessman Charles Woods.

NEW MEXICO — State Sen. Jerry Apodaca, a Democrat, and Republican Joe Skeen won their party nomination for governor in a crowded field seeking to replace retiring Gov. Bruce King.

MONTANA — Democratic State Rep. Mac Baucus won the right to challenge unopposed incumbent Richard Shoup for one of Montana's two congressional seats. In the other, recent Republican convert Jack McDonald easily won the nomination to take on Democrat John Melcher, who was also unopposed.

McCloskey ekes out win in congressional race

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Beating back a fierce challenge, Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey scored a hairbreadth victory in Tuesday's Republican primary while voters in a special election apparently sent a Democratic assemblyman to join his brother in Congress.

Despite new districts created by reapportionment and the uncertainty of Watergate, the other 22 incumbents challenged in the primary were renominated.

McCloskey, an antiwar firebrand from Menlo Park who mounted an abortive campaign against President Nixon's 1972 re-election, clung to victory by a scant 876 votes over millionaire Atherton businessman Gordon Knapp, according to unofficial final results.

The total was McCloskey 29,371 to Knapp's 28,504.

In a year-long campaign, Knapp challenged McCloskey's record as a "Real" Republican.

A special election in San Francisco, held in conjunction with the statewide primary, was decided by an even slimmer margin.

Democratic Assemblyman John Burton was the apparent victor for the seat held by a Republican for 21 years. He amassed 73,048 votes to 72,980 for his seven opponents combined—a difference of 68 votes, according to unofficial results.

Burton needed 50 per cent plus one vote to avoid a July runoff and immediately join his older brother, Phillip, in Congress. The unofficial final total was 50.02 per cent. Election officials said the results would be routinely rechecked.

Burton, a flamboyant liberal and advocate of impeachment, campaigned on the theme that this was likely the last special election before the House could begin debate on an impeachment vote.

Ranking California Republican Rep. William S. Mailliard quit the seat for an ambassadorship. He was one of three Republicans and three Democrats who chose not to seek reelection.

With Burton's apparent victory, Democrats increased their partisan edge over Republicans in the California delegation to 24-19.

A total of 251 certified candidates battled for nominations to California's largest-in-the-nation Congressional delegation of 43 members.

Six Republican incumbents and eight Democrats were without challengers in the primary. Two of the Democrats —Rep. Robert L. Leggett of Vallejo and Edward R. Roybal of Los Angeles—had no ballot opposition through the general election.

In the open districts, those without incumbents, Assemblyman Henry Waxman was the Democratic victor in the 24th District of Los Angeles, virtually assuring his election in November in the heavily Democratic area.

State Assembly wrapup

Antonovich wins race by 18; three incumbents meet defeat

By ROBERT E. SWEET

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Freshman Assemblyman Mike D. Antonovich defeated veteran Assemblyman Newton R. Russell by 18 votes in a rare seesaw duel in Tuesday's primary election which ousted at least two other incumbents.

Final returns today showed that arch-conservative Antonovich garnered 16,157 votes while Russell, a 10-year veteran, received 16,139 votes in the 41st Assembly District.

The two lawmakers found themselves in the same district following last year's reapportionment of legislative districts —ordered by the state Supreme Court—that threw many lawmakers into new, unfamiliar territory.

Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, who was forced into a totally new Orange County district, was running behind banker Jim Beam of Orange who campaigned on the theme of being "home grown."

The latest election results today showed Beam with 1,090 votes while Bruce Nestande, a former aide to Gov. Ronald Reagan, had 982 and Wakefield garnered 635 votes.

Two other assemblymen were unseated while Sen. Peter Behr, R-Tiburon, was the only incumbent in the Senate with serious trouble. With 198 of 766 precincts reporting, Behr had 11,765 votes and Bob Theiller of Santa Rosa gathered 7,644.

Assemblyman Walter W. Powers of Sacramento, a 12-year veteran and chairman of the Water Committee, was trounced by Sacramento County Supervisor Eugene T. Gualco for Democratic nomination in the 5th Assembly District.

Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto, was unseated by Terry Goggin, a former aide to U.S. Rep. George Brown, in San Bernardino County's 66th Assembly District.

All 80 Assembly seats and 20 of the Senate's 40 seats were up for election. Fifty lawmakers were unopposed while newcomers scrambled for 21 "open" districts created when legislators retired, ran for higher office or were forced into races against other incumbents.

Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, and Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, easily won their primary races and will clash in a classic battle in the November general election.

Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, survived a bruising campaign waged by Robert "Buzz" Pauley, son of millionaire oilman Ed Pauley, and Compton City Councilman Ross Miller Jr. in the 28th District. Thirty-eight assemblymen had no primary contests, including Joe A. Gonssalves, D-La Mirada, and Bob McLennan, D-Downey, who will collide in the November election in the 63rd District.

In the Assembly, where Democrats hold a 49-31 edge, a dozen lawmakers — including Speaker Bob Moretti—ran for other offices. Assemblymen Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, and Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, also are retiring.

The Senate now is controlled by Democrats by a 21-18 margin with one vacancy.

In a letter to the newly elected French president, Cohn-Bendit, said: "You are the president of a republic which has underwritten the universal convention of the rights of man whose articles assure freedom of movement to all.

"I ask you to acknowledge this freedom for me.

"You doubtless know that access to France, from which I have been absent since 1968, remains rigorously banned to me. For my ideas no doubt.

No bitterness in his heart --Moretti; will back Brown

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, conceding his defeat for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., said Tuesday "the people of California have decided."

Moretti, accompanied by his wife and mother, made the concession during his first and only appearance before some 2,000 supporters at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

"There's no bitterness in my heart," Moretti said. "The people of California have decided, and I will live with that decision."

A spokesman said Moretti "will support Brown and will work for him."

He said he would never regret the decision to enter the campaign.

"I thought of what it would be like to win and what it would be like to lose. I asked the Man Upstairs for strength and class whichever way it went.

"I feel solid and strong."

He recounted some of the high points of his career in the legislature and said he was very proud of his record as Speaker.

"Of all my accomplishments," he said, "I'm proud of the fact that I led and helped defeat Proposition 1 last year."

The measure was a controversial tax reform initiative supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Moretti began apologizing to his supporters for losing, but someone interrupted him and yelled, "We'll get 'em next time, Bob."

As Moretti left the stage, accompanied by his weeping wife and mother, he told reporters he was going back to Sacramento to finish his business and work with other legislators.

Moretti, who will be vacating the Speaker's position, predicted his successor will be Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco.

If Brown is elected, he will be the first black to hold that position.

Brown, California governor from 1958 to 1966, was just as cautious in claiming victory for his son in the Democratic gubernatorial race as was the candidate.

"Has he really won?" the elder Brown asked after vote tabulations showed Edmund G. Brown Jr. the apparent victor over San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

"I think he should win," the father said. "I think he has put on a very good campaign. I never thought he would go into politics but now that he has he has thrown himself into it with intensity."

San Dimas hearing

Picnic firm protest swells

SAN DIMAS — About 70 residents from San Dimas Canyon jammed into City Hall Tuesday night to protest a proposal to operate a private picnic area near San Dimas Canyon Park.

After hearing protests, including those from two Planning Commission members from the City of La Verne, the Planning Commission decided to delay action on a request for a conditional use permit and zone change until June 19 when commissioners will visit the site.

Commissioners will meet at 6 p.m. at the site at 1809 N. San Dimas Canyon Road to walk over the seven-acre area that is proposed as a private picnic park that would cater parties for large groups.

The applicant, John Atchison representing Picnic Services Inc., is seeking a zone change from residential agriculture 10,000 to open space. The open space zone permits parks.

But many residents at the meeting felt that the enterprise is not a park because it would be private and not open to the public. Other concerns were of noise pollution and the heavy traffic the operation would produce on San Dimas Canyon Road.

No one other than the applicant spoke in favor of the project and objections to the development also came from the La Verne City Council in the form of a letter which arrived moments before the Planning commission meeting started.

The commission received petitions against the project from the Gray Oaks Homeowners Association, residents of Eaglecliff Estates and from residents who live in La Verne in an area near the San Dimas Canyon Park.

Jim Sandiford, spokesman for the San Dimas Canyon homeowners read a letter from the Workman Mill Association, a group of homeowners who live near Maple Leaf Park in La Puente. The park permits a similar operation.

The letter supporting the San Dimas homeowners said the La Puente operation is a constant source of nieghborhood disturbance because of noise, heavy traffic and the use of alcoholic beverages.

La Verne Planning Commission members Larry Adams and Gerald Borges were among those who protested the project.

In other action, the commission agreed to meet in joint session June 10 in a study session with the City Council to discuss the proposed hillside ordinance and the special planned development area near San Dimas Elementary School. The meeting will be held at 6 p.m. prior to the regular City Council meeting.

Senate kills poison gas tests of dogs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday voted to prohibit the Army from testing poison gas on beagle puppies and told the Pentagon not to spend any money that was added to the defense budget just to prime the economic pump.

In the second day of debate on the $21.8 billion 1975 arms procurement bill, the Senate turned back proposals to publish annually an overall figure on U.S. intelligence operations overseas and to set up a fund to convert U.S. war industries to peacetime production.

The Senate approved the beagles measure on a vote of 76 to 12 after its sponsor, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., argued that "there are plenty of other animals they can use such as rats or mice."

A new Army bid for 450 beagles to be used at its Edgewood Arsenal, Md., chemical warfare center was revealed last week by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis. Humphrey said he had once owned a beagle and would not have its memory "desecrated" by the Army experiments.

The budget limitation measure by Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., was provoked by an acknowledgement earlier this year by Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger that the Pentagon budget had been considerably pumped up because the administration feared a recession.

It forbids the Pentagon to spend any funds for that purpose and directs Schlesinger to give Congress a written report within 30 days after the measure becomes law on just where the pump-priming money is located in the current budget.

Earlier the Senate turned back a bid by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to have the administration publish a yearly consolidated figure on expenses of the CIA, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the National Security Agency and other U.S. intelligence arms.

A proposal by Sen. George S. McGovern on reconversion of war industries was beaten back 55 to 27.

Magruder goes to prison

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Former White House aide Jeb Stuart MaGruder, an admitted conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, Tuesday began serving a 10-month to four-year sentence at the Allenwood Federal Prison camp.

MaGruder, smiling and in a relaxed mood, told waiting newsmen at the minimum-security facility that he hoped to use his time in prison "to the best advantage and come out and start living again."

The 39-year-old former chief of President Nixon's 1972 campaign organization was sentenced in Washington on May 21 by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica after pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

G. Gordon Liddy, convicted mastermind of the Watergate break-in, was hired by MaGruder as campaign counsel.

Asked when he hopes to be released, MaGruder, the highest ranking ex-Nixon aide to go to prison, said it will come "whenever the parole board decides."

MaGruder joins Egil Krogh, who began serving a six-month term at Allenwood Feb. 4 for his part in the "Plumbers" raid on the Los Angeles offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

"Sure I regret having to go through this," MaGruder said after being driven to the prison farm by his wife, Gail. "I have to do it, and I'll do it.

"I'll have some time," he added, "and I'll use that time to the best of my ability to learn from the experience and learn things I haven't had a chance to in 15 to 20 years to study and read."

Questioned as to whether he would ever again devote himself to anyone as he did President Nixon, MaGruder answered, "certainly not in the context that I did to Mr. Nixon."

He has long been associated with the school as a parent and as a trustee.

Security guard held in slaying

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A security guard has been arrested in connection with the death of a man whose body was found stuffed in a plastic tarpaulin in Burbank.

Authorities arrested Burleigh T. Jewell of Los Angeles on Monday. He was accused of shooting Ronald Lee Kessler, whose body was found in a trailer Saturday.

Kessler's widow, Marianna, was arrested Sunday night in connection with the murder.

Police said Jewell is an acquaintance of Mrs. Kessler.

Lawmaker sets goal of 20 m.p.g. autos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The way Rep. Paul W. Cronin, R-Mass., figures it, we would be out of the energy crisis forever if we just bought 1951 Hudsons.

Not many people can do that, Cronin admits, but the idea of making automobiles use gasoline efficiently is no secret.

By 1976, Cronin estimated, automobile manufacturers could be putting out only cars with engines capable of getting at least 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

He discussed the idea with David Freeman of the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Project Tuesday at a hearing of a House environment subcommittee.

Freeman said his project, in a preliminary report, took a more conservative and gradual view and set the 20 miles-per-gallon target for the 1980s, but he agreed with Cronin it could be done much sooner with the proper push and shove.

Cronin said he read recently that a member of a Hudson auto club had bought a 1951 "Hornet" model a short while ago. The car had about 150,000 miles on the odometer and had some power accessories, Cronin said. It got more than 20 miles to the gallon and also met the exhaust cleanliness standards.

"It makes you think, what price progress?" Cronin said

He told UPI later, "That car had the old in-line, six-cylinder engine. It had automatic shift. Yet that car had all the acceleration anybody would need today.

"I think the problem is that the major manufacturers have a big investment in making the existing types of engines, and they do not want to change very quickly."

Cronin has sponsored a bill for two years that would require auto engines to give 20 miles a gallon, but the bill got nowhere.

"But things are changing rapidly in Congress," Cronin said.

He also contended the power of the business lobby is changing and "a lot of newer members of Congress are more concerned about the facts of a situation than about what lobbyist it is talking to them."

Boy, 15, shot in back, killed

ROSEMEAD (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy was was sitting in front of a house was shot and killed by a group of youths Tuesday, police said.

Police said when Mitchell Fraijo was approached by the youths, he ran to the rear of the house and was shot in the back.

Authorities said the suspects might be members of a gang. No arrests were immediately made.

School, health smog advisory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Air Pollution Control District issued a school and health advisory for smog in San Gabriel Valley Tuesday when the ozone level in the air reached .20 parts per million.

The advisory, called at 3:46 p.m., warned children and persons with respiratory problems to restrict physical activity. Motorists were asked to limit driving.

Nevada invests in antidrug abuse campaign

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada's best money investment may be a drug abuse education program for fifth and sixth graders, according to Gov. Mike O'Callaghan.

As the Nevada chief executive presented his report to the National Governors' Conference in Seattle, it was also released here.

It said a good deal of the success of the program was because the approach was "based on reason and logic, rather than scare tactics."

"In essence, students receiving drug education are learning to question whether an act is worth the risk," the governor said.

"This is an extremely complex behavior, and in fact, one which most adults have not yet learned.

"Another aspect contributing to the program's success is that care is taken not to destroy the children's confidence in the teacher by adult condescension and hypocrisy. The jargon of the drug community, which generally is well-known by young students, is voiced by most teachers without embarrassment or patronization.

"More important, cigarettes and alcohol, drugs legally used by the establishment, are prominently included among those substances which the youngsters are encouraged to avoid.

"'Encouraged' is a key word. The students are encouraged to avoid drug abuse through a careful and calm presentation of the consequences of such abuse.

"They are encouraged to decide themselves whether drug usage is worth yielding to peer pressure, when the possible extreme consequence may be imprisonment, loss of health or loss of peer-acceptance itself.

"The program, of course, subtly attempts to reverse peer pressure so that the 'in' thing to do is to avoid drug experimentation."

He said, "we are assured already of the positive results of drug abuse education for our children, we expeect even better results. We suspect that, among programs designed to help our children and literally to save lives, the Nevada drug abuse prevention program may be our best investment to date."

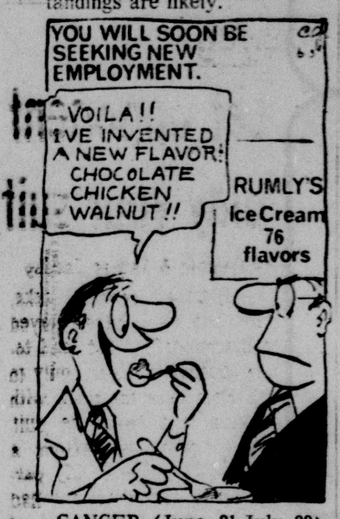
For Thursday, June 6

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things will work out better for you in the long run if you don't let others get too involved in your present plans.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you will express yourself in a way that will not be well received by others. Harsh words will draw a similar response.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In your material dealings with others today you'll have to be careful and businesslike. Disputes or misunderstandings are likely.



CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order not to be disappointed, don't ask co-operation from a person who normally isn't co-operative. She's even less helpful today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be a rather reluctant worker. Your attitude is going to make more of each task than it really is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) One of your friends has said something unflattering about you but its not all that bad. However, you're apt to make a big thing of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In competitive situations today you tend to give your opposition the edge before you start. This cuts down your chances considerably.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone older than you who holds very strong opinions will give you a real pain in the neck if you start discussing philosophies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The financial drain on your purse is apt to be quite heavy at this time. Cut some corners on your spending.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 Jan. 19) Opposing views will be very strong in one of your close personal relationships. Don't say things you'll later regret.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Responsibilities that you've swept under the rug are going to call for prompt attention. Best you attend to them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your social plans will undergo some revisions, but not of your making. Someone in the group is rewriting the scenario to suit her schedule.

Another in UMW case recei ves life sentence

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Former United Mine Workers (UMW) official William Prater Monday was sentenced to life imprisonment in the 1969 murders of UMW reform leader Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Prater, 54, LaFollette, Tenn., former UMW District 19 organizer, was convicted here in March, 1973, on three counts of first degree murder.

Judge Edward Carney of Erie County Court sentenced him to three concurrent life terms after Richard Sprague, special prosecutor in the Yablonski murders, recommended leniency.

Sprague cited Prater's confession, following his trial conviction, and his help as a prosecution witness at the trial of William Pass, also a UMW official.

WORLD ALMANAC

A filibuster is a parliamentary device which allows a U.S. Senator to hold the floor by speaking continuously. A filibuster can delay legislation for weeks if a group of senators work together. In 1917, Senate adopted the "Cloture Rule" which could limit a senator to speak only one hour if two-thirds of the Senate voted to invoke the rule. The law is seldom used as many senators want to guard their unlimited right to speak, The World Almanac notes.

Let opponent play your suit

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A Florida reader asks, "How should I have played the diamonds?" I did lead toward dummy's queen, only to have East take the trick with the king and lead the suit back to give his partner a trick with the jack. My partner points out that if I had simply stripped the hand of other suits I could have let West hold the first trick with the seven and made my contract."

NORTH ♠K 10 7 4 2 ♥10 4 ♦Q 5 2 ♣K 8 6

WEST ♠3 ♥K Q J 8 7 ♦J 9 7 ♣J 9 5 2

EAST ♠8 ♥A 9 6 5 2 ♦K 8 4 3 ♣Q 10 7 4

SOUTH (D) ♠A Q J 9 6 5 ♥7 ♦A 10 6 ♣A 4 3

Opening lead—♥K

The answer to our reader's question is that while the play suggested by his partner would pave worked this time it was both unnatural and unnecessary. The way for South to play the diamonds was to make an opponent lead them for him.

After ruffing the second heart, South had an automatic way to make his contract. He should draw trumps. One lead would be enough. Then play ace, king and another club.

It wouldn't matter which opponent led the diamond or where the king and jack were located. South would simply play low from whichever hand had to play first and be sure of two tricks in the suit.

Suppose the defender refused to lead a diamond? He would have to lead a club or heart. South would simply ruff in one hand and discard a diamond from the other to wind up losing just one diamond trick.

Author cites Ford role as male model

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford hired out as a model for Look Magazine in 1940, according to a forthcoming biography, "Gerry Ford, Up Close."

Author Bud Vestal says that in 1940, Ford, then a Yale law student, and his steady girl friend, Phyllis Brown, worked as models for a feature on a ski weekend in Vermont.

It was complete with pictures of the two "plumb tuckered out' on a couch after a day on the slopes, and kissing goodby in a Pullman car aisle before Ford got off the train in New Haven early Monday morning.

Phyllis Brown, now Phyllis Phillips of Reno, Nev., politely refused comment on Vestals book, saying, "Its all ancient history. It's so old it's completely unnewsworthy."

Controversy rages over school book burning threat

BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — When Mrs. Nicholle Woodward found out the book "Go Ask Alice" was in the Mt. Anthony Union High School library, she had her student daughter check it out for keeps.

"Go Ask Alice" is the diary of a young girl who was a drug addict.

"I threatened to burn it; I still have it in my possession," Mrs. Woodward said, though she paid back the school and the library bought another copy.

Now Mrs. Woodward and a group of parents here are taking on Ms., a national magazine which specializes in articles on the women's liberation movement. The group says the magazine borders on the obscene.

"We just feel that type of thing is not necessary to have in the school, that the tax money that was spent on it could be better spent on other educational material," she said.

The school board meets this week to decide if Ms. should be taken off the shelves for good.

Mrs. Woodward and her supporters are up against some big guns. Gloria Steinem, publisher and founder of Ms., has taken a personal interest in the case.

"The purpose of Ms. Magazine is to allow women of all ages to tell the trath about their lives —the whole, joyful, fully diverse truth," Ms. Steinem said. "What is it about this truth that a handful of Vermont school officials and parents find threatening enough to suppress?"

Mt. Anthony Principal Clarence Pelkie, who has a child enrolled at the school, filed a complaint against the mazazine as an individual citizen.

"I have nothing against the women's movement and that has nothing to do with the issue at all," Pelkie said. He objects only to one issue of Ms., the October 1973 edition, with an excerpt from Erica Jong's novel, "Fear of Flying."

"Every book or magazine on the library shelf has a unique purpose," Pelkie explained. "Ms. is to explain the women's movement in America, and I support it 100 per cent."

He said the language and descriptions of sexual matters in the Jong article "would be a little beyond" what he would like to see 13-or 14-year-olds reading at Mt. Anthony. But many of the objecting parents want the magazine subscription cancelled altogether.

"My real point," said Mrs. Joanne Dunham, "is that I think the school is usurping the power of the parents in having some control over literature their children are reading." Mrs. Dunham has a child in the fifth grade.

Mrs. Dunham said it was "sad" the American Civil Liberties Union has stepped in to defend the right of children to read Ms. The ACLU says it may take the case to court if necessary to protect the students' constitutional rights.

"You have your liberals on one side with their American Civil Liberties Union that has the money to fight for them. Rights work both ways," she said, "but apparently the American Civil Liberties Union only wants them to work their way."

The common workingman, she said, cannot afford to fight the library system as effectively as bigger, better-financed groups fight for their side.

Mrs. Dunham said she would support a "restricted" shelf in the library that would require parental permission before a student could gain access to it. Some students, she said, could maturely handle articles like some of those in Ms. Others, she added, would say: "Hey, I got a hot one; let's go to the girl's room and read this."

"I understand that one boy went to the library recently and asked for hunting and hot rod literature and was told they didn't have the money to buy those magazines," she said. "This is the sad part."

Judge files $21 million libel suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Municipal Judge Joseph R. Grillo, a candidate for a Superior Court judgeship has filed a $21 million libel suit following release of a poll of attorneys in which 92 per cent said he was unqualified.

The poll was conducted by deputy district attorneys and public defenders.

The suit seeks $10 million compensatory damages to Los Angeles County citizens, $10 million punitive damages and $1 million compensatory damages for Grillo for injury to his reputation "as a firm and fair judge."

He said he would turn over any damages received to the Los Angeles County Bar Association to reimburse "clients who have been damaged by negligent and unethical attorneys."

Grillo said the poll was a "rigged-up job to prevent a strong judge (himself) from being elected."

Victim was radio officer's wife

Crash death details were horribly familiar

DALLAS (UPI) — It was a quiet night for Patrolman Bobby Wychopen as he worked the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift Tuesday.

At the radio in the Dallas Police Department's Communications Division, the 26-year-old dispatcher got a trouble call and he sent a patrol car to the scene of a car wreck.

He logged the time at five minutes past midnight.

And then he listened to the police radio channel. A woman was dead. Her car smashed into a telephone pole.

Two officers at the scene began the search for the next of kin.

They found a driver's license with an address on Tyler street. And they found a bowling ball in the car.

It began to seem horribly familiar to Wychopen.

He asked one of the officers at the scene for the license number of the wrecked car. He checked it in the police computer. The fatal car was registered to him.

And Wyochopen cried across the room to his supervisor, Sgt. D.W. Young, who hurried to his side.

"Sarge, I think my wife has been killed in this wreck," he said.

Mrs. Lynn Wyochopen, 24, died of internal injuries.

She was the mother of the couple's 3-year-old twin daughters.

CONTROVERSIAL APPOINTMENT — Andrew Adams is a wheelchair-bound polio victim appointed to head the government's Rehabilitation Services Administration by President Nixon. But many congressmen and rehabilitation counselors oppose the appointment, pointing out that the administration is ignoring capable and experienced rehabilitation professionals in favor of someone with little familiarity and experience with federal rehabilitation programs.

17 charged with Antelope Valley land fraud

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Superior Court suit by state and local authorities Monday charged 17 defendants with fraud in selling land in Antelope Valley.

The civil suit was estimated to involve millions of dollars in land sales to thousands of Californians.

It was brought by Attorney General Evelle J. Younger, Los Angeles County District Attorney Joseph P. Busch and State Real Estate Commissioner Robert Karpe.

Named as defendants were Omnivest, six related corporations and 10 individuals.

They were accused of violating the Subdivided Land Act which prohibits the use of unlicensed real estate personnel and false advertising and unfair competition.

The defendants allegedly began their operation around May, 1970, by subdividing raw, undeveloped land into five or more parcels through a "multitude of deeds, trust deeds and reconveyances."

It also sought an injunction against future operations, a civil penalty of $2,500 for each violation by each defendant, a complete accounting of Antelope Valley land sales by those involved and appointment of a trustee for all money collected.

Robert Milton Calhoun was identified as president and sole stockholder of Omnivest of Beverly Hills. He also was listed as sole stockholder of the other defendant corporations, Omnivest International, Investment Associates, Superior Mortgage Co., Antelope Valley Group, Exceptional Properties Co.

Energy chief's suggestion

Work in shirtsleeves this summer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the name of energy conservation, Federal Energy Chief John C. Sawhill urged male office workers Tuesday to doff neckties this summer and to wear open-necked, shortsleeved shirts on the job.

Sawhill tried to set an example by working in his office with his tie off and his shirt open at the neck. The idea is that thermostats can be set higher —conserving fuel for air conditioning.

Sawhill did not suggest specifically how women should dress at the office. In a statement he said only that women employes should wear "neat and comfortable clothes" to keep cool.

And he recognized that among men "there will still be occasions when a coat and tie will obviously be appropriate."

Sawhill instituted the casual dress code for the Federal Energy Administration and urged private industry and other government agencies to follow his example.

Previously he asked Americans to set thermostats at 78 degrees this summer to conserve energy. A difference of 6 degrees in a thermostat setting can cut cooling costs by 15 per cent, he said.

"The setting of dress codes remains the appropriate discretionary function of government agency and industry heads," Sawhill said, adding that he is urging the public and the private sector to adopt this summer, "neat, open-necked, short-sleeved shirts for men, and neat, comfortable clothes for women."

In the area of fuel availability, the American Automobile Association said gasoline suplies nationally continue generally good this week, even though some stations have not received their June suppliies.

The AAA said a survey covering 5,327 gasoline stations in all states but Alaska showed that 18 per cent were out of gasoline compared to 0.8 per cent last week.

The price averages were the same as a week ago — 56 cents a gallon for regular and 59 cents a gallon for premium.

The most plentiful gasoline supplies continued to be in an area including Colorado, Montana, the Dakotas, Utah and Wyoming, with none reporting they were dry.

Pomona school tax increase is rejected

54% vote against proposal; tax cut to occur next fall

POMONA — Proposition T, a proposal by the Pomona School District to increase its general purpose tax rate, was defeated by district voters in Tuesday's primary election.

Unofficial final results showed 6,546 yes votes, and 7,975 no votes. The no votes accounted for 54.9 per cent of all votes cast. A simple majority would have passed the measure.

The district had asked voters to increase the tax 72 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, to be offset by an increase in funds coming from the state through Senate Bill 90, which would have kept the rate at $4.22 per $100 assessed valuation.

Failure of Proposition T means district taxpayers will receive a 72 cent tax cut next fall.

"To my mind, the defeat of Proposition T in Tuesday's election means a critical loss of sorely-needed dollars in our school system, and an equally critical loss to the community in terms of civic pride and self image," said Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz.

"I feel the Pomona district schools have come a long, long way in the past few years and that we have been able to chart the district on some positive accomplishments for young people.

"New instructional programs, reduced student conflict, improved moral and greater enthusiasm are indications of growth.

"This 1973-74 school year was one of our best ever financially, and we were able to take great strides toward reinstituting some of the programs which we have had to carve out of the budget in years past, due to lack of funds.

"We had hoped to be able to continue this upswing in the coming years, but it takes an entire community's cooperation and backing to accomplish all we'd like in our schools. And it takes money.

"Despite this setback, and in the face of several cutbacks, we will have to make in next year's budget, we will continue to strive toward providing the best education possible for our young people, and we will make every effort to continue our upward trend, and to keep the commitments we have made in the past."

Wentz did not comment on the fact that the preliminary 1974-75 budget presented to the school board in May contained no funds for cost-of-living salary increases next year for district employes.

He had said in the past that a good portion of the $1.5 million Proposition T would have raised for the district would have gone towards pay hikes for employes.

LOTS OF CRUST

Boxes of pizza crust were spread along the San Bernardino Freeway in Ontario Tuesday after a truck collided with a California Highway Patrol car and a bus near Archibald Avenue. The truck driver said he was reaching over to adjust his radio when his truck collided with the patrol car parked along the freeway shoulder. The officer was standing outside his vehicle talking to another truck driver he had stopped. Six persons on a charter bus were treated at a hospital and released. The bus was enroute to Lake Arrowhead.

New airport authority is sought in Chino

CHINO — The City Council was presented with a resolution to form a new airport authority Tuesday night, but delayed action on the measure for one week.

As outlined by City Atty. William McVittie, the proposed Inter-County Airport Authority will have the same basic scope as the Chino Hills Airport Authority, which it will replace if approved by the council.

The city of Stanton, which withdrew from the old authority only last month, has already approved entry into the new authority. A month prior to Stanton's withdrawal, the city of Anaheim withdrew from the authority. It is not known whether that city will enter the new agreement.

The authority will study the feasibility of the creation of a new major jetport at some site in the general San Bernardino - Riverside - Orange counties area.

Action on the resolution was continued until next Tuesday after Councilman Ed Lynch said that he needed some questions answered before he could make a decision on the matter.

Councilman Leonard Frketich protested, to no avail, that the council should go ahead and make a decision.

"We've been playing around with this thing for a year now. It's time we get involved," he said.

In other action, the council:

—Approved a request to the California Council on Criminal Justice for a regional burglary grant. The request is being made by the Chino Police Department in cooperation with the Corona Police Department and Riverside Sheriff's Department. If approved, the $244,000 grant would provide the city with three additional burglary officers for a period of one year. Cost to the city would be about $4,500.

— Approved a resolution that will prohibit parking on portions of Mt. Vernon Avenue, C Street and Central Avenue during specified hours of the day.

—Approved a 61-lot subdivision map for property on the east side of East End Avenue north of Schaefer Avenue.

—Took a position opposing a state Senate bill that would prohibit City Councils from meeting in executive session to discuss meet-and-confer matters to to discuss dismissal of employes. The council directed the staff to relay its opposition through the League of California Cities at its next meeting.

—Continued consideration of a proposed street tree ordinance until the council's next regular meeting in two weeks.

—Announced that the initial presentation of the 1974-75 budget will be made at next Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. meeting.

What to do when alien's passport date expires

I am writing to you in the hope that you can help me with some information concerning legal residency in this country.

My husband first came to this country in 1967 with a passport from Guatemala. His passport has now expired and he is residing illegally in this country.

We have been married three years and have a 2-year-old son. I am a U.S. citizen.

I would like to know how I could go about helping him obtain his legal residency.

We have already obtained an application for residency at the Los Angeles office of immigration and naturalization.

I don't want to mail the application unless I'm sure my husband won't be sent to jail or be sent out of the country. We have bills here and our credit is good. We couldn't afford for this to happen.

My husband has no police record. He has been on his job for three years.

Also, could you tell me how long it takes to receive an answer after you have applied? Any information you could give us would be greatly appreciated. —Mrs. G. D., Montclair.

Since the Immigration and Naturalization Service is one of those government offices which is almost impossible to reach by phone, we wrote describing your circumstances without giving your name.

We were informed by an ambiguous note that if your husband files the application he will not have to leave the country until he is called in by the American consulate to pick up his visa for permanent residence. Apparently he must go back to Guatemala to get it.

Approval of a petition for permanent residence takes about two months, we were told.

An Action Line letter to the embassy of the United States in Guatemala brought more specific information.

"While every immigrant case has its own particular features," wrote James L. Halmo, American vice consul, "there are, at least, certain procedures which are standard in the case which you describe."

He said that you, as an American citizen, should file an immediate relative petition (Form 1-130) on behalf of your husband with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Los Angeles.

While your husband, through his birth in Guatemala, is normally subject to the annual numerical limitation imposed by the Immigration and Nationality Act on immigration to the United States by natives of the western hemisphere (120,000 per year), his marriage to a U.S. citizen exempts him from this limitation.

Upon receipt of the approved petition from the Immigration and Natrualization Service, the embassy will send you a list of documents your husband will need at the time he presents his formal application for an immigration visa.

Halmo's letter listed some of the documents needed and gave additional information and instructions.

He added that ". . .it is our experience that spouses of United States citizens are not normally placed in jail when their illegal status is discovered.

"More frequently, they are questioned by officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and placed under docket control, requiring that they report to the service at specific times. However, your questions on this matter can only adequately be answered by officials of the service."

A CLOSE CALL

Officer Harvey Lane, assigned to the California Highway Patrol office in Claremont, checks his patrol car which was demolished Tuesday on the San Bernardino Freeway in Ontario. He was standing along the freeway talking to a truck driver when a truck struck his car, pushing the auto against a stopped truck and then across an offramp into a fence. Lane suffered a cut knee. He was treated at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland and later released.

Theater hopes still alive

POMONA — The City Council still wants to go ahead with a study into the structural soundness of the old United Artists Theater.

Some citizens are interested in using the theater for a civic facility and the study would deal with the kind of structural improvements that would be needed for this.

The study originally was requested by the council April 29 when it authorized an expenditure of up to $3,000 for this purpose.

But the study apparently was never started. After the expenditure was authorized, the city was unable to get an extension on an option to purchase or lease the building, said City Administrator Jerrold Gonce in a letter to the council Monday.

Gonce said a letter from Mayor Ray J. Lepire about this development to Dr. Robert L. Davis, chairman of the Cultural Arts Commission, "prompted me to cease all efforts to carry out the structural feasibility study previously authorized."

In a letter to the council, Gonce said Lepire reviewed the matter "with the majority of the council who objected to committing budget funds in excess of those agreed upon for the study until such time as the 1974-75 budget had been reviewed."

The matter was raised Monday by Councilman Ben Ochoa Sr. who said there seemed to be a misunderstanding about the council's action.

Ochoa said that in the event funds should be made available at a future date for the use of the theater as a civic auditorium, the city should know something about the building's condition, and therefore favored proceeding with the study.

Claremont council shifts to new majority—women

CLAREMONT — The Claremont City Council will have a unique distinction next Tuesday — three women members.

Mrs. Eleanor Cohen, city planning commissioner and mother of two, easily won a seat on the council Tuesday in a special race combined with the primary election.

In unofficial returns, Mrs. Cohen received 3,808 votes to 2,678 for runner-up William McLaughlin, 375 for Joseph Armendarez and 336 for Teena Ann Boyk, the latter two college students.

Mrs. Cohen will be seated next Tuesday at the regular council meeting and will succeed former Mayor Craig McManigal who resigned Dec. 31, 1973, because of the new state disclosure law.

Fifty-five per cent of the city's 13,877 voters cast their ballots and swept Mrs. Cohen to a relatively easy win.

A friend phoned Mrs. Cohen at 3:30 a.m. today to inform her that she enjoyed a 900-vote lead over McLaughlin, but Mrs. Cohen still couldn't believe that she had won.

ELEANOR COHEN

Mrs. Cohen in her first try at public office two years ago lost out to insurance man Frank Hungerford by 220 votes.

"I'm all ready to go to work," the jubilant brunette commented. She attributed her victory to her campaigning on issues she feels are most important, such as traffic, bicycle and pedestrian safety.

"I campaigned on people-oriented problems, and I feel grateful in that sense that the citizens backed me," she said.

She also commented that she campaigned on a realistic approach to a sounder tax base for Claremont.

Mrs. Cohen said that for a year she had been trying to get the Planning Commission to expedite applications for future developers, so that businessmen do not have to make repeated visits to commissions.

Opinion

Free postage: a Pandora's box

Rising postal costs are a threat to the free flow of public opinion, says Sharon Stark, editor of the consumer magazine, "Everybody's Money."

An editorial in the magazine's Summer 1974 issue urges its readers to support a bill introduced by Rep. Harold Froehlich (R-Wis.) which would provide postage-free mail service for people writing to their elected representatives in Washington.

This would give the citizenry the same free postage rights that senators and congressmen have. It would, says the editorial, open the door to more "input" from the public and more responsibility on the part of our elected representatives "in this era of distrust in government at all levels."

The magazine notes that since first-class postage went up to 10 cents it has received much less mail and wonders if it could be that its readers have sworn off letters to the editors as one way of fighting inflation.

"Sooner or later," says the editorial, "consistent postage increases are bound to have an adverse effect on freedom of expression, and hence, our entire political process."

There's little doubt that free postage would encourage the sending of a lot more messages to Washington. The question is, how many of them would really be necessary and constructive? Despite inflation, if a person has a beef he thinks is important — or even a compliment — it would seem that he can still afford a dime for a stamp.

Anyway, nothing in this world is "free." To subsidize free mail to Washington, the Postal Service would probably just turn around and raise the rates on all other mail.

Jobs coming up

Summer time is vacation time for most students and it's also time to earn some scratch for those things one needs when one is young and trying to get an education.

Unfortunately, the ones who need summer jobs the most are often the ones who find it hardest to get them. The U.S. Department of Labor is doing something about that. It has allotted to California, Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii, Guam, American Samoa and the Trust Territories $300 million to provide public service jobs for some 700,000 economically disadvantaged high school and college students.

California's share is $27,797,900, for at least 70,500 summer jobs. Thirty-six local city and county governments will participate, with placement and advisory assistance from high schools and colleges in their areas. Labor department officials urge job seekers under 22 to contact their high school or local officials.

Experience requirements are minimal, but students are urged to indicate a preference so that they can gain some background that might be helpful later on.

Although the minimum wage law has been widely and soundly criticized because in so very many cases it makes jobs impossible to get for persons whose productivity would be uneconomical in the business world, in this case of government-sponsored summer jobs the $2 an hour minimum will serve a good purpose. It is a way of giving financial aid to needy young people with a good chance of return in the form of spending power and perhaps the beginnings of a self-supporting, productive life.

It speaks for itself

Thanks to the U.S. Supreme Court, American men are pretty well protected against the pernicious effects of X-rated movies, never mind the absence of any proof of a relationship between pornography and antisocial behavior.

Strangely, however, the eminent justices seem unconcerned about the equally mischievous influence of X-rated clothing worn by some female members of the population, even though here cause and effect are abundantly clearer.

It may be that no case of this nature has ever come to the attention of the high tribunal. If a recent episode that took place in a drug store in Tallmadge, Ohio, is typical, one may hope that this oversight will eventually be corrected.

The facts may be briefly stated:

The party of the first part, a matron described as wearing "tight pants and a halter," was waiting in line at the checkout counter of said drug store. Behind her was the party of the second part, described as a male of about 26 years.

Evidently seized by an overpowering urge, said party of the second part did then and there, wholly without warning, bite said party of the first part upon a prominent portion of her posterior.

An altercation thereupon ensued between the party of the second part and the husband of the party of the first part. The police were called, but said party of the second part had fled by the time they arrived.

According to the victim, her assailant was clad in T-shirt and jeans, stood approximately 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weighed about 180 pounds and had "a good set of teeth."

"Res ipsa loquitur," as the lawyers say. The thing speaks for itself.

Potomac plea: 'Do not impeach me'

WASHINGTON — Over brandy and a cigar aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia, President Nixon appealed to a dozen conservative congressmen the other evening to take a stand on impeachment.

"If you believe I am innocent," he urged, "vote against impeachment in the House. Dont pass the buck to the Senate.

He reportedly fears many representatives may try to get off the hook by casting a procedural vote for impeachment. They could explain they didn't mean to judge the President but merely wanted to bring the case before the Senate for a decision.

This rationale could produce an overwhelming House vote in favor of impeachment. The psychological impact, he is said to feel, could influence senators to vote to remove him from office.

So as the Sequoia cruised down the rain-swept Potomac, the President asked his conservative House friends to settle the impeachment issue in the House

He assured them that he has cooperated as far as he could with the House Judiciary Committee, which is inquiring into impeachment. He couldn't release tapes and documents, which might damage U.S. relations with other nations, he said.

He explained that he had had a number of private conversations with other heads of state. It would seriously violate international protocol, he said, if these conversations should be divulged.

The President's shipboard dinner companions were too polite to ask how these conversations could be compromised by release of the Watergate tapes. Presumably, he didn't discuss his Watergate woes with other world leaders.

The President, obviously cheered by the success of peace negotiations in the Middle East, was in a bantering, buoyant mood throughout the three-hour dinner cruise.

He joked with his guests about running Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for the Senate. Kissinger could be groomed for the seat of retiring Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and a bipartisan campaign could be organized to make Kissinger chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the President speculated gleefully.

He suggested that the resourceful Kissinger, as a Senate chairman, might even be able to negotiate peaceful relations between the Senate and the White House.

The President gloated over the defeat of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., which will remove him as Senate Foreign Relations chairman. As next in line, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., would have to give up the Senate Banking Chairmanship to take over Fulbright's chair.

The President said he hoped Sparkman will choose the Foreign Relations chairmanship, which he has now said he will do. And this would make Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the new Senate Banking chairman.

"Those bankers are beside themselves," chortled Nixon. "The bankers don't want Proxmire."

Speaking seriously, Nixon told his dinner guests that two days before the Syrian-Israeli truce, "I wouldn't have given a 50-50 chance of an agreement."

He told of the dramatic cables Kissinger had sent from the Middle East. Turning to his staff chief Alexander Haig, the President cracked: "If those cables could be published, they would make quite a book, wouldn't they?"

He was optimistic about his forthcoming summit with Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow. The President said he would have more flexibility to negotiate than would Brezhnev. The Soviet leader is far more subservient to the politburo, said Nixon, than most Americans realize.

On the other hand, he said, the Founding Fathers had given the American president more "maneuvering room" than other rulers possess.

Earlier in the evening, Rep. Gillespie Montgomery, D-Miss., asked Nixon magnanimously: "Mr. President, what can we do for you?"

The President responded to this offer by urging his conservative guests to support his veto of "irresponsible spending bills. "Government spending was spurring inflation, he said, which could become the nation's biggest headache.

He also admonished them not to let the Pentagon sell them a military force superior to that of the Soviets. "All we need is to be equal," said the President, "don't you guys let the military push you into superiority."

Footnote: The President served Chateaubriand, with mushrooms, peas and a spaghetti dish. He also passed out Sequoia matchbooks, which he autographed. This was the second time in two weeks that he has taken conservative congressmen on a dinner cruise as part of his effort to gain support against impeachment.

LUCRE FOR LITTON, Apparently, President Nixon has given his personal approval to a scheme which would eliminate thousands of civilian employes on military bases and turn their work over to big defense contractors.

The giants of the industry, such as Lockheed, RCA and ITT, would take over such functions as transportation, food services, hospitals, engineering, postal services and aircraft maintenance on the bases.

The idea of letting commercial contractors handle the "operational support services" was concocted by the President's budget slashers, whose boss is Roy Ash.

One of the chief benefactors of the scheme, it is expected, will be Litton Industries, the firm founded by Ash. He left Litton 18 months ago to join the White House.

When we first told about the contracting scheme last December, the budget office claimed the matter was so routine that Ash was not aware of it. But now it turns out that President Nixon himself is pushing it.

This is apparent from a packet of documents which Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements recently distributed to the various military services.

Among the papers, explaining the new contracting concept, is a "dear Jim" letter from the President to Defense Secretary James Schlesinger. The letter applauds the "management program that we launched a year ago."

Uncle Sam's waning energy

The big oil companies have announced soaring profits for the first quarter of this year, increases of 75 per cent and more!

That's good. That much profit should be enough to finance more high-risk exploration for petroleum reserves in the United States.

It is important that we do.

American oil companies have had to go outside our own country in order to earn those profits. On domestic production they were close to losing money. Considering inflation, some did!

We are still dependent on oil from the Middle East, and the price of Middle East oil has tripled in the last 12 months!

It would be easier to involve you in what I am about to say if you were still waiting in a long line at a filling station. You're not. But though our energy shortage is less apparent, it is no less real.

Our growing nation's consumption of energy has been increasing about 5 per cent per year and compounding. And 77 per cent of that energy comes from oil and natural gas.

Higher oil company profits will enable us to explore and develop more of our own petroleum reserves, but there appears no prospect for meeting the demands of these next 10 years without also expanding the use of coal and oil shale.

Mining these is costly and tedious, involves moving and processing 2 billion tons of shale to get 1.4 billion barrels of synthetic crude.

More and more, the U.S. economy, runs on electricity. Next year 30 per cent of all U.S. fuel consumption will be used in the production of electricity—and that percentage increases every year.

Other developing nations are also increasingly dependent on electricity. Supplying that need worldwide makes even the 350 billion barrels of oil in the Persian Gulf appear exhaustible.

My faith in the American genius for solving problems remains intact. We can still do the impossible when we have to.

We will lighten the load with smaller cars and self-discipline while we expand old energy sources and develop new ones.

But it is important that all Americans have a better understanding of what's happening lest we "run out of gas" and again blame the oil companies for not warning us.

They are warning us now—as they sought to warn us during the 1950s and 1960s.

Politicians, during an election year, find "big business" and "high profits," convenient targets for their rhetoric.

But it's going to require big investments by big businesses to fuel the future.

Committee for Fairness

It was ironic for me to hear so much against President Nixon following his release of the transcripts.

The Saturday after he released, and various newspapers printed excerpts of those transcripts, I was walking around Claremont, circulating petitions for the National Citizens Committee for Fairness to the Presidency. This group was organized by Rabbi Baruch Korff, when he saw what members of the media (television, radio, newspapers) were doing to President Nixon. It is a group that remembers that he opened up relations with Russia and China after more than twenty years, ended an unpopular war his Democratic predecessors had gotten us into and escalated, brought our men home, and is now trying to work out a lasting peace in the Middle East. Watergate is certainly a scandal, but no worse than other scandals which have been and are being ignored, the Humphrey and Mills campaigns being examples.

I collected ninety signatures that day. Apparently some other people remember these things.

This group is kept alive mainly by two things: 1) donations of any denomination, although not mandatory, and 2) petitions going to the President and Congress. This is vital. For those citizens who feel that President Nixon is not getting fair treatment, write to: National Citizens Committee for Fairness to the Presidency, 618 Industrial Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island 02903. — Kathryn Korewick, Claremont.

Gossip for today

What keeps our lawmakers busy these days? Silly questions! Like about 90 per cent of the people in the country are primarily obsessed with sex.

In Los Angeles an ordinance has just been passed which prohibits nudity in publications sold on sidewalk news racks if the nudity can be seen by passersby. On the inside pages, however, such art is OK since, as everyone knows, what you can't see won't hurt you.

At the state level our legislators have been busy removing "sexist" references from the California Constitution. But they also found time to ban pay toilets in government buildings on the grounds that such a practice discriminates against women since in the men's quarters there are free urinals.

And a new bill will make parents financially responsible for the graffiti their children scrawl on restroom walls. It provides that a fine of up to $2,000 can be imposed.

So I am not at all surprised that in Nevada a former "Madam" is running for State Assembly. Apparently there is an ever growing need in this country for officials who really know what to do when they are faced with governmental sex problems.

GARRY WILLS

Duke Ellington's special nobility

"It don't mean a thing, if it ain't got that swing." The words and music were his; but some jazz purists claimed that the Duke himself lacked the elusive thing called jazz spirit. His work, for all the growl of a Cootie Williams trumpet, was not funky or gutsy—not bawdy, not brutal, not estatic. Elegantly poised long before the age of "cool," the Ellington sound had spats and a topper, without ever becoming as vulgarly "classy" as Paul Whiteman. Not white, exactly—but "high yaller," like the Duke himself.

His great sin in the eyes of jazz fundamentalists was that he arranged his music. No virtuoso himself, he did not preside over the constant improvisation that was the miracle of jazz at its peak. Worse than that, he reached out to European forms—all those "rhapsodies" and "suites," the tone poems of impressionist pretension. Ellington achieved a slide of sound on sound like that of silk on skin—the many afternoons of a Harlem fawn.

No less a critic than President Nixon called him America's greatest composer. And eminent musicians have compared him with Ravel and Stravinsky (sometimes to their detriment)—which seems to miss the point of his work. He never had the outlook of the conventional composer. If he was not part of the orginal jazz set of improvisers, he was not, either, the kind of composer who leaves behind a library of scores. Even Scott Joplin was a more normal "composer" in that sense.

Ellington wrote always for immediate performance, and for his repertory company—his band. He had to keep it together, through thin times, in the same way that some apprentice violinists must starve themselves to "feed" a Strad. His band, they say, was his instrument—and the music went hot off the page into the band's horns and on through the recording microphone to us. He lived for performance, as much as any improviser. That is why his records will always matter more than his scores. His music never sounds the same when performed by others. The Ellington sound and skills were interlocked with the Ellington performers—men as skilled as any jazz improvisers, yet with the discipline to play his arrangements.

What was he, then? Composer, arranger, performer? None of those, simply. A blend of all three. He did not have the melodic or rhythmic inventiveness of Gershwin, the keyboard wizardry of James P. Johnson, or even the technical range of orchestration found in Grofe's work for Gershwin (if not for Whiteman). But he had a fourth thing that was a fusion of such skills in a unique role never seen before or since.

He did what Whiteman was trying to do, but did it right. He ranged out toward classical music, yet kept it to the scale of a jazz ensemble and tailored it to jazz musicians' skills. He broke new territory by a perfect realism in his self-evaluation, too assured to lack modesty, with a pride beyond mere egotism. He anticipated most developments in jazz, and outlived them all, because he was never contained by any of them—not the "productions" of the twenties, the swing of the thirties, the search for a new orchestral timbre by the big bands, the boogie-woogie unsettlements of wartime, the "modern" jazz of fifties classicism, the "soul" and religiosity of the sixties. He took something from each and gave back much more, going his own way.

Unlike even the greatest of his contemporaries (e.g., Louis Armstrong), he did not repeat himself but developed always, found new paths and challenges decade by decade, and died still growing.

By an endless shrewd complication, he reached that ultimate simplicity called wisdom; and those who have listened to the music will not be surprised by the casual majesty revealed in the Duke's words. Banned from a church because his music was too secular, he shrugged: "Every man prays in his own language, there is no language that God does not understand."

What class he had! Not the stuffed-shirt Whiteman facade. Nor Cole Porter's brittle sophistication. Not even Gershwin's prodigal conflagration of genius. Just the calm assurance of unfailing style and excellence. A stroke of historic justice gave him his nickname in childhood. He had the kind of nobility no man can confer, only God. and he knew it.

Ex-D.C. prosecutor tells Webb grads

Don't spurn government service

CLAREMONT — Charles R. Work, the first prosecutor called to the scene of the Watergate break-in, predicted at the Webb School commencement exercises that "contrary to public opinion polls, we will survive Watergate and come out of it stronger than before."

Work was then chief prosecutor of the Superior Court Division, Washington, D.C. He related personal incidents surrounding Watergate, which he termed "tragic" but he still encouraged students to consider government service when he addressed the 1974 graduating class Sunday.

Work, a Webb graduate in 1958, is now deputy administrator of the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

As far as staying away from government service is concerned, Work said that "you might as well stay away from life itself. We need your drive, intellect and imagination. Most of all, we need the ability you have gained at this school, which teaches you to make moral and ethical judgments."

Commissioner Philip A. Loomis Jr., of the Securities and Exchange Commission accepted an honorary membership in cum laude in recognition of his distinguished career.

A Webb graduate in 1933, Loomis, former Los Angeles attorney, has been with the SEC 20 years.

Earlier in the day, Pomona College President David Alexander, speaking at the baccalaureate services, said, "of all the oral and ethical dimensions of education, perhaps the most important is a sense of responsiblity for one another, which gives life and meaning to education."

"Seeing the consequences of our actions and learning of the countless interconnections which bind us inextricably to one antoher and to all mankind turns education from the selfish, puzzle-solving pursuit of knowledge into the devoted and dedicated willingness to help try to improve the world," Alexander said.

Headmaster Stephen R. Longley awarded diplomas to the following 42 graduates:

SALUTE to EAGLE SCOUTS

State court rejects Sam Yorty's petition

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The state's highest court has rejected former Mayor Sam Yorty's petition to invalidate City Council subpoena of his personal records in connection with the city's land swap with Occidental Petroleum Corp., it was disclosed Monday.

Phill Silver, Yorty's attorney, said he will ask the California Supreme Court to reconsider its ruling, and if it refuses, Yorty will "definitely" appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Silver said he would ask for reconsideration because a "very important" letter containing "numerous key cases" involved in the petition apparently was not received by the high court.

"The letters apparently crossed in the mail," he said.

Eagle Scouts honored

Ninety-eight valley boys who received the Eagle Scout award during 1973 were honored Monday at a special recognition luncheon hosted by Pomona Optimist Club.

Motto of the Optimists is "Friend of Youth," and in keeping with the club's tradition of saluting youth in the community each year, it was decided this year to honor Eagle Scouts from the Old Baldy Council.

Marrie Leighty, club president, handed a recognition plaque to each boy during the luncheon. Copies of the Optimist Creed also were distributed.

The luncheon, held at the Elks Lodge, was called to honor the Eagle Scouts for their contributions to the community and for goals and objectives they and Boy Scouts all over strive to attain.

Ron Brundridge, scout executive of the Old Baldy Council, in the major speech of the day, discussed "What It Takes To Be an Eagle Scout."

Out of 10,000 boys who enter scouting nationally, only one attains the rank of Eagle. Ninety-eight in the valley received their badges last year. They are:

Douglas Marshall, Ian Kessler, Todd Condit, Michael Bushman, Mark Kessler, Jeff Chamberlain, Birch Price, John McGlasson, Glen Lantz, Douglas Vind, Todd Elias, Conred Newbarry, David Otto, James Ethridge, Steven Julian.

Scout executive outlines what it takes to be Eagle

"What It Takes to Be an Eagle Scout" was the title of the keynote speech delivered Monday by Ron Brundridge, scout executive of the Old Baldy Council, at a recognition luncheon honoring 98 Eagle Scouts.

Brundridge's speech was heard by the scouts and their parents, and members of the Pomona Optimist Club, who hosted the luncheon.

Brundridge told his audience:

"The highest award that can be earned by a boy in the Boy Scout program is that of the Eagle rank. Less than one per cent of the boys who enter the scouting program attain the rank of Eagle. However, in the Old Baldy Council last year there were 98 boys who attained that rank, which would be about 30 per cent of the boys eligible. So as you can see, in the Old Baldy Council an excellent job is being accomplished by the volunteer unit leaders.

"It takes a lot of time and effort to attain the rank of Eagle. The boy must complete the requirements of Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, Life and to then attain the rank of Eagle he must earn 24 merit badges and complete a service project which must be approved by his scoutmaster and usually the District Advancement Committee.

"Now I think it is very important that we realize that this project is not a small project in nature, but it is one which takes a great deal of time and a great deal of planning, and I would say most of them are self-financed.

"One very good example of an Eagle Scout project was the putting in of an automatic sprinkler system at the Council Service Center. This was planned, executed and financed by the Eagle candidate himself. While he did not take the money out of his own pocket, he secured the needed dollars as well as the number of fittings from different companies at no cost.

"The effort put forth by the Eagle Scout is certainly important, but no more important is the effort of the mother and father and thousands of volunteer leaders, because I think each and every Eagle here today would attest to the fact that without the help of his parents and his leaders, it would have been impossible for him to achieve this rank.

"Each and every Eagle has an obligation before he can really call himself an Eagle and that obligation is to bring another scout along the advancement trail to the Eagle rank.

"And then I would tell each and every one of the Eagles that they should repay to the scouting program, sometime in their lifetime, by bringing some of the benefits that they have received back to scouting by becoming a volunteer leader

World fish catch down

ROME (UPI) — The total catch of fish throughout the world dropped sharply in 1972, reversing the upward trend of the past quarter century, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) said recently.

In its yearbook of fishery statistics based on official data from 220 governments, FAO said the world catch was 65.5 million metric tons in 1972.

This was down from the record 69.7 million tons in 1971, Fao said, noting that almost every year since 1948 —when 19.6 million tons were netted — saw an increase in the catch.

Japan rose from second to first in world fishery exploitation with a catch of 10.2 million tons while Peru dropped from first to fourth, FAO said.

Peru's catch, mostly anchoveta used to make fish meal for animal feed, declined from a record 12.6 million tons in 1970 to 10.6 million tons in 1971 and less than 4.8 million tons in 1972, the FAO yearbook said.

The Soviet Union was second in fish catch in 1972 with 7.8 million tons and China third with an estimated catch of about 7.6 million tons, FAO said.

Fact sheet lists scout successes

A fact sheet listing accomplishments and activities of the Old Baldy Council has been released by Ron Brundridge, the council's scout executive.

According to the list, there presently are 9,032 valley boys in scouting, 4,365 adults volunteers, and 300 scout troops, cub packs and explorer posts.

Ninety-eight valley scouts received the Eagle badge in 1973, 41 leading businessmen now serve as executive board members of the council, 1,000 acres are owned by the council for camping, and 20,000 spectators viewed this year's Scout-O-Rama, with 120 units participating.

Also, the list said, 800 scouts will attend summer camp at Holcomb valley this year and 200 Cub Scouts will attend Cub Scout Day Camp.

Other facts revealed were that 6,543 Cub Scouts earned advancement badges during 1973 and 3,445 badges were attained by Boy Scouts.

Adult and boy leaders spent 6,000 hours training scouts in 1973 and 122,103 hours were spent by volunteers "giving scouting to the boys."

Scout traces history of campground

Service projects are one of the toughest tasks facing an aspiring Eagle Scout—just ask Dan Brown.

Brown, of Claremont, prepared a booklet tracing the history of Holcomb Valley and the Boy Scout campgrounds there, in order to complete service project requirements to gain Eagle rank.

With the help of his parents and adult scouting leaders, the youth secured historical pictures from a museum and traced newspaper clippings back to ranching, farming and gold rush days at Holcomb Valley.

He prepared a booklet using photocopies of newspaper clippings and other historical pieces including pictures, for use by future scouts.

According to Ron Brundridge, scout executive of Old Baldy Council, the booklet will be used "to make everyone aware who attends summer camp in the Holcomb Valley of the history of the region."

Camp personnel will study the booklet, he indicated, and explain the history of the campgrounds and valley to the scouts.

Thanks to Dan Brown, not only has another service project been completed and a scout joined the Eagle ranks, but a service has been rendered to the community and scouting, said Brundridge.

Optimists befriend youths

An optimist club is a voluntary organization of civic-minded men banded together for community service, self development and fellowship.

Members are motivated by the desire to contribute to the community from which they and their families draw daily benefits.

Members realize they are best paid for things done voluntarily. They sponsor youth groups, sports leagues and help the needy. Clubs engage in projects to assist law enforcement officials, safety agencies, educational and cultural activities. Optimist clubs do whatever needs to be done in the community.

Individual Optimist clubs existed as early as 1911. In June of 1919, representatives of 11 Optimist clubs met in Louisville, Kentucky to discuss mutual objectives and activities. This was the beginning of Optimist International and the establishment of Optimist clubs throughout North America.

Today, Optimist International is a federation of more than 3,000 clubs with well over 100,000 club members.

The Pomona Optimist club, which meets every Monday at noon at the Elks Club, was granted its charter Feb. 10, 1946. The club was sponsored by the Downtown Optimist club of Los Angeles. The Pomona Optimists some years later sponsored the Pomona Breakfast club, the Pomona Evening club, the Montclair Breakfast Club, the Cal Poly Breakfast Club and an Optimist Club in Fullerton.

Current officers of the Pomona club are Murrie Leighty, president, Gil Brookings, vice president, Burnie Cohen, secretary, Bob Johnson, treasurer, and Jim Barcena, sergeant-at-arms.

The motto of Optimists is "Friend of Youth." Consequently, many of the projects have been done with the youth in mind. For a number of years the Pomona Optimist Club has sponsored a little league baseball team and has also sponsored two soccer teams in the American Youth Soccer Organization.

Sports are not the only activities of the club, which sponsors Scout Troop 121 of Old Baldy Council and has also bought the uniforms for the Junior Police Club, sponsored by the Y.M.C.A.

In years past the club played an important role in the founding of Leroy Boy's Home. Members helped with the labor and the club contributed financially to the home. Last year the club furnished the lounge for the boys.

This club is among many Optimist clubs that is responsible for the Optimists Home for Boys in Los Angeles. A club member was president of the board of the boys home for a number of years and served with such dedication that the gym at the home upon completion was dedicated to that member. The boys home houses approximately 56 boys and is now in the process of building its own high school.

Other programs sponsored by the club were dances held for high school students at Palomares Park and a bike safety program in cooperation with the police department. Bikes were inspected for brakes and safety and the bike riders were instructed on hand signals and safe driving. The club co-sponsored an "economy run" with the Cal Poly club, and has also aided the Pomona Optimist Breakfast Club with Fireworks on July 4 at the Fairgrounds.

The club has aided many college students financially so that they were able to remain in college, and has given many anonymous gifts of food and clothing to poor families.

The club's annual program is an oratorical contest. The first national contest was held in 1928 and was won by Carl Purpero who owns a restaurant on Holt Avenue.

Bob Hope, in the early days, made three yearly appearances for the club at the Fox Theater in Pomona. These benefits enabled the club to build a cabin for the girl scouts at their camp.

Following is the Optimist Creed:

"Promise Yourself—

"To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.

"To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet.

"To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.

"To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.

"To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best.

"To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own.

"To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.

"To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.

"To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others.

"To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble."

Rice's importance

Rice is such an important part of the Asian diet that in Chinese and Japanese, the words for rice are synonymous with "food" and "meal." At one time, the grain was used as money in many countries.

Sprinklers help scout get badge

Steve Julian proved to be an expert organizer — and that's a key reason why he moved up to the rank of Eagle Scout.

Julian, of Boy Scout Troop 116, Pomona, chose as his Eagle Scout service project the installation of a sprinkler system at the Old Baldy council Service Center. To complete the project, he had to solicit help.

He organized parents and adult scout leaders in picking up materials, gaining donations from willing businessmen and others, and in completing the labor on the project.

The OPTIMIST CLUB of POMONA SALUTES the EAGLE SCOUTS

For his dedication to his country and the Boy Scout movement. For his intelligence to learn new skills.
For his perserverance to achieve the goal he set for himself, the Optimist Club of Pomona honors each Eagle Scout today.

What he has learned and earned will help him to become a more competent human being as well as a better neighbor. He will abide by the Golden Rule. He will help others less fortunate than himself. He will fulfill his obligations to his school, his church, his community.
There is a lesson here none of us can ignore.

For it is within this group that the future and strength of America lies. It is with this idea in mind that the Optimist Club of Pomona initiated this "Salute to Eagle Scouts". Membership in the Optimist Club is an affirmation of faith in the future of America, and new members are welcome.

Older woman loses interest

The older the woman grows, it's said, the less interest she holds in music and art . . . Lots of people don't realize that wicker lawn furniture lasts longer if it's rained on periodically . . .

Q. "How do you make tiger's milk?"

A. Nothing to it. Take a quart of milk, two teaspoonfuls of brewer's yeast, a half cup of soy flour and a half can of frozen orange juice. Mix it all up in a blender. That's it.

Darling

When to use "darling" and when to use "dear," that's what a client wants to know. Just a matter of size, this. Our Language man states that if whatever you're calling is little, you can say darling, but if it's big, call it dear. He is of the opinion that petite wives should address their burly husbands as dear, but never darling. And that those same sizable men should speak to their wives as darling, but not ear. Our Love and War man says. "I do not concur, honey!"

So Rand devised the collapsible lead tube to preserve oil paints.

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has extended for three years a contract with the National Lead Co. of Ohio for operation of the agency's feed materials production center.

Policeman feels Patty 'safer with Harrises'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A police investigator believes fugitives Patsicia Hearst' William and Emily Harris would have been friends even if they had not met because of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I can see why, understand why, the Harrises and Patty Hearst would gravitate toward each other," said homicide Sgt. John Agler of the Oakland Police Department.

"The parallel between Emily and Patty is so striking, you can bet they'd be friends wherever they met," Agler said.

"I have a strong feeling that Patty is probably safer now in the care and company of the Harrises. I don't see the background of a lot of criminal activity, Agler's remarks appeared in the Sunday edition of the San Francisco Examiner, whose president and editor, Randolph A. Hearst, is Miss Hearst's father.

Miss Hearst, 20, was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment by the SLA Feb. 4, but later in tape recordings said she had renounced her old way of life and had joined the group.

She and the Harrises have been sought by the FBI on numerous charges since six SLA members died in a police shootout and fire in Los Angeles May 17.

They were believed still in the Los Angeles area and have been the objects of an intensive manhunt since authorities filed 20 criminal charges against Miss Hearst and 19 against the Harrises.

Agler said he came to know of the Harrises through his investigation of the SLA slaying of Oakland school superintendent Dr. Marcus A. Foster last November.

He said he was first impressed by similarities of the apartments kept by the Harrises and Miss Hearst. Most SLA hideouts discovered have been "filthy" with clothing and debris scattered about, he said.

But the Harris apartment was a model of neatness, Agler said. There was a color television, fine china and imported knives and expensive and tasteful clothing.

"And Patty Hearst kept a similar design with simlar clean, orderly apartment of furnishings," Agler said.

"They come from the same backgrounds. Their parents have money. Their educational levels or aspirations are similar. And, cosmetically speaking, they are nicer-looking people."

Widow feels grief, worry killed mate

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The widow of a bartender who died of a heart attack five days after two friends drank themselves to death in his bar says grief and worry probably brought on the attack.

Catherine Kidd said her husband, Claude, 52, did not feel the Memorial Day deaths of his "close friends" Walter Wade, 39, and Eugene Cole, 32, were his fault.

Wade and Cole died after drinking more than a quart of gin each in less than an hour during a duel with shots of gin. Kidd's bar is licensed to serve only beer and wine.

Mrs. Kidd said her husband grieved over the deaths and was upset about talk that police might file manslaughter charges against him and take away his bar license. Kidd, who had a history of coronary trouble, died last Friday.

Police Capt. John Vesey said Monday that officers had only been "thinking about" filing charges against Kidd and that the state Beverage Department has the case under investigation.

First sulphur plant in U.S.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The first experimental plants in the United States for the recovery of sulfur from natural gas were built in South Arkansas.

The experimental plants led to the construction of two full scale commercial plants, one of which produced approximately 100 tons of sulfur daily by purifying "sour" gas.

Sulfur, as a raw material, is important because it can be converted to sulfuric acid, which has numerous industrial applications.

Cleveland forfeits after mob riots

CLEVELAND (UPI) — "If it wasn't for the Cleveland players tonight, we would have got killed."

Those were the words of a Texas Rangers' player Tuesday night after a near-riot broke out in the ninth inning of the first game of a three-game series between the Rangers and the Indians.

After Indians' third baseman John Lowenstein's sacrifice fly scored Ed Crosby with the tying run that tied the score at 5-5 in the ninth, part of the crowd of 25,134 on hand for "10-cent Beer Night" jumped out of the stands and charged Texas rightfielder Jeff Burroughs.

The Texas bench rushed out to help Burroughs with Cleveland players also charging out to help the Rangers. When Burroughs fought back against the crowd, umpire Nester Chylak was hit in the head by a chair and it was at that point that the game was forfeited to the Rangers.

The score goes into the records as 9-0 and all records are official. There were no winning and losing ptichers because the score was tied.

"Two guys punched Burroughs and there was no way we would let them get on him, said Texas Manager Billy Martin. "He could have got his head battered and as it was, he came out of it with a jammed thumb. We just wanted good, clean baseball but all they had out there were complete idiots, jerks."

"It was the worst sports showing that I have ever seen in my history of baseball but I am very proud of the Cleveland players. The Cleveland team saved our lives and I called (Manager Ken) Aspromonte after the game and told him that."

There was an added irony in that the Rangers and Indians battled each other last week in Texas over a beanball accusatibn against Cleveland pitcher Milt Wilcox.

The Texas bullpen, which had been belted with firecrackers, smoke bombs and paper cups, headed for its dugout in the seventh inning.

Chylak felt that "we went as far as we could go and the Texas club did a fine job of staying in the dugout. I told Billy that he could bring in a pitcher whenever he wanted to and I'd give them time to warm up."

"They were just uncontrollable beasts out there. They hit me with a chair and hit one of the Cleveland players. The only place you would ever experience anything like this again would be in a zoo. I thought the police did a fine job, especially after being outnumbered and I'm sorry the Cleveland club had to suffer the forefeit."

The forfeit was the first since the Senators forfeited to the New York Yankees in Washington on Sept. 29, 1971.

"When Chylak got hit on the head, I knew we lost the game," said Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte, who watched his club bounce back from a 5-1 deficit to tie the game in the ninth inning. "It's just disgraceful. You go out there trying to win a game and then end up having to protect yourself."

"I have never seen anything like this before," said Cleveland catcher Dave Duncan while pitcher Steve Kline, who came to the Indians from New York, said, "the Yankee fans are angels compared to what I saw tonight. What if Gaylord Perry or other players had been hurt in the scuffle? We could have lost our whole pitching staff."

Cleveland police reported nine persons were arrested after the incident. There were no injuries reported.

After a pair of homers by Tom Grieve and back-to-back doubles by Jim Sundberg and Cesar Tovar had given the Rangers a 3-0 lead Ferguson Jenkins left the game after being spiked on the left knee in a collision at third base with Lee.

The Indians rallied against Steve Foucault before the "fans" sent the Tribe to their 28th loss.

Tension kept building throughout the game as young fans kept running through the outfield and the first streaker of the year made his appearance in the seventh inning.

"Yes I would have protested the game," said Martin. "When you get warned more than once, it's time for a forfeit.

"Our fans in Texas should not retaliate because of tonight. But if those guys ever came to Texas, there would be a real war. The only guys I would protect would be my players and the guys from Cleveland because they saved us tonight."

Win game, lose draw

Leopards need two victories

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — La Verne College won the baseball game, but lost the draw Tuesday night here at Phil Welch Stadium.

The Leopards (37-8) stopped Sam Houston State, 4-2. Long John Verhoeven, the Leos' money pitcher all season, did it again. The big Dutchman snapped the Texans' winning streak at 17 and won his 14th game against a single loss.

But tonight, La Verne hopes will be riding on the shoulders of an unheralded sophomore. Tim Kelly (1-1) with a total of only 36 2-3 innings pitched, will be on the mound against Jim Miller (11-2) as the Leos face the Texans (41-10) the second time in a row.

Lewis University (38-13), bye

Thursday's title game
Lewis U. vs. La Verne-Sam Houston St. winner, 5:30 p.m.

Tonight's 5:30 p.m. (PDT) repeat is the result of a draw held immediately after La Verne had dealt the Bearkats their first tournament loss.

Lewis University (38-13) eliminated Point Park (19-5) in Tuesday's first game, 6-3. That left Lewis, La Verne and Sam Houston each with one loss. A draw was held to determine which of the three would get a bye tonight.

Lewis won the draw and automatically went into the title game Thursday night. The Flyers will play the winner of tonight's La Verne-Sam Houston game for the NAIA national championship.

The Leopards win Tuesday was not without its shaky moments. Verhoeven struck out eight, but walked four, hit a batter and threw a wild pitch.

The big righthander walked the bases loaded with nobody out in the eighth inning and it was nervous time. But after a chat with coach Ben Hines, the Leopard ace reached back and found something extra. He got six straight outs, three of them via strikeouts.

"Verhoeven is the guy who got us here," commented Hines. "He's the guy that's been doing it for us all year. Some people probably thought I should have put in another pitcher when he walked the bases loaded. But why should I take him out when he's been getting them out for us all year?"

No one can dispute that. In addition to his fine 14-1 record, Verhoeven has three saves to his credit. In 117 2-3 innings, he has struck out 118, walked only 27 and posted a sparkling 1.22 earned run average.

Kelly, the sophomore from Santa Clara who will pitch tonight, is no slouch either.

The 19-year-old battler has an excellent 0.98 ERA. Like the rest of the La Verne staff, he has a fine strikeout-walk ratio. In 36 2-3 innings, Kelly has struck out 29 and walked only 10.

"In the last three games, he's really thrown well," said Hines in revealing his pitching selection. "I think it's a tribute to him that coach (Dan) Drake has given him the nod. I think Tim is going to be a real winner in the future and he might as well start now."

Sam Houston coach Bob Britt reached into his seemingly bottomless bag of pitchers and started lefthander Joe Roche (4-1) against the Leos Tuesday night.

Roche was the fourth different starter for SHS in four games. He was in trouble in the second inning but escaped when the Leopards left runners on first and third.

But he couldn't wriggle free in the third. Hank Merenda drew a walk and moved to second on Paul Fleming's sacrifice. Mike Alonso struck out, but Wayne Redfearn came through again.

Redfearn hit Roche's first pitch into left field to score Merenda. Nick Leyva flied out to end the inning, but the Leos were right back snapping at Roche in the fourth frame.

With one out, Eric Frazier was safe on an error. Don Snyder sacrificed and Rich Fielder also reached base on an error with Frazier moving to third.

Merenda lined Roche's first offering into left field to score Frazier. Fleming hit a line single to center driving in Fielder. Alonso singled sharply to left and Merenda scored.

That was the last La Verne hit of the game. Roche departed in the fifth after walking the first batter. Righthander Fred Warren replaced Roche and retired 12 of the next 13 batters in a row. The fourth Bearkat error gave the Leopards their only base runner off Warren.

Sam Houston scored in the seventh on a hit batter, a double and a sacrifice fly. In the eighth Verhoeven really got into trouble.

He walked Sam Monteau on four pitches and Tom Wendt and Jim Bates on five each. But, as Hines had remarked, Verhoeven got them out all year and he did it again this time.

A force out at second scored Monteau and that was all SHS got. Verhoeven struck out Steve Maas and got Paul Leggett to tap to the mound. In the ninth, the big Dutchman struck out two of the three batters he faced.

"Nobody has gotten four runs off John all year," grinned Hines. "I figured we had the game won when we got our fourth run." Once again the coach was right.

TOURNAMENT TOPICS: The Leos are by far the best hitting team in the tournament. Their team average is .273. Sam Houston is averaging .208. Lewis U. has the lowest batting average here, .194. The Flyers also have the worst ERA, 3.80. La Verne's staff ERA is 2.34. It would be lower except for Robb Mayhew's ballooning 9.05. Sam Houston's staff ERA is 1.32. Miller, tonight's hurler, hasn't allowed an earned run here.

Tommy John records No. 9

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Tommy John won't remind Dodger fans of Sandy Koufax but the stylish lefthander is proving just as effective this season.

In contrast to the hard-throwing Koufax, John is content to let his sinker force the batters to hit soft grounders for easy outs.

John was at the top of his game Tuesday night in blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-0, on five hits to record his ninth victory in 10 decisions to tie Cleveland's Gaylord Perry for the most wins this season in the major leagues.

"I felt super strong tonight," John said after earning his fourth consecutive win. "I had a good sinker tonight. That's my big pitch. If I can keep the ball down, I'm on my game."

It was John's third shutout of the season and his fifth complete game victory, one more then his season totals during his first two campaigns as a Dodger.

John only threw 99 pitches Tuesday with 66 of them strikes.

"That was one of John's better games," commented Dodger manager Walt Alston. "You have to pitch well to shut out that club. John has a great assortment of pitches."

Another lefthander, Doug Rau (5-1) will be on the mound tonight for the Dodgers in the middle game of the series. He will be facing a Pirate lineup which hasn't scored an earned run in 28 innings.

"To beat a club like Pittsburgh is a big thing," John said. "They have one of the toughest lineups around. I can't believe they are in last place in the East."

The Dodgers continued to display their hot bats as they won their 21st of 26 home games to maintain a 6½ game lead over Cincinnati in the National League West standings.

Platooning outfielder Tommy Paciorek became a hero when he belted a Jerry Reuss pitch for a bases-loaded triple in the third-inning to give John all the runs he needed.

"I've chanced my philosophy," Paciorek said about his status. "I'm just not worrying about not starting every game. I wasn't having fun so I just said to hell with it."

Second baseman Davey Lopes, who has been battling a slump and a back injury, returned to the lineup with three singles and three stolen bases to raise his season SB total to 20.

Joe Ferguson, who is now playing in the outfield against lefthanders, hit a double in the fifth inning to score Steve Garvey to extend his hitting streak to11 games. In that span, he has raised his average from .202 to .283.

Catcher Steve Yeager went hitless but he still made a big contribution. The Dodgers own a perfect 21-0 record in games with Yeager behind the plate.

DODGER DATA — Unhappy Von Joshua, who would like to be traded because of his inactivity with the Dodgers, didn't receive much satisfaction in a meeting with Peter O'Malley, the club's president. O'Malley responded with the message that unselfish team spirit will lead to a pennant . . .

Lefthander Jim Rooker (2-4) will pitch against Rau tonight. Thursday's probables list Andy Messersmith (5-1) vs. Ken Brett (6-3).

Seattle gets NFL team with stadium big asset

NEW YORK (UPI) If a city wants a National Football League franchise, it doesn't hurt to build a domed stadium.

The lure of a domed stadium was one of the main reasons why Seattle, which lost its American League baseball franchise to Milwaukee after the 1969 season, was awarded the 28th NFL franchise Tuesday at the league owners meetings.

Seattle's new domed stadium is supposed to be completed in the summer of 1975 and that was its major selling point.

Seattle will join Tampa, which was voted a franchise in April, in the league in 1976— although Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that Tampa interests are trying to get the NFL to push up the date to 1975.

The owners for the Seattle and Tampa teams haven't been picked but each franchise will cost $16 million. That's $32 million the 26 existing teams will be able to divide or more than a $1 million for each club.

For the money, the two new teams will get the franchise and a bunch of castoffs from the existing teams—although the exact stocking plan hasn't yet been devised.

The big losers Tuesday were Memphis and Phoenix, which had high hopes of getting franchises when it was thought the league might expand to 30 teams. But the NFL owners had second thoughts about adding four clubs at once and decided to just admit two at this time.

Honolulu was also a longshot entry but the travel problems involved hurt its chances.

Rozelle said that future expansion is an "open deck" and that cities with NFL teams, including New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, will be considered.

Once the remodeling of Yankee Stadium is completed in New York, the NFL might want to add a third team to New York to keep the World Football League New York Stars from getting exclusive use of the stadium. The New York Giants are moving to the Meadowlands in New Jersey.

Although it was reported that rental terms for the new domed stadium in Seattle were holding up the city's bid to land an NFL franchise, Rozelle said that all of those problems have been solved and the terms now were "quite equitable."

The owners will continue their meetings Wednesday and Thursday, discussing the upcoming negotiations with the players and the threat posed by the new WFL.

Murphy's relief job too much for Angels

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Kevin Kobel started, Ed Rodriguez got the win but Tom Murphy did the job for the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday night.

The Brewers snapped a three-game losing streak by battling back for a 4-3 victory over the California Angels but the win seemed in doubt in the top of the eighth inning.

Murphy, Milwaukee's third pitcher, relieved Rodriguez with the bases full and only one out. Murphy's second pitch was promptly bounced into a double play ball to end the inning. He got the Angels out in order in the ninth for his fifth save.

"When you get out of that without a run scoring, you've done just about as good a job as you can," said Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall.

Murphy knew just what he had to do. "I guess he brought me in because when I'm throwing good I keep the ball low with my sinker," Murphy said. "Throwing that way I should get a lot of ground balls and that's just what happened."

Crandall said he took 20-year-old rookie Kobel out in the sixth "because he just didn't have command tonight at all." Kobel gave up three runs and had pitched to three batters in the sixth when he was yanked.

Rodriguez got the side out in the sixth and seventh before he ran into trouble and Murphy came on.

Bill Singer, who went all the way for the Angels is now 7-4. He allowed only one run—in the second on a pair of singles and a stolen base—until the Brewers got to him in the seventh.

Trailing 3-1, Milwaukee's three-run rally began with a double by Mike Hegan and a single by Bob Coluccio. Pedro Garcia singled in one run, and after a sacrifice bunt, Tim Johnson drove in the tying run with an infield out. Dave May singled in the lead run.

The Angels got their first run in the fifth when Dave Chalk drove in Ellie Rodriguez. They added two more in the sixth on a single by Bob Oliver, Joe Lahoud's double, Paul Schaal's single and a sacrifice fly by Rodriguez.

The win was the Brewers' fourth without a loss against California this season. Nolan Ryan (7-5) will hurl for the Angels tonight against Jim Slaton (6-6).

Walnut's Parrish 1st round choice

NEW YORK — Catcher-third baseman Lance Parrish of Walnut High was tabbed by the Detroit Tigers today on the first round of baseball's June free agent draft.

Parrish batted .400 for Walnut this season and was named to the All-Hacienda League team as a catcher. He was the 16th player to be drafted on the first round.

A quarterback for the Walnut football team, Parrish was the Progress-Bulletin's Valley Player of the Year for the 1973 season. He shared the honor with Chino lineman Randy Rizo.

The 6-foot-3, 196-pound senior has signed a national letter of intent to attend UCLA on a football scholarship. The national letter, however, would not bind him from signing a professional baseball contract with the Tigers.

The San Diego Padres opened the draft by picking 21-year-old Brown University shortstop Bill Almon. Almon hit .365 with 12 home runs and stole 14 bases in 15 attempts this season for Brown.

The Texas Rangers picked pitcher Tom Boggs, 6-2, 201-pounds high school righthander, and immediately signed the Austin, Tex., native to a contract.

Philadelphia then chose outfielder Ronnie Smith of Compton, Calif. Cleveland followed by taking Lewis College senior Thomas Brennan of Oaklawn, Ill., a 6-1 righthanded pitcher whose four-year record was 42-7 with 500 strikeouts in 386 innings.

Catcher Dale Murphy of Portland, Ore., was selected by Atlanta, while Milwaukee took pitcher Claude Edge of Sacramento, Calif.

The next two players chosen were also pitchers, as the Chicago Cubs grabbed lefthander Vernon Thompson of Renfro, Pa. and the White Sox picked righthander Larry Monroe, of Mt. Prospect, Ill.

Montreal took third baseman Ronald Sorey of Dayton, Ohio; California chose Louisiana State shortstop Mike Miley, a switch hitter; Pittsburgh selected lefthanded pitcher Rod Scurry of Sparks, Nev.; the New York Yankees grabbed 18-year-old shortstop Dennis Sherrill of Miami, Fla., and St. Louis chose shortstop Gary Templeton of Santa Ana, Calif.

Shortstop Ted Shipley of Vanderbilt was taken by Minnesota and Houston followed by selecting outfielder Kevin Drake of Lompoc, Calif. The New York Mets took righthanded pitcher Robert Speck of Beaverton, Ore.; Kansas City picked outfielder Willie Wilson, a high school all-American football player at Summit, N.J.; and San Francisco took second baseman Terry Lee of San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Boston took University of South Carolina shotstop Edward Joseph Ford, the son of Yankee pitching coach Whitey Ford, their first round pick. Ford is a switch hitter.

Los Angeles selected righthand pitcher Richard Sutcliffe, Jr., of Independence, Mo.; Oakland grabbed catcher Jerry Johnson of Austin, Tex.; Cincinnati selected righthanded pitcher Steve Reed of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Baltimore concluded the first round by choosing third baseman Richard Dauer of the University of Southern California.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Ruben Olivares, Mexico, and Zensuke Utagawa, Tokyo, will fight for the vacated World Boxing Association featherweight title at the Forum on July 8, promoter Don Fraser said Tuesday.

Fraser said California Sports Inc., has received approval for the 15-round title bout from the WBA.

Major League roundup

First time against Aaron won't be forgotten by Watt

By United Press International

Hank Aaron didn't take long to welcome Eddie Watt to a not-so-exclusive club Tuesday night.

Aaron ripped the Philadelphia reliever's first pitch for his 16th grand slam homer in the seventh inning to lead the Braves to a 7-3 victory over the Phils. The 32-year-old Watt spent his first eight seasons in the majors with Baltimore of the American League before being traded to Philadelphia last winter and was facing Aaron for the first time.

"I only recall facing Watt in spring training and he threw a lot of breaking balls,'' said the major league's all-time home run leader, who also revealed he was looking for a breaking pitch and belted a slider.

The homer was Aaron's 10th of the season and 723rd of his career. It also enabled him to pass Babe Ruth for the second time this season. Aaron passed Ruth when he hit his 715th homer two months ago and, counting home runs hit in All-Star and World Series competition, Aaron now has a total of 731 compared to Ruth's 730.

The grand slam also moved Aaron past Willie McCovey of San Diego for first place in the National League in that department. Lou Gehrig holds the major league record with 23 grand slams.

The homer was only Aaron's 29th hit of the season but enabled him to raise his RBI total to 29, making him the most dangerous .248 batter in the majors.

"I don't have quite as much concentration as I should have," said Aaron, referring to his meager batting average. "I'm too worried about speeches and celebrations with too many governors and other politicians."

Aaron's blast sparked a six-run seventh inning and helped Roric Harrison, who pitched the first six innings, pick up the win, his fourth in 10 decisions.

In the AL, Texas was declared a 9-0 winner over Cleveland when an unruly crowd caused the Indians to forfeit the game in the ninth inning, Chicago whipped New York 9-2, Boston edged Minnesota 4-3 in 11 innings, Kansas City blanked Baltimore 8-0, Milwaukee nipped California 4-3 and Oakland stopped Detroit 4-0 before losing the second game of the twi-night doubleheader 4-1.

Expos 5, Astros 0

Ernie McAnally scattered five hits, all singles, to record his second shutout of the season in hurling Montreal past Houston. Ron Fairly's bases-loaded, two-run single, in the fourth inning was the big blow for the Expos.

Reds 6, Mets 3

Cesar Geronimo, who entered the game as a pinch-runner in the seventh inning, hit a two-run triple in the 10th to key Cincinnati's win over the Mets. Pedro Borbon, who took over in the eighth inning, received credit for his fourth victory against two losses.

Giants 5, Cardinals 3

Gary Matthews hit a two-run homer and Ed Goodson delivered a solo blast to lead San Francisco past St. Louis. Tom Bradley picked up his sixth victory with relief help from Elias Sosa in the seventh inning. Lou Brock and Reggie Smith homered for the Cardinals.

Padres 6, Cubs 5

Clarence Gaston's pinch-hit home run in the eighth inning snapped a 5-5 tie and gave San Diego its win over Chicago, snapping the Padres' nine-game losing streak. McCovey also homered for San Diego.

Tigers 0-4, A's 4-1

Ken Holtzman pitched a three-hitter to give Oakland the victory in the first game and Lerrin Lagrow threw a six-hitter in the second game to hand Detroit the doubleheader split. Holtzman bested Mickey Lolich, who gave up just four hits, and struck out 12 to vault past Sandy Koufax and Sam McDowell into 10th place on the all-time strikeout list with 2,405. White

Sox 9, Yanks 2

Dick Allen drilled his seventh career grand slam, a 430-foot shot, in the sixth inning to propel Wilbur Wood and the White Sox over the Yankees. Wood pitched a seven-hitter to get the victory and boost his record to 9-6.

Red Sox 4, Twins 3

Danny Cater singled home pinch runner Tommy Harper with one out in the 11th inning to lift Boston past Minnesota. Reliever Bill Campbell paved the way for his own defeat with a throwing error before Cater's hit.

Royals 8, Orioles 0

John Mayberry and Amos Otis slammed home runs to back the three-hit pitching of Al Fitzmorris as the Royals clubbed the Orioles. Mayberry's 12th homer was a three-run blast that climaxed a five-run third inning.

Bill Toomey recaps career at Upland's track banquet

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND —With just one visit to the front of the room, Upland High's Steve Scott picked up almost all of the awards he could have possibly received Tuesday night at the Highlanders' track and field banquet.

Scott, who finished second in the state in the half mile run this year, not only received the varsity High-Point man trophy (equivalent to the Most Valuable Athlete award), but also was the recipient of the Most Inspirational and Co-Captain honors.

On hand to watch Scott receive all that recognition and also as a guest speaker was UC Irvine track coach and former United States Olympic Decathlon champion Bill Toomey.

Toomey first fielded questions from Upland track coach Bob Loney, and then proceeded to answer questions from the audience after a brief recap of his athletic career.

He told of all the things that happened to him between 1964, when he just missed making the Olympic team, and 1968, when he won the Decathlon at Mexico City.

Before Toomey approached the podium, Loney pointed out the decathletes improvement from the time he was in high school until the time he won his gold medal in the Olympics.

"In the 100," Loney began, "Bill ran an 11.5 in high school, a 10.1 in college and then a 9.4. In the 440, he ran a 55.0 in high school, a 48.2 in college and a 45.6 later on. In the 120 high hurdles, he ran a 16.8 in high school, a 14.2 in college, and did'nt run it in the Olympics. In the high jump, he cleared 5-10 in high school, 6-0 in college, and eventually 6-6¾. He didn't long jump in high school, but in college he jumped 24-8, and at the Olympics he jumped 26-1. He put the shot 35-0 in high school, didn't compete in college, and had a 47-2 at the Olympics."

"I was sitting in the stands at the '64 Olympics and cried when I saw the decathlon competitors enter the field, knowing I just barely missed being down there," Toomey related. "I told Ducky Drake, who was sitting next to me at that time, that I was not only going to be one of those competitors in '68, but I was going to win a medal."

He did, a gold one.

Scott received most of the recognition at the Highlander dinner, but there were other recipients of awards.

Jim Ems received the High Point Man trophy for the San Antonio League championship Frosh-Soph team. Pole vaulter Kevin Givens was named the Most Improved, while Mike Emilio and Steve Lucero shared the Co-Captain honors with Scott.

Loney also announced that Scott, who ran a best of 1:52.0 in the state prelims and placed second in the state with a 1:52.4, will get the opportunity to compete in the National Junior Track and Field Meet in Gainesville, Fla., in two weeks.

Anthony ups lead in PBA tournament

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

DOWNEY — At the completion of the winter tour two months ago, Earl Anthony won the final stop for the Professional Bowlers Association with his $25,000 victory in the prestigious Tournament of Champions.

Now, the crew-cut lefthander is out to make a shambles of the $75,000 Brunswick PBA National Championship at Wonderbowl Downey as he increased his lead to a big 152 pins after 16 games.

The second block of eight games was rolled Tuesday, and Anthony came up with games of 212, 213, 279, 227, 217, 247, 196 and 244 for an 1835 total. His 16-game output is 3626, an average of better than 226 per game.

Staying closest in the chase is another Pacific Northwest lefty, Gary Mage of Seattle. He rolled 1741 for a 3474 total and the runner-up spot. Lefthanders hold five of the first six seats.

Thorobred program underway at Walnut

WALNUT — When Walnut dropped its Connie Mack League baseball program last year a lot of players from that community wondered about their summer playing days this year.

Boys Baseball, Inc. and coach Terry Murphy solved the problem. This summer Murphy and his Walnut Reds are playing in the San Gabriel Valley Thorobred Baseball League.

Boys Baseball set up the Thorobred program to include boys between the ages of 17-19.

In this program an 18-man roster may not include more than five 19 year-old ballplayers.

The difference between the Boys Baseball and Little League programs seems to be age category. In the Little League program nine and 10-year-olds play together. Then it runs 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18 for Big League.

The Boys program runs 9-10 for Maverick, 11-12 for Bronco, 13-14 for Pony, 15-16 for Colt and 17-19 for Thorobred.

The advantages are that the Boys program has only two age groups playing at each division. Rubber cleated spikes are allowed and 90-foot base paths are used by 13-14-year-olds while 15-16-year-olds use the 60' 6" pitching distance.

Among the disadvantages are that the Boys program doesn't aid the high school baseball program and also younger kids don't have the opportunity to play that high a calibre of ball.

Team-wise, the Boys program is advantageous in that there is no rule that states each player must play a certain amount of innings per game or per week.

Murphy's Walnut team is competing in the 10-team San Gabriel Valley Thorobred League with the likes of Charter Oak team Nos. 1 and 2, Rowland Heights, West Covina, Monrovia, Glendora, La Puente, Covina, and Bassett.

At the conclusion of the 18-game league schedule playoffs are held to determine a runnerup team for the area finals to be held at Riverside in August while the first place club is automatically awarded a playoff berth.

Assisting coach Murphy are Bud Parrish and Bob Veselic.

The Reds have a 27-game schedule, 18 of which are league games.

UNDERDOG DAVEY VASQUEZ staged a furious rally in the final round to win a unanimous 10-round decision over three-time amateur bantamweight champion Benny Rodriguez Monday night at New York.

Nogales bows to Lompoc in CIF finals

ANAHEIM — Nogales High fell short of its bid to capture the CIF 3-A baseball championship in Anaheim Stadium Tuesday night.

Not only that, but there was not a CIF 4-A champion decided.

Nogales lost a 4-3 decision to Lompoc in the 3-A finals, while the 4-A title game between North Torrance and undefeated Lakewood was called after 11 innings due to curfew with the score tied at 0-0.

CIF officials were to have decided this morning where and when the game will be continued.

Lompoc rallied for three runs in the first two innings against Nogales starter Bob Salas, Salas, who was credited with all four Lompoc runs and the loss on the mound, was relieved by Dean Olson in the second inning. Olson went on to strike out six batters in the remaining five innings.

Lou Johnson got Nogales back into the ball game with a two-run home run over the 362 mark in left field. The Nobles came up with one more in the inning, but time had run out on the Montview League champions.

Legion teams displaying power

It was a wild night for American Legion baseball Tuesday evening.

Pomona Post 30 and La Verne Post 330 both displayed some fireworks at the plate in non league play, while the Walnut Thorobred Reds had a little quieter night but just as successful.

Meanwhile, Chino and Upland battled it out down at Chino High, with the hosts taking a 5 4 decision.

The Post 30 Gems exploded for six runs in the fifth inning and then pitcher Vince Garcia took over as the Gems whipped visiting Arcadia Post 247 by a 7-4 count.

And then in La Verne, Post 330 rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh to tie its game with Covina Post 207, then came up with another three runs in the bottom of the first extra inning to run off with a 9-8 win.

Bob Veselic hurled a three-hitter in pacing Walnut to a 2-1 victory over the Charter Oak Thorobred team.

Arcadia jumped out to a 3-0 lead against Garcia and Pomona Post 30 after four innings, but the Damien High product settled down in the middle innings while his teammates piled up the runs. runs.

In that explosive fifth inning, Dave Lahar singled home one run and Tracy Cowger knocked in two more to pace the Gems to their six run rally. One Pomona run scored on an Arcadia error, one on a wild pitch and a third on a passed ball.

Pomona picked up an insurance run in the eighth inning before Arcadia came up with the final run of the night in the top of the ninth.

Garcia went the distance on the mound for the first time, striking out three and walking three. Seven of Arcadia's eight hits came from the first three men in the Post 247 hbatting order.

Lahar was the big star at the plate for the Gems, going three-for-three and driving in one run.

Pomona, now winner of seven straight outings and boasting an 8-4 record, hosts Norwalk Connie Mack Thursday night at 7 p.m. on the Ralph Welch Park diamond.

La Verne was trailing visiting Covina 3-2 going into the seventh inning, the last scheduled frame.

But then everything came alive.

Covina rallied for three runs in the top of the seventh to take a 6-2 lead, but Post 330 didn't play dead.

Jim Richards hit a three-run home run to put the hosts to within one run of a tie, and then Harold Drake eventually scored on Bruce McNaught's sacrifice fly to center to knot it up.

Covina came up with two more runs in the top of the eighth to take an 8-6 lead, but again La Verne rallied and eventually won on Rick Ortega's bases-loaded double. Earlier in the inning, Drake had singled in Brett Dody, who had walked to start off the inning.

Drake and Bill Bumstead had three hits apiece for La Verne, while Ortega and Carl Davis collected two hits.

La Verne, now 9-3-1 for the season, will start Bumstead tonight against the Walnut Thorobred team at La Verne College.

Walnut remained unbeaten in San Gabriel Valley Thorobred League play (3-0) as Veselic fanned seven and Jeff Corkill went two-for-three to raise his average to .556.

Marty Shepherd collected his 21st run batted in of the season (eight games) in the fourth inning with a run scoring double to give Walnut a 1-1 tie with Charter Oak.

Then Ken Czarnecki plated Lance Parish with what turned out to be the winning run in the sixth. Parrish walked, stole second, advanced to third on Veselic's sacrifice, and scored on Czarnecki's single.

Chino scored four of its five runs in the first three innings and then just held off Upland. The hosts scored their winning run in the bottom of the sixth when Jim Noland tripled and pitcher Mike Coppess singled him home.

OUT OF TURN SIX — Riverside's International Raceway may look something like a freeway at rush hour Sunday when 40 of the nation's top NASCAR drivers race for an $80,000 jackpot in the Tuborg 400.

Hang Ten Motocross G.P.

Battle continues

CARLSBAD — Continuing the blazing motocross duel that is taking them back and forth across Europe, and which will bring them to America next month. Heikki Mikkola and Roger DeCoster will get only two weeks breather before the Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix at Carlsbad in Southern California on July 14th.

Mikkola of Finland with 87 points and DeCoster of Belgium with 41 lead the motocross world standings for the 500cc motorcycle class, following another pitched battle—their third in as many races—at the May 26 Italian Grand Prix near Milan.

The two traded victories in a pair of grueling 45-minute heats that staggered the overflow crowd of 50,000 with their intensity. Mikkola, a bearded 28-year old ice racing enthusiast and motocross veteran, has never owned a world championship before. His entrant, Husqvarna Motorcycles on Sweden, has not won a world championship since 1970. DeCoster of Belgium, howver, has been 500cc world champion for the past three years. The factory DeCoster rides for, Suzuki of Japan, has dominated motocross racing in either the 250cc or 500cc world classes for the last eight years. Mikkola got the jump on DeCoster at this year's first Grand Prix, the Austrian held near Vienna in April, then followed up his double win there with another double win in northern France some weeks later. Before the Italian Grand Prix on May 26, DeCoster hadn't won all year.

The closeness of the Mikkola-DeCoster duel should be good news to American motocross fans as the Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix on July 14, will be their only chance to see world-championship class racing, and the race, which is sponsored by Hang Ten, the well-known manufactourer of sporting clothes, should be really exciting as the battle for the championship will be really close by then. About 20 top-rated European motocrossers from 14 nations, including some from behind the Iron Curtain, will join Mikkola and DeCoster in their battle at Carlsbad.

In dogged pursuit of the world motocross title, Mikkola and DeCoster will visit eight countries on two continents, including America, before settling their feud in the Luxembourg finale August 11. The world motocross series is one of the most fatiguing in modern day racing. Following Sunday's Czech round for instance, the tour goes to West Germany (June 16), England (July 7), America (July 14), Holland (July 28), Belgium (August 4) and then the following Sunday to Luxembourg. One American is contesting this year's 500cc world title. He is 20-year old Brad Lackey of Pinole, California, who recently put up the best motocross ride of his short career. In the Italian Grand Prix, Lackey stormed his Husgvarna to third place behind DeCoster and Mikkola in one 45-minute heat. Because he likes the Carlsbad track, and will be primed for an outstanding showing in his only 1974 racing appearance before other Americans, Lackey is being tapped as one of the favorites in the July 14, Hang Ten U.S. Motocross Grand Prix.

Les Richter's new discovery in outside world–auto racing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — To Les Richter, auto racing offers something he says he could never find in the outside world.

"Charisma is the best way to describe it, the greying president of Riverside International Raceway said. "It still is a love for me."

At 44, Richter has been at Riverside, Calif., since he retired from the Los Angeles Rams in 1962 where he was a nine-year all-pro linebacker.

"It's a challenging profession," he continued. "That's what keeps me in it. Auto racing has tremendous future. The prospects are unlimited."

Riverside will be the site of a NASCAR Grand National event, the Tuborg 400, Sunday. It's the track's second Grand National race of the year.

"Were like anyone in the promotion business," Richter said. "Our sport is still reeling from the energy crisis. What we're trying to do is reduce the number of events we have and concentrate on quality with the ones we do have."

In 1970, the $25.5 million Ontario (Calif.) Motor Speedway was opened. Riverside lasted despite predictions that Southern California could not support two major auto racing facilities.

"Initially,' said Richter, "those predictions by proponents of Ontario almost became a reality. Ontario spent an awful lot of money its first year. However, we didn't lose faith. We knew we couldn't spend that kind of money just to keep up with the people next door.

"We didn't lose faith that Riverside is a fun place to go. I think both tracks can exist. Actually, theyre selling one type of racing—oval racing—and we're selling another—road racing.

"I guess Im one of those guys who is looked on as a super optimist. I believed in what we were doing."

Richter played his college football at University of California, Berkeley. He was signed in the draft by the old Dallas team but the Rams wanted him so badly as a drawing card that they gave 11 players for him.

His premium salary in the National Football League was his last season. He earned $24,000.

"That's not too much by today's standards," he noted. "But I've never harbored any bad feelings. I made as much money as any player at my position with my ability. That's all I could have asked for."

Ontario's Ebeling eyes fifth place in standings

IRWINDALE — Gary Ebeling on Ontario will be coming on strong in this Saturday night's claimer stock car racing competition at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale.

Racing will get underway at 7:30 p.m. with trophy dashes followed by heat races, semi-main and main event along with a street stock race and figure eight grand finale.

Ebeling, driving a 1965 Ford in United States Racing Club competition made his presence known at the speedway recently when he won the Memorial Day weekend 50 lap main event for claimer stock cars.

The victory pushed him up into sixth place in point standings for the year where he rides just two points behind "Porkey" Sercu who holds fifth.

A "tooth and nail" battle between the two competitors is expected in this Saturday night's action as Ebeling continues to climb the ladder in quest of the championship.

Prior to his win Ebeling had a third and fourth place finish to his credit in main event competition for the year.

The rising young star still has a long way to go before the championship is within his grasp as Bill Harry holds the top rung of the points ladder with 502 compared to Ebeling's 322 in sixth place.

Other stars of claimer stock car racing sure to be on hand for the evening's high speed competition are Ray Kelly, Covina; John Wilson, La Puente; Terry McKee, Upland; Ken Smith, El Monte and Vince Giamformaggio of Whittier.

Nine win in slalom

IRWINDALE — Nine valley competitors picked up awards recently at the Southern California Council Slalom Championships at Irwindale Raceway.

With approximately 220 entries competing, six of the valley drivers won their awards in the stock category, with three others gaining recognition in the modified category.

Winners in the stock class included Ed Avalos in a Corvette (86.85), Betty Shares in a Corvette (86.41), Mark and Marty Walker in MGBs (80.52 and 90.47) and Bill and Barbara Foster in Sprites (81.89 and 86.78).

The winners in the modified class included Paul Volmar in a Triumph TR5 (65.09), Don Holmes in a Corvair (80.36) and Bob Gabel in an Austin Cooper (74.89).

THE WESTERN ATHLETIC CONFERENCE president's council voted 5-3 Monday to remain as an eight-team league, rejecting Utah State and Hawaii, who had formally applied for membership.

Southland racing

CORONA — The regular Wednesday Flat Track and TT programs at Corona Raceway now have a new look, as Chuck Murray is now running the racing program.

Murray, who has handled motorcycles for some 20 years, will be in charge of the flat track program, and Chuck hopes to make this show into a professional program in the future.

The regular Thursday night motocross will be run as always with over 100 bikes competing.

The high school motocross will be on Friday night, with six schools competing for trophies and prizes.

Elsinore, Hemet, Perris, Moreno Valley, Chaffey, and Norte Vista High schools will be competing against each other on the big 1.1 mile course.

Practice begins at 6 p.m. with the first race at 7 p.m.

CORONA — The wild Street Stocks will return to Corona Raceway this Saturday night as some 25 cars will join the Figure 8 and Oval Stock Cars beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Street Stocks made their debut on May 25 at Corona Raceway, as 24 cars started the 20-lap main event on the quarter-mile dirt oval.

Rialto's Bill Gielish was a winner in a Chevy Impala in a wild race that that had cars all over the racetrack.

Once again, the street stock division is open to anyone and Corona Raceway urges anyone who is interested in racing to come on out.

In the Figure 8 division, the car production has gone up some 20 ars since Chuck Murray has taken over the operation. Ed Ferro of Gardena heads a large list of drivers along with Riverside's Bob Skillman, Mike Konye of Carson, Torrance's Butch Farrell and Corona's Don Compton.

GARDENA — Bill Weiss, a 25-year-old plumber from Culver City, and Roger Mears, elder of the Bakersifield off-road tandem, come to Ascot next Saturday night as the surprising top bananas in the monthly super sprint buggy show.

Barely in his third year as a buggy driver, Weiss is the point leader of the super sprint division of the Southern California Independent Drivers' Association. Roger, who last year trailed his little brother, Rick, on Ascot's closed course, returns as the May winner.

While Rick was testing a new maching last May 11, Roger took the old one-father Bill had built for his younger offspring and won the main event from 14th place. Rick finished fourth from 23rd.

GARDENA — Hitherto unheralded rookie experts Rob Morrison of Granada Hills and Bob Sanders of Whittier and unforgettable veteran Al Gunter of Costa Mesa look for new honors in the $55,000 American Motorcycle Association summer champion series starting on Ascot's half-mile Friday night.

Sanders and Morrison were a distinct surprise as they came in ninth and 10th, respectivley, in the recent San Jose AMA national mile.

Gunter, a member of the thundering BSA gang at Ascot a decade ago, has used the last two Fridays to get used to competition again after a five-year absence. Now 35, Gunter, who rode out of Alhambra in his hey-day, feels he has some good half-miles left.

EAST IRVINE — The largest field of fuel-burning "altered" roadsters ever seen in California will headline Saturday evening's Fuel Altered Sweepstakes at Orange County International Raceway. Twenty-one entries representing five Western states will battle for qualifying positions with a 12-car first round scheduled for 7 p.m.

Though total wheelbase is restricted to original "roaring twenties" specifications, these fiberglass Model T roadsters today develop upwards of 1600 horsepower. The insertion of a supercharged, 500 cubic inch engine into a chassis extending just 92 inches between wheels qualifies a Fuel Altered as the most difficult of all race cars to control—a Top Fuel Dragster, by comparison, uses an indentical powerplant but enjoys a wheelbase of 225 inches or more. Although handling difficulties are nearly predictable, 6.80-second bursts at 215 miles per hour are commonplace whereever these popular cars appear.

IRWINDALE — Two former winners will head the field of 30 California Racing Association sprint car stars set to converge on the San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale this Friday night for the third spring car speedfest of 1974.

The powerful open wheel machines will compete in trophy dashes, heat races, semi-main and main event with the first race taking the starter's flag at 8 p.m.

The favored pair, Danny McKnight of La Verne and Billy Allen of San Diego, have one main event win each at San Gabriel Valley Speedway this season in sprint car competition.

McKnight, driving the Don Blair Chevy sprint car, scored a solid win in the season opener March 17 and Billy Allen drove his Terry Allen owned sprinter to victory May 3.

SAN BERNARDINO — The battle cry "Stop Bill Spencer!" can be heard echoing from the Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino as the stars of NASCAR sportsman stock car racing get ready for another Saturday night of competition.

Plenty of action can be expected as the NASCAR hobby and sportsman machines comepte in 17 events over the paved quarter-mile speedway starting at 7:30 p.m.

Spencer ran away with both Memorial Day weekend 100 lap races driving to victory at Irwindale Friday night and making off with the winner's share of the purse at Orange Show Speedway the following night.

IRWINDALE — Who can stop the Bast brothers in scratch racing at Irwindale Raceway's weekely Speedway motorcycle events?

The potent duo again dominated events leading up to last Thursday night's scratch main event and then finished one-three in the finale with only Sonny Nutter of Topanga able to squeeze between Mike in first place and older brother Steve in third. Billy Gray, suffering from various engine malfunctions throughout the program, had his bike go sour and wound up fourth.

All return this Thursday for Irwindale's "Date Night" program which features free admission for all the gals accompanied by a male escort. In all more than 50 of the top Speedway Racing Association riders will be on hand for the 23-event program which begins at 8 p.m.

VALENCIA — The latest and hottest interscholastic sportsactivity—motocross competition on the racing motorcycles—will roll into top gear this weekend at Indian Dunes Park during the running of the first annual California High Schools Motocross Championships.

New Orleans hands UC Irvine first loss

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — New Orleans swept a doubleheader Tuesday night, eliminating New Haven from the NCAA College Division baseball tournament with a 9-2 victory and getting even with previously unbeaten California-Irvine, 7-6.

Al Bereczki belted a two run homer and Mike Kee lashed a bases loaded triple in a six-run second inning to pace New Orleans to the victory that eliminated New Haven.

In the championship game of the double elimination tournament, New Olreans scored what proved to be the winning run on an error by Irvine shortstop Steve Whithead.

The same teams meet tonight, with the winner picking up the first place trophy in the College Division World Series.

BOSTON RED SOX pitcher Juan Marichal has gone home to San Francisco to be examined in connection with the loss of feeling in his pitching hand.

Buffalo goalie jumps to WHA

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Goaltender Dave Dryden of the National Hockey League Buffalo Sabres will jump to the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association, the Buffalo Courier-Express reported today.

Dryden was one of five Buffalo players who remained without contracts for the coming season.

The Courier-Express said the Cougars would officially announce Dryden's signing today.

Dryden, brother of Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden, was acquired by Buffalo in 1970 from Pittsburgh.

Barry, Rote win tennis tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Basketball star Rick Barry and soccer ace Kyle Rote Jr. defeated baseball Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg and Los Angeles Rams' tight end Bob Klein, 8-4, Tuesday to win the fourth annual Dewar's Sports-Celebrity tennis championship.

Barry, the top points scorer in the preliminary competition, and Rote, champion of the Superstars competition last February in Florida, overcame a 0-2 deficit to upset the favored Greenberg-Klein doubles team.

It was the first loss for Greenberg, 63, after being on the winning team in the first three Dewar's events.

For Barry, the win ended three years of frustration.

"The first year I missed the finals by two points," said the high-scoring Golden State Warriors' forward, "the second year by just one and last year I lost in the finals to Hank and Gail Goodrich. It's a satisfying conclusion."

Jane Blalock, star of the ladies PGA tour and the first woman to play in the previously all male competition, withdrew after one day of the two-day tourney because of the flu.

Hayes' assistant goes to Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — Florida A&M University Tuesday named Rudy Hubbard, a 28-year-old assistant under Woody Hayes at Ohio State University, as its new head football coach.

Hubbard, a former halfback at Ohio State, will succeed Jim Williams, who was fired last spring after two 5-6 seasons.

Hubbard will receive between $19,000 and $21,000 a year.

Redlands gains NAIA net lead

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Defending champions Redlands University (Calif.) took the lead in the rain-plagued NAIA tennis championships Tuesday after the first four rounds of singles.

Going into today's round of 16 players in singles and quarterfinals Redlands had 18 points, followed by California Baptist with 17 and Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.) with 16.

Redlands sent four players into the fifth round, California Baptist had two and Gustavus Adolphus had only top-seeded Dave Peterson left.

The tournament has been hampered by rain since its start Monday. Tuesday afternoon it moved indoors to the Airway Racket Club.

Doubles play started Tuesday but the rain put it one round behind schedule.

New 'Golden Age' of drama dawning on television

By FRANK S. SWERTLOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Viewers who look back to the 1950s as the "Golden Age' of television drama may be pleased to learn that more high quality dramatic specials are now on the commercial networks than ever before.

During the 1950s such shows as "Playhouse 90", "The Philco Theater," and "U.S. Steel Hour" were just some of the shows available.

But as television audiences multiplied, these shows declined in interest and were replaced by quiz shows and situation comedies, which catered to a wider range of viewers and atttained higher ratings.

In recent years, however, there has been a resurgence of drama on CBS, ABC and NBC, so much so that the three networks shared a coveted George Peabody award for their dramatic plays.

Among the shows available last seasons were: NBC's "Execution of Private Slovik," CBS's "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman,' and ABC's "Merchant of Venice."

Next season's offerings will include: NBC's "After the Fall,'' by Arthur Miller; CBSs four-part mini series on the life of Ben Franklin, and ABC dramatic specials on the life of author Ernest Hemingway.

"There was more good drama on all three networks last year than during the Golden Age of the 1950s, said Oscar Katz, CBS vice president for programming in New York.

"People who look at the 1950s remember only the best shows, maybe three or four a year,' he said in an interview. "But they forget there were a lot of mysteries and whodunits and circus shows. Last year alone there were at least seven or eight good shows on the air."

Katz' sentiments were echoed by Edwin Vane, ABC vice president and program director; and William Storke, NBC vice president, special programs, during interviews on the highly competitive and changing world of dramatic specials.

All three executives are in charge of special programs — parades, salutes, awards, music, etc.—but they stressed they emphasize dramatic shows first, and the others second.

Dramatic specials, they said, are a matter of network pride and balance for regular programming.

"For many years, Katz said, "NBC dominated this field. When Pat Weaver was president of NBC during the 1950s he introduced the television special, which he called the spectacular. And ever since that time NBC has been the specials network.

Despite NBC's dominance, CBS and ABC have pursued their rival vigorously.

"But NBC will give them a hell of a run next year, he said.

ABC, which for a long time was considered the third network, has increased the quality and quantity of its drama during the last few years. But, according to Vane, his network has had to sort out many of its programming problems first.

Two stars in film

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Universal and producer Hal Wallis have teamed two of the biggest box office attractions in movie history for "Rooster Cogburn," a sequel to "True Grit," with the pairing of John Wayne and three-time Oscar-winner Katharine Hepburn.

Cal Poly students plan semi-annual ceramic sale

POMONA — Ceramics students at Cal Poly will hold their semi-annual pot sale in the gallery of the university library today through Friday.

Some 900 pieces of pottery will be on sale to 10 p.m. today and 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

The sales, started by faculty member Karl E. Winchell five years ago, are part of the educational procedure involved in teaching students the necessary business aspect of marketing their creative products. Eighty per cent of the price of each object sold is received by the student artist. Twenty per cent goes into a scholarship fund for art students.

A few pieces of jewelry and some macrame will be sold this year, but the display will be largely pots and sculpture. Plant pots, mugs, pitchers, plates, dishes and vases of all sizes, shapes and glaze will be offered for a wide range of prices, from free (a few pieces which are traditionally gone a few minutes after the doors are open) to $250.

Lands another part

DAVID MERRICK

'Great Gatsby' not so great

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "The Great Gatsby" may be a victim of its own hoopla. There is a tendency to sneer at films which are released with such a thunderous publicity campaign, and to classify them, automatically, as terrible. "Gatsby" isn't terrible. If it hadn't been released with (such noise it would have been greeted as a fine movie.

As it is, it will undoubtedly be profitable for Paramount and David Merrick, the producer. Merrick's name on the credits is particularly interesting. Long one of Broadway's most prolific (and successful) producers, his decision to move into the cinema arena is worth examination.

Merrick says that it was the decline in Broadway production, coupled with the rising costs of producing plays, that made him interested in film. He likes to be busy, so he elected to try his hand at making movies.

He first made the film version of his Broadway success, "Child's Play." It opened and closed quickly but it taught him a lesson.

"Child's Play,'" he says, "was done as a low-budget film. I learned an important lesson — Hollywood doesn't care about any film that costs less than $2.5 million. I learned that a picture has to be costly before Hollywood cares about it. 'Gatsby' cost $6.5 million."

He said he always loved the F. Scott Fitzgerald novel, which is how it all began. He traces the movies history this way.

"It started when Ali MacGraw, who was then married to Bob Evans, was asked by Bob what part she'd like to play. She said Daisy in 'Gatsby.' Evans came to me, because he knew I knew Fitzgerald's daughter. Scottie, who owned the rights to the book.

"I talked Scottie into letting me make the film. That took some doing. She said Hollywood had never done right by her father's books. She said I could try it. We got Ali and Bob Redford, but then Ali and Bob Evans split up.

"That caused a year's delay. Ali began going around with Steve McQueen. At one point, Steve's agent, Freddie Fields, called me and suggested Steve for the part of Gatsby. I said no, he's a good actor but he isn't Gatsby. Ali said if Steve didn't do it she wouldn't do it. So we had to replace her."

He spent a couple of years on the project. For the first time in 18½ years, David Merrick had nothing running on Broadway at the moment. He finds movies a different kind of headache.

"When you produce for Broadway," he says, "you get some money from your friends, if necessary you put in your own money. You send everybody two tickets to the opening and that's the end of it. But here, making a movie, you have to deal with moguls. That means that every so often you have to go, hat in hand, and ask for more money.

"I found making movies to be a rather humiliating experience."

'Old blue eyes' pays $987 for culinary delight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Twelve gallons of frozen spaghetti in clam sauce were shipped Monday night from a suburban Philadelphia restaurant to "Old Blue Eyes."

A spokesman for Delta Air Freight said the "Clam alla Casino" was prepared by the Vineyards Restaurant in Spring House, and flown to Frank Sinatra in care of the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

The cost of the culinary delight —$987.61.

Slamhammer in Cucamonga

CUCAMONGA — Slamhammer, rock and blues group headed by Bill Lupkin on harmonica and vocals, will appear at the new Test Club, 11837 Foothill Blvd., at 9 p.m. Thursday.

The group is made up of Lupkin's brother, Steve, on bass; Jim Kahr on lead guitar and vocals; Tim Tintari on Hohner clavinet, and Jorge Riffa on drums.

BILL LUPKIN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Where the Red Fern Grows," starring James Whitmore, was filmed entirely on location in Tahelquah, Okla.

The doctor comments

There are exceptions to all the rules

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've heard a lot of doctors say that it is wrong to be fat and to get rid of it, but some of them are pretty chubby.

I've heard doctors say to give up smoking and drinking as they are bad for you and shorten your life span. Yet, I read about some man who has smoked a cigar every day of his life, and he lived to be well over 100 years of age.

I've read about women who drank a big glass of beer every day of their lives and yet they lived to over 100 years of age. How do you account for al of this?

DEAR READER—First about doctors. Their role is to provide the best available information and advice to their patients, whether or not they are able to follow it themselves. Some doctors are definitely too fat. You are kind to say pretty chubby, but the truth is they are just too fat. Many other doctors are able to control their body weight and do so conscientiously.

Doctors are human, and it's hard for those who have trouble controlling their weight to do so just as it is for other people. This doesn't alter the good advice they give their patients to avoid obesity. Just because they have trouble following this good advice is no reason that they shouldn't make this useful information available to their patients.

Regarding smoking, many doctors who used to smoke have quit because of the medical problems they've seen from cigarette smoking. The popular saying is that there must be some reason why 100,000 doctors have quit smoking. There is. And the number, incidentally, is much greater than 100,000.

Some people live very long life spans though they ignore very good health advice. You heard about them because they are the exception. Nobody writes about the person who smoked two or three packs of cigarettes a day and died of a heart attack in his early 40s. That's not news. A cigar is not nearly as harmful as smoking cigarettes except in the former cigarette smoker. Often when he smokes cigars he will inhale them and may be worse off than he was to begin with. Most normal cigar smokers, though, do not inhale smoke, and this makes a major difference.

A glass of beer a day isn't a great deal of alcohol. I don't recommend it, but it isn't going to have a major impact on one's longevity and health, provided there are no medical problems such as ulcers or liver disease.

The best studies of groups who have had long life spans show they do things usually recommended. The life style of the Abkasians in the Caucasus of Russia is relatively simple. Most of them do not smoke at all. If they drink any alcoholic beverages it is a local red wine which is very low in alcohol content. They remain physically active. Individuals between 90 and 100 years of age work in the fields regularly. This applies to both men and women.

They are particularly careful to avoid obesity. Their attitude is that if a person begins to show any weight gains he must be sick. By not smoking cigarettes, but not using alcohol, by following a diet which is relatively low in fat and prevents obesity, plus remaining physically active, these individuals live the long life spans that have been observed.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

False alarm on Patty in Hawaii raid

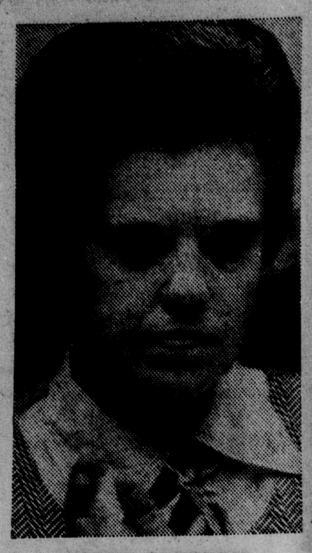
KONA, Hawaii (UPI) — Acting on reported sightings of Patricia Hearst, FBI agents and police recently raided a room in the Kona Hilton Hotel on the Island of Hawaii.

Miss Hearst was not there, but police did turn up cocaine and marijuana.

Arrested on charges of promoting dangerous drugs were Barbara Ann Thoreson, 23, Joe Duckett, 28, and Henry Renee Williams, 29, all of Los Angeles. Also held for questioning was an unidentified 28-year-old woman.

Police Inspector George Iranon said Miss Thoreson resembled Miss Hearst but definitely was not the missing heiress.

Nun to seek Democratic nomination for Congress



SISTER GUTHERIE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The first nun to run for Congress won't have to wear a habit, but she may have substantial budget problems.

"I receive $6,000 a year, but only $30 is for my personal budget and $20 for my professional budget," said Dominican Sister Mary Anne Guthrie, director of health and welfare services for the Catholic Diocese of Memphis.

"The rest goes for living expenses —so it's going to be a people campaign where the little dollar really counts," she said after announcing for the Democratic nomination from the 8th District in Tennessee Monday.

"I'm going out on the street. I'm going to knock on doors. I'm going to accept opportunities to speak before groups during the campaign."

The 47-year-old nun, dressed in a red-and-white knit dress and casual white pumps, must beat at least four men, including state Rep. Harold Ford, in the Aug. 1 Democratic primary in order to get a chance to take on four-term Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., in November.

"I think I'm just as competent and better perhaps than any other candidate," said Sister Mary Anne, whose shortcropped hair is salted with gray.

"I am seeking political office because I can and want to perform the task as an effective congresswoman," she said. "For too long there has been a tragic under-representation of women in government."

Sister Mary Anne said she would not hesitate, provided she had the facts in hand, to vote to impeach President Nixon.

"If I had the material in front of me that I could weigh the problem seriously and carefully, I would not hesitate," she said, Later, she said, "I have never supported Richard Nixon."

Sister Mary Anne, holder of a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Nazareth College in Louisville, Ky., and one-time Notre Dame graduate student in business administration, said one reason she is running is because she believes Congress has been ineffective.

"I am an idealist, a dreamer, but I'm also a pragmatist," she said. "I have worked long and hard in the field of people, and I feel we need to interpret the needs of people into issues to find solutions."

Calley lawyers denied use of Army report

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — A federal judge has refused a motion by attorneys for former Army Lt. William Calley to obtain results of an undisclosed investigation by the Army of the My Lai massacre.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott said the report had been made available to defense attorneys during Calley's original trial and he felt, therefore, it was not an appropriate matter for use in an appeal.

Attorneys for Calley are seeking to have his 10-year sentence for the slaying of at least 22 South Vietnamese civilians overthrown. They sought in five motions discovery of evidence they felt was needed in Calley's appeal, including the controversial "Peers Report", the Army's investigation of the My Lai incident and its alleged coverup.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

In a large skillet, melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Cook 1 medium chopped onion until tender. Add a 10-ounce package frozen mixed vegetables and 2 cups cut-up cooked beef. Stir in 1 tablespoon flour, 1 envelope beef flavored mushroom mix and 1½ cups water. Simmer, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Turn into a 1½-quart casserole and top with 2 or 3 cups hot, seasoned mashed potatoes. Brown quickly for several minutes under the broiler. Makes 6 servings.

Chocolate mousse is a favored dish

Restaurants around the world are proud of the elegant chocolate mousse that finishes off the finest of meals.

You can prepare this favorite restaurant dessert in your home.

Chocolate mousse is a molded chilled dessert made rich with eggs and sugar. Chocolate through and through means the mousse is certain to be a favorite among the fans of this deep dark flavor at your dinner table.

There's no reason to wait until you are at a restaurant to enjoy such a tempting dessert. Make it yourself.

- 1 tablespoon water
- 3 egg yolks
- 4 egg whites

- Dash of salt

In a bowl whip yolks and sugar until the mixture is turning white. Melt chocolate in a double boiler and add 1 tablespoon water. Mix with a wooden spoon until creamy. Add butter and continue mixing. Pour into a 4-cup mold and refrigerate at least three hours before serving. Serve with a generous dollop of whipped cream.

"Is it OK for my dog to eat cat food?"

Not really,
because cat foods aren't usually formulated to contain the vitamins and minerals a dog needs.

But if your dog insists on eating cat food, try fooling him with a can of Blue Mountain Chicken 'n Liver 'n Egg dog food.

He'll love the chicken 'n liver combination that is a favorite of cats and think he's getting a can of cat food. You'll love it because your dog will be getting the complete nutrition he needs, from a real dog food.

"My neighbor says table scraps aren't good for dogs. Is that right?"

Yes.

When compared to professionally formulated pet foods like Blue Mountain Home Style Stew, table scraps are sadly lacking in the needed protein, vitamins, minerals, amino acids, and carbohydrates.

Besides, a steady diet of table scraps can make your dog finicky about what he eats and can eventually lead to obesity, hardening of the arteries, kidney failure and even heart attacks.

"Are bones really bad for dogs?"

Some are.

Some aren't.

A beef bone is all right for dogs. Or ground up cooked bones are fine. But never ever give your dog chicken, turkey or chop bones. They splinter easily and can seriously damage his throat.

Why all the questions?

There's a great deal to know about feeding a pet. What and how he eats has a lot to do with the way he grows up.

That's why we formulate all Blue Mountain products with the help of true professionals: veterinarians, kennel operators, breeders and animal nutrition experts at leading universities.

And that's also why we're answering as many questions as we can for California pet lovers.

Because we're sure that the more answers you have about pet food, the more likely you are to ask for Blue Mountain.

Why have milk prices gone up? advisory board gives answer

A list of questions and answers about the dairy industry, of interest to consumers, have been released by the California Milk Advisory Board.

Here they are:

Q. Why has the price of milk increased over the past year?

A. California dairy farmers are caught in a cost squeeze caused by the most unusual conditions to face them in over 25 years.

Q. What is causing this cost squeeze?

A. Land costs, labor, taxes, interest rates, goods and services and ecological improvements are all costing dairymen more than ever before. But, the largest single cause is skyrocketing feed costs; feed for the farmer's cows normally accounts for 50 to 60 per cent of his gross income. Presently, feed costs are taking 80 to 85 per cent or more. Hay and grain prices have increased dramatically through 1973 and into 1974.

Alfalfa hay has risen from $50 per ton in June, 1973 to over $80 per ton today.

Feed grain prices have leaped from an average $84 per ton in June, 1973 to a current $130 per ton, according to state and federal marketing reports.

Q. Why have these prices gone up so dramatically?

A. Hay is in short supply and expensive because of adverse weather in some growing areas. Exports to other countries have increased as much as 400 per cent. As much as 40,000 acres of prime alfalfa land is being shifted to cotton production. Other more profitable crops such as soybeans will rob land from alfalfa, adding to the rising cost. Feed grains too are in short supply and expensive because of soaring exports and increased rail shipping rates. So, dairy farmers are facing the same soaring costs that have already forced-up the price of meat, eggs, cereals, bread and other foods.

Q. When can dairy farmers expect relief from high feed costs?

A. Some agricultural experts say that feed prices are beginning to level off. Others say that no relief can be expected for at least another 18 months. Any leveling off or reduction in feed costs depends on many factors: good weather and a good harvest; leveling off of foreign exports; and providing hay and grain farmers maintain or even increase the supply by not switching land to cotton, soybeans and other more profitable crops.

Q. Who's to blame for spiraling grain, hay, food and milk prices?

A. People all over the world are competing for better diets because of increased affluence and greater buying power. In addition, poor weather conditions in major food-producing areas of the world last year were detrimental to production of ample crops to meet world food demands. U.S. farm product exports increased 60 per cent in fiscal year 72-73. American consumers see their balance of payments and farm subsidy problems easing, but are paying for this in the form of high food prices. Food still only takes an average 17 per cent of disposable income in the U.S. compared with 25 per cent to 30 per cent in Europe and much higher in many other parts of the world.

Q. Haven't milk prices kept pace with other increases in the cost of living?

A. No. According to the U.S. Labor Department's Consumer Price Index, all living costs rose 94 per cent between 1947 and 1973. Food in general rose 91 per cent, while dairy products rose 66 per cent. Average weekly earnings, however, rose 208 per cent.

Q. Have dairy farms gotten larger and been taken over by "big business"?

A. While dairy farms have decreased in mumber, those remaining have gotten larger in herd size. However, dairy farming in California remains one of the last outposts of a family operations. California dairymen say they "like keeping it in the family."

Q. How do California dairy farmers stack-up to those in other areas?

A. California dairy farmers lead the world in efficiency of operation and in production per cow because of modern, scientific management and mechanization. Ironically, this efficiency has gotten them in trouble. By keeping the price of milk low through mechanizations, returns now don't keep up with investments in machinery and high yield methodology.

Q. How are milk prices regulated in California?

A. Minimum milk prices in California are regulated by the State Department of Food and Agriculture acting under the Milk Stabilization Acts of 1935 and 1937. These regulations insure consumers of adequate supplies and quality at a fair price, while protecting farmers and retailers from unfair merchandising practices. Changes in minimum milk prices — both up and down — only occur following public hearings. Department experts weigh testimony from all sides, review their own facts and statistics, then make a decision on the minimum price allowed.

June Dairy Month celebrated at luncheons, baseball game

Two special events remain in the Southern California diary industry's annual June Dairy Month celebration—and both are luncheons.

The dairy month luncheon is scheduled for Thursday at the Los Angeles Marriott Hotel and a Chamber of Commerce luncheon will be held June 14 at the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce building.

June Dairy Night at Anaheim Stadium actually kicked off the celebration six days early on May 25.

Pre-game activities were highlighted by a cow-milking contest between Oakland A's pitcher Paul Lindblad and Angel coach Tom Morgan. The five-minute contest was judged by the Southern California District Dairy Princess.

Mrs. Judy Claverie, a former Pomona resident and a dairyman's daughter, sang the national anthem. About 1,400 dairymen and their families and associates attended the event.

Thursday's luncheon at the Marriott Hotel will feature music and entertainment, and is geared for food editors, hospital dietitians, and school food personnel.

Clarence G. Adamy of the National Association of Food Chains will speak at th Chamber luncheon.

Dairy Council of California's mobile dairy classroom will be stationed at the Chamber offices, 404 S. Bixel St., Los Angeles. This truck, housing a mother cow and her calf, is used at schools throughout Southern California to teach students about animals and farm life.

Dairy Council is a nonprofit nutrition education organization supported by the industry.

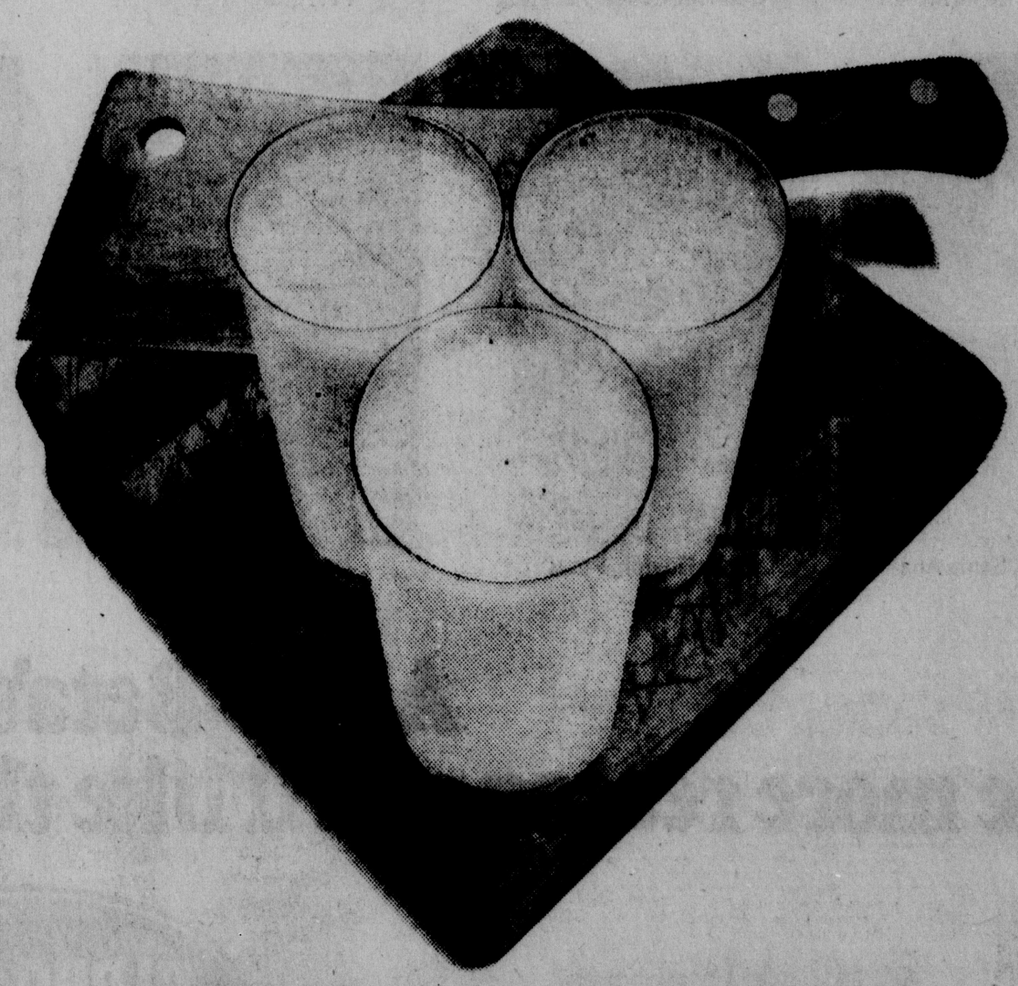
How to cut the price of protein.

All it takes is three 8-oz. glasses of milk: half the protein you should have each day. And all they cost is 28¢—so cut yourself in on the bargain!



Milk has something for every body.™

Cost of three 8-oz. glasses of milk is based on the average price of a half-gallon of milk in California stores. The U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of protein per person is 45 grams as endorsed by the Food and Drug Administration; three 8-oz. glasses of milk provide 25.5 grams.

WHAT'S IN STORE...

T.L.C.* BARBECUING

Without question, the area of the supermarket where the shopper has the least confidence in choosing purchases is at the meat department. Let's face it, we all can make mistakes in our choices, and then we're disappointed with the results.

There are so many factors involved in making a selection. Besides the numerous varieties of meat, poultry, and fish, there are dozens of cuts from which to choose. Some are better for a specific purpose than others.

For barbecuing, beef is the most popular choice. But since it is also among the most expensive, careful shopping is important. That's why I asked our meat merchandiser, Bill Wade, about the best beef buys for summer barbecuing.

He pointed out that the number of servings per pound should be considered, along with the price. Buying meat with little waste is often more economical than cheaper cuts with large amounts of bone or fat. Here are Bill's recommendations:

Least Expensive — Budget Burger. "Try it on the grill. The smoke flavor enhances this beef-with-soy-protein product." (Helpful hint, cook as soon after purchase as possible for best results. If it has to be held for a few days, Budget Burger will freeze well.)

Economical Steak — "Our boneless family steak (cut from the chuck) is an excellent buy. I tenderize it with a meat marinade, following the directions on the package."

Elegant Steak — "I recommend top sirloin for top-quality eating. There is very little waste, since it's almost all lean meat. This is one of the most flavorful, tender cuts."

Bill reminded me that the low prices on chicken make it a good choice for summer barbecuing, also. The new chicken marinade found at the meat counter adds much flavor and tenderness to the birds.

Goddess of Greek cuisine shares cooking secrets

NEW YORK (NEA) — Unlike the ill-fated Cho Cho San in Madame Butterfly, Theonie Marks' brief encounter with a young Naval lieutenant in her native Greece in the mid-1950s had a happy ending. Many TV cooking show fans have come to know her as the Goddess of Greek cuisine from her show originating from WGBH-Boston, also the home-base of the popular Julia Child French Chef shows. But it was romance which brought her to the United States and eventually led to her television career.

Theonie reveals that she spent one brief day as a tour guide with Robert Marks when he was on shore leave in her native city of Rhodes, and at the time she was still bound by Greek tradition. She couldn't get out of the house without a chaperone, she was not allowed out after sunset and her four brothers were like bodyguards.

Despite such curbs on courting, after two years of letters and some visits ty Marks to Rhodes, the couple was married in an ancient monastery in a traditional Greek wedding that lasted a week. They now have three sons, ranging in age from 18 to 10, and live in a farmhouse in Carlyle, Mass., where Theonie keeps track of sheep, whippets, a vegetable garden, a strawberry patch, an herb garden—anything that will grow before the killing fall frosts.

"When I first came to the U.S.," Theonie says, "I had never read a recipe, never saw a cookbook. I learned to cook from my mother and grandmother. This led to the problem of measuring later when I wanted to write down or learn to cook other foods such as Chinese."

Actually, Theonie studied archaelogy and still follows her deep interest in Middle Eastern antiquity. As a result, she includes interesting myths and truths about the Greek islands with her cooking lessons. And she firmly believes that anyone who likes to eat, and can read, can learn to cook well.

She began cooking Greek-food for her husband soon after she arrived in the United States.

"His first job was with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology," she explains. "We were just married and quite poor. These dishes were economical." When they moved to the Boston area she started a greek cooking class at Concord High School and was discovered by a local television executive. Currently, her show is in hiatus but may be repeated soon, according to the Public Television network, and she is finishing a cookbook, about the foods of her beloved islands.

As her sons were growing up she cooked Greek occasionally at home, "but they liked to eat what their friends ate." Now their favorite Greek dish is string beans with stewed tomatoes. Her husband particularly likes the spinach pie, and the Greek salad is a favorite, too.

Greek cooking is simple, she says, and many dishes are of the prepare-ahead type. It is ideal, she believes, for single men and women, teen cooks and for the busy, working mother.

Most important, she says, is that you don't need too many utensils—only a few pots and knives.

"What runs off most people is the need for special utensils." Theonie says she buys hers in the five-and-ten andbuys used knives from the butcher for 25 to 30 cents each.

For these reasons, she hopes more persons will try Greek food.

"It is very straightforward" she says, "and uses fresh vegetables and dried legumes that are available the year round. The ingredients are not as difficult to get as those needed for Chinese dishes."

She realizes that many potential cooks of Greek recipes shy away from them because they think all Greek food is heavy white olive oil. "Just use the amount to your taste," she points out.

Also, her favorite Greek island cooking is much lighter than that of the mainland. "It is colder in northern Greece and they use more fats and more oil in the food."

Theonie does not use liqueurs when preparing her favorites but does use some wine and some old, classical recipes call for malt vinegar. She admits that her favoirte non-Greek dishes are New England boiled dinners, her mother-in-law's turkey with traditional American stuffing of fresh bred, celery, onion and thyme.

Despite the use of olive oil, Greek dishes are not that fattening.

"The French sauces are fattening," she says, "but I will admit that those Greek desserts with all that honey and ground nuts will get you in the calorie department."

MELOPITTA NISSIOTIKI
(island honey and cheese pie)

1 pound fresh mizithra or ricotta cheese
½cup sugar
½ cup honey
3 medium eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup all purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
5 tablespoons chilled butter, cut in cubes
2 tablespoons ice water

In a bowl put flour, sugar and butter and work with fingers quickly, rubbing flour and butter until small (bean size) particles of dough form. Add 1½ tablespoons water and mix with hands, pressing inwards from sides of bowl and up from bottom. Add remaining water and form dough into ball, picking up loose particles. Flatten dough slightly.

Wrap in wax paper and chill for half an hour. On a lightly floured board roll dough very gently to flatten. Then roll from center outwards quickly and evenly to get equal thickness, about 1-8 inch thick and one inch larger than a 9-inch pie dish. Fold dough in half and lift into pie dish. Unfold and turn edges of dough under ½ inch and then press with fingers to flute. Inside pie shell set another 9-inch pie dish to hold shell in shape. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove and when cool remove the extra pie dish.

In a bowl mix cheese and sugar. Add honey and mix. Beat eggs until well mixed and frothy and add to mixture. Add lemon peel, mix well and put into cooled pie shell. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes or until cracks appear on top of filling. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 servings.

1 cup olive oil to fry

FOR SAUCE:

2 cups tomato sauce
1 garlic clove, slit
½ cup dry red wine
Salt and pepper to taste

Soak stale bread. Squeeze out excess water, wrap, and press in towel to absorb water. Pick out 1 cup of white part of bread in small pieces. In a large bowl put meat and bread. Mix together thoroughly. Add eggs, garlic, parlsey, cheese, cumin, salt and pepper. Knead with hands until thoroughly mixed. Take small (walnut size) pieces of mixture and form into 2 inch long, sausage shaped meatballs. Roll in flour. Fry sausages in hot oil until brown on all sides. Drain and set aside. In a 3-quart saucepan heat 2 tablespoons olive oil left in frying skillet, add tomato sauce, garlic, wine, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, add sausages, cover and reduce heat. Cook over low heat for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Explorer scout leader drowns

PLACERVILLE (UP) — A Sacramento-area leader of Explorer Scouts drowned when his raft capsized in the South Fork of the American River about five miles north of here.

Harrell Lee Whitmire, 50, Carmichael, was heading a group of over 100 Scouts, who were spending the weekend at the Golden Nugget campground and planning to hold raft races from there.

The body was brought out by a four-man raft team Saturday. The victim was wearing a life jacket.

Create illusion of faraway places

You can create the illusion of faraway places in your dining room by serving Chicken Polynesian.

U.S. Department of Agriculture food marketing specialists advise that broiler-fryers are in abundant supply right now. This exotic, yet easy-to-prepare main dish is a flavorful way to take advantage of this good value in high protein food.

CHICKEN POLYNESIAN

6 chicken half-breasts
1 cup buttermilk, cultured
2 teaspoons salt
1 clove garlic, cut in pieces
½ cup flour
3 tablespoons fat or oil
¼ cup water
¼ cup onion, chopped
½ teaspoon ginger
1 clove, whole
1½ teaspoons curry powder
2 tablespoons almonds, chopped or slivered, toasted

Marinate chicken in buttermilk, combined with salt and garlic, for one hour. Then drain chicken and save liquid. Roll chicken pieces in flour, and brown in fat or oil for about ten minutes. Add water, cover, and cook slowly until chicken is tender—about one hour. Remove chicken from pan and keep warm. Cook onion in pan drippings until tender. Skim off excess fat and remove garlic from buttermilk. Mix spices with buttermilk and add to onion. Heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove clove. Serve chicken topped with sauce and garnished with almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Differences in two apples are more than skin deep

Differences between Red and Golden Delicious apples are much greater than skin deep. Contrary to popular belief, the two are distinctly different. The U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests looking for both through the month of May.

Marketing experts with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service point out that an all-time record number of apples was being held in storage as of April 1, and retail supplies are abundant.

Delicious is the correct name for the apple commonly known as Red Delicious. It is one of the most popular apple varieties in the U.S. and its uses include eating ot of hand, salads, and even cooked deserts. Washington State produces the greatest volume of this variety, but it also grows well in most states where apples are commercially produced.

The Delicious apple was discovered in 1872 by Jesse Hiatt of Peru, Iowa. He called it "Hawkeye." In 1895, a commercial nursery purchased all rights to the variety, named it Delicious, and introduced it to commercial production. This was one of the very first varieties owned and marketed exclusively by a commercial fruit tree nursery.

The Golden Delicious is also an excellent apple for out-of-hand eating. It is used extensively for salads and fruit cups because of its tendency to stay white longer when cut.

It was iven its name in 1916, when it was first commercially marketed, by the same commercial nursery that handled the Delicious apple.

The spot in West Virginia where the Golden Delicious was first found in 1900 is marketed by a commemorative plaque. The first Golden Delicious tree was located among other trees in an orchard there — and is believed to be related to the Grimes Golden variety which was grown extensively in the area.

It is also one of the best apples for making apple pies. Caution must be used however; it's sweeter than many apples used for cooking — so go easy on the sugar.

Use Delicious apples in Cascade Apple-Meringue Dessert from Washington's apple country:

CASCADE APPLE-MERINGUE DESSERT

6 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks
¾ cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted flour
6 tablespoons finely chopped blanched almonds
3 teaspoons shredded lemon peel
5 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
5 apples, peeled, halved and cored
6 tablespoons raspberry jam
4 egg whites
Dash of salt
½ cup sugar

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in egg yolks. Add flour, almonds and lemon peel; mix well. Press dough on bottom of 8 x 8 x 2" cake pan. Brush with slightly beaten egg white. (Use a bit of the egg whites from which the meringue will be made.) Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. Cool.

Meanwhile, place sugar and lemon juice in large skillet. Add apple halves, cover tightly and cook slowly until apples are just tender. Spread cooled crust with jam, then arrange apple halves in pan. Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Continue beating, adding 1 tablespoon sugar at a time. Beat until sugar is completely dissolved. Pile lightly over apples, baked in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 15 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned. This rich dessert will serve 12 to 16.

EGGS MAKE KITCHEN MAGIC Beneat the fragile shell of an egg lies the ability to do lots of exciting things for other foods in a subtle, magical way.

And eggs are coming to market in good supply according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

One special power eggs possess is the ability to thicken — a quality that wise cooks use to prepare tasty custards, puddings, pie fillings, salad dressings, sauces, and soups. Eggs that are gently heated et, thikcne, firm-up, gel, or coagulate . . . whichever term you prefer . . . as when you poach an egg. An egg, when slightly beaten and combined with other ingredients and gently heated, will thicken the entire mixture.

Raw beaten eggs added directly to any heated liquid or mixture may cosgulate before being thoroughly mixed. Therefore, for velvety smooth finished products, it is best to slowly add some of the "heated" ingredients to bbe beaten eggs, and then quickly stir the egg mixture into the remaining hot mixture.

Careful temperature control is needed when eggs are used to thicken a liquid mixture such as a custard. Temperatures that are too high, or over-cooking, will cause the egg protein to shrink, allowing the liquid to seep out.

Tho prevent overheating during surface cooking, use a double boiler and keep the water just below boiling. For oven cooking, set the baking dish in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven. Remove egg mixtures from the heat (or hot water) promptly when done.

In sauces, puddings, and fillings, a starchy thickening agent — flour, cornstarch or taioca — is often used in combination with eggs. Because starch needs longer cooking than eggs first combine the starch with the liquid and cook thoroughly before adding eggs.

A helpful cooking hint to remember is that two egg yolks or two egg whites have the same thickening power as one whole egg.

Team eggs with vegetables for a change of pace dish.

CORN PUDDING

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup scalded milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
16 ounce can cream-style corn
4 eggs, slightly beaten

Melt butter or margarine, and blend in flour. Add milk, salt, pepper, and sugar. Add corn and heat slightly. Blend eggs into warm milk mixture. Pour into greased 1-quart casserole, place casserole in a pan of hot water, and bake 1 hour or until set in a 375 degree oven. Pudding is done when the tip of a table knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes 6 servings, about 2-3 cup each, about 163 calories each. For fewer calories, use a 10-ounce package of frozen whole kernel corn in place of cream-style corn. About 140 calories per serving. Serve with hot or cold sliced roast beef, green snap beans, and French bread. Have fruit gelatin and pound cake for dessert.

BROCCOLI AND CHEESE CUSTARD

1 bunch broccoli
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
2-3rds cup milk
1¼ cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper

Wash broccoli. Split all large stems to decrease cooking time. Place broccoli in a saucepan with 1 inch boiling water and salt. Bring water to boil and cook 5 minutes uncovered. Then cover and cook 10 minutes or until tender. Drain and cut into ½-inch pieces. Put into shallow baking pan. Beat eggs and add milk, cheese and salt and pepper; mix well and pour over broccili. Set casserole in pan with about 1 inch hot water. Bake in 350 degree oven about 30 minutes or until custard tests firm with a knife. Makes 6 servings.

CANNED TOMATOES

Whole, wedged, and sliced, the selection of canned tomatoes grows and grows. Today the consumer has the convenience of such newer items as stewed tomatoes with celery, onions, green peppers, or other vegetables added. But how do you know which tomatoes to buy?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says to think first about how you want to use them. In addition to the various styles there are also quality levels to consider.

USDA has voluntary grade standards for canned tomatoes as well as for other vegetables. Most tomatoes are packed according to quality even though you are unlikely to see the grade shield on the can. Chain stores often pack different grades of tomatoes under different "house" brands.

For some of the newer products, such as stewed tomatoes, no grade standard has yet been developed. But the products are nevertheless often inspected under USDA supervision. And a grade standard for stewed tomatoes is now being developed. This standard, when adopted, would provide a uniform basis for describing the quality of canned stewed tomatoes.

Here is a run down of what grades mean under existing standards for tomatoes: Grade A or Fancy, the highest quality, are tender ripe and deep red. They are mostly whole and are almost free from defects. They are appropriate to use when appearance and top flavor are important such as in side dishes and salads.

When you buy Grade A tomatoes you're likely to get more tomatoes in relation to the can's capacity than for other grades. USDA requires that the drained weight of Grade A tomatoes be at least 66 per cent of the can's capacity. Grade B tomatoes, however, must fill at least 56 per cent of the can's drained weight capacity.

Grade B or Extra Standard tomatoes are not as deep red as Grade A and will be mostly whole with some large pieces. You will also find an occasional defect, such as a piece of peel. Grade B, still tender and tasty, is a very good quality for everyday use or combined with other vegetables.

Grade C or Standard tomatoes have good flavor, but may be yellowish-red. They may be whole or in broken pieces and have more defects than tomatoes of grade A or B. Cans of Grade C tomatoes must meet the minimum FDA requirements of being filled to at least 50 per cent of the drained weight capacity. Use your canned tomatoes in this casserole.

EGGPLANT-TOMATO CASSEROLE

1 large onion, chopped
2 small eggplants, peeled and diced
¼ cup butter or margarine
28 ounce can tomatoes, drained
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup corn flake crumbs

Cook onion and eggplant in fat until goden brown. Add tomatoes, salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Pour into casserole and top with the corn flake crumbs. Bake 30 minutes in 350 degree oven. Makes 6 servings, ¾ cup each.

Cranberries make summer treats, too

With the fast approaching summer season, it's time to give some serious thought to the extra specials that add to your entertaining.

If your family likes cranberries, there is no need to wait for a holiday season to serve them. By simply lining your pan with ladyfingers and adding just three more ingredients, you have a delicious summer treat. Prepare it days ahead of time and freeze. Then you can enjoy the party too.

When it's your turn to entertain, try it. You'll be delighted at the comments.

FROSTY CRANBERRY DESSERT

16 ladyfinger halves
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup heavy cream
1 (14-ounces) jar cranberry orange relish, chilled

Line 9-inch pie pan with ladyfingers. Let ice cream soften so it spreads easily; then spread it evenly over ladyfingers. Return to freezer. Whip cream until stiff. Fold in chilled relish. Spoon into ice cream shell. Wrap and freeze. Let thaw 15 minutes in refrigerator before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

To make your own relish, put through food chopper 2 cups raw cranberries and one range with peel. Add 1 cup sugar. Chill overnight.

This cake sports a great party air

Nothing could be finer than a big homemade chocolate cake and strawberry milk shakes when it comes to refreshments for a graduation fling. Poolside parties, records and dancing—whatever. The kind of events when no one knows for sure how many bodies will show up. If you're in charge of refreshments, you'll be on the safe side when you make this giant-size chocolate cake. It has butter and buttermilk to make it moist and beautifully textured. A two-tone butter cream frosting dresses it up for the occasion. You'll need cake flour and sweet baking chocolate so put these on your shopping list, too.

Milk shakes are not hard to manage when you have the makings on hand. Get both milk and ice cream by the half gallon and several boxes of the ripest strawberries you can find. Then junior guests can make their own shakes as hunger or thrist moves them. An electric blender is a must. Actually you don't need any special measurements but the ones we've worked out here will give you the amount of milk, ice cream and berries that mkes a good balance of flavor and thickness for a single serving. Some guests may prefer to have cake a la mode and a big glass of milk to wash it down.

The cake would be an excellent choice to take on a picnic. Leave it in the baking pan. During the summer season you'll find cake pans with their own slide-on metal covers readily available. When taking milk on summer outings be sure to keep it in an ice chest. It travels best when left in its original carton. It's usually more satisfactory to take along single-serving cartons of milk rather than quarts or half gallons.

A weekend she won't forget

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (UPI) — It was through hard work that Linda Parker, 17, of Santa Maria won the reigning queen title of the Elks Club's annual parade and rodeo, but it was luck that won her a pickup and compact car Sunday.

She won the title by raising more money than six other girls in the queen competition during the three-day event sponsored by the Elks Recreation Foundation for a youth recreation program in central California.

Miss Parker won the pickup and car when, as queen, she picked her own name during a drawing that highlighted the gala.

Frozen concentrated apple juice proposal revised

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has again revised its proposal for U.S. grade standards for frozen concentrated apple juice. Comments on the new proposal will be accepted until June 15.

This proposal reflects comments received on earlier proposals, published in the Aug. 20, 1973, and Jan. 16 1974, Federal Register. The latest proposal changes the product description to include, in addition to whole apples, the use of sound, fresh apple parts (peels, cores and trimmings), in the manufacture of frozen concentrated apple juice, but excluding liquid obtained by leaching of residual apple material (pomace) with water.

Officila of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) say juice obtained from apple parts, particularly when blended with that from whole apples, is indistinguishable from juice made from whole apples. Traditionally apple juice has been manufactured from both whole apples and apple parts.

USDA has no quality standards for frozen concentrated apple juice at this time. The proposed standards would cover two quality levels: U.S. Grade A (or U.S. Fancy) and U.S. Grade B (or U.S. Choice). The quality would be determined after samples of the product have been reconstituted—mixed with water into a single (drinking) strength juice.

Comments received on the earlier proposals for these quality standards also resulted in an adjusted Brix (sugar)-Acid ratio and minimu Brix value of the reconsituted juice. These expanded Brix requirements make wider allowance for regional differences in apple flavor characteristics.

The revised proposal was scheduled for publication in the May 14 Federal Register. Written comments should be sent in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. They will be available for public inspection in the office of the Hearing Clerk.

If the standards are adopted, AMS, on request, will grade frozen concentrated apple juice for a fee to cover service costs. Copies of the proposed standards are available from the Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

TIPS ON COOKING FROZEN MEAT

Although it's easier to thaw frozen meat before cooking, you may not always have the time. Before rushing out to buy something else to cook, however, consider cooking meat from the frozen state. The U.S. Department of Agriculture offers these simple pointers on cooking frozen meat:

—A general cooking rule is to allow about one-third to one-half again as long for a frozen roasts as for a thawed one and about one-fourth as long for thinner cuts.

—When broiling frozen steaks, chops, and ground meat patties be sure to place the meat further from the heat than if they were defrosted, so the meat doesn't get overly browned on the outside before the inside is cooked.

—When steaks or chops are to be coated with eggs and crumbs or with a batter, the meat should be partially defrosted so the coating will adhere.

—When panbroiling frozen steaks and chops, a hot frying pan should be used so the meat has a chance to brown before defrosting. The heat should be reduced after browning and the meat turned occasionally so it will cook through without becoming too brown.

—Frozen meat combination dishes are best when reheated without thawing first. If they are in a watertight container they can be partially thawed by immersion in lukewarm water for a few minutes; just long enough to make it easy to remove the food from the container. Fully thawing meat combination dishes at room temperature may permit growth of food poisoning bacteria and is not recommended for commercial or home-prepared frozen foods.

PAPAYA—THE TROPICAL TREAT

The papaya is a tree-grown fruit whose juicy, rose-gold flesh is a rich tropical treat that's packed with vitamins A and C.

Although the papaya trees bear fruit year round in Hawaii, larger supplies of papaya are usualy available in the months of May and June.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture offers these suggestions to help you choose high quality papayas:

—The fruit is picked firm-ripe since ripe papayas bruise easily. Select fruits that are well colored certainly not all green but the some yellow on them. Fully ripe papayas will be yellow-orange in color.

—Partially green papayas will ripen at room temperature in 3 to 5 days.

—Refrigerate ripe papayas until ready to use. For best quality use within a few days.

—The skin on papayas should be smooth, unbruised, unbroken and showing no signs of shriveling or discoloration.

—Choose moderate size papayas, 5 to 6 inches long. Very large papayas may not have much flavor. A well-shaped papaya is pear-shaped.

Papayas are luscious served for breakfast or as a low-calorie dessert flavored simply with fresh lime or lemon juice. Use a papaya half as a shell for salads made of fresh fruits such as strawberries, bananas or oranges or fill with cottage cheese or other salads such as ham, seafood, or chicken. For dessert, top papaya halves with ice cream or fresh fruit. Green papayas can be used as a vegetable, cooked or baked like squash.

Blend papaya with melons and avocado in a tropical Molded Fruit Souffle Salad or with strawberries and bananas in a Papaya Fruit Basket with Rum-Lime Sauce.

PAPAYA FRUIT BASKETS WITH RUM-LIME SAUCE

- 4 papayas
- 1 box strawberries, washed and sliced
- 2 bananas, sliced
- 2-3rd cup sugar
- 1-3rd cup water
- 1 teaspoons grated lime rind
- 6 tablespoons lime juice
- 1-3rd cup light rum

To make papaya baskets, cut fruit 1-3rd from top leaving ¾-inch of the fruit in the center to form handle. Remove seeds and fill basket with strawberries and bananas. For sauce, combine sugar and water in small saucepan and bring to boil. Reduce heat ans simmer five minutes. Add lime rind and let cool to room temperature. Add lime juice and rum. Pour over papaya baskets and fruit. Cover with plastic wrap and chill several hours. Makes 4 servings.

MOLDED FRUIT SOUFFLE SALAD

- 3 packages lemon gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 2½ cups cold water
- ½ pint sour cream
- 1 papaya, peeled and sliced
- ½ avocado, peeled and sliced
- 1 cup cantaloupe balls, optional
- 1 cup watermelon balls

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in cold water and chill until partially set. Pour about 1 cup gelatin into a 1½ quart mold. Add sour cream to rest of gelatin and whip with electric mixer until light. Chill briefly. Fold in fruit and pour into mold. Chill firm. Makes 6 servings.

Eggs add a light touch to cooking

Eggs add the light touch of springtime to your cooking. When beaten, egg whites have the ability to capture air, forming a light foam which is characteristic of many popular dishes—puffy omelets, souffles, meringues, divinity, chiffon cakes and pies, and angel food and sponge cakes.

As the egg ehites are beaten they literally fill up with tiny air bubbles. When gentle heat (as in an oven) is applied to the foam, the air expands and the product rises. Some egg foams, as in souffles, are very delicate, and unless handled carefully, will collapse. More stable foam structures are created in cakes by the addition of flour and by baking the cake until the structure is firm. For chiffon pie fillings, gelatin is used to strengthen and maintain the foam structure created by the beaten egg whites.

Here are some tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service on using egg whites as a leavening agent:

—The leavening power of egg whites depends on the amount of air beaten in and retained when preparing the food.

—The bowl and beaters must be absolutely free of at and traces of egg yolk, because this fat interferes with the foam formation and decreases volume.

—Egg whites or yolks whip more easily and give greater volume at room temperature than when first taken from the refrigerator.

—For best results, beat the egg whites until they are just stiff enough to stand in peaks that fold over ever so slightly when the beaters are removed. They should appear moist and glossy, not dry. Over-beating beats out some of the air bubbles and creates a product with less volume, which may also divide into layers with the heavier ingredients settling to the bottom of the product. Underbeating produces a coarse, uneven texture, and the whites will lack strength to billow up and hold any added ingredients.

—Combine beaten egg whites and other ingredients with a gentle folding motion, not a stirring motion. Stirring breaks the foam.

—Cooking temperature is critical. If it's too high, the protein thickens and coagulates before the air bubbles have fully expanded and the product will be heavy. It may also be overdone on the outside before the interior is set.

Use your new "egg knowledge" in this light and airy sponge cake.

LEMON SPONGE CAKE

6 eggs, spearated
1½ cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
5 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 cup whipping cream
2 cups lightly sweetened fresh fruit (strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, or peaches)

Place egg whites in larger mixing bowl and yolks in smaller mixer bowl; let stand until they reach room temperature. Measure sifted flour, then sift again with salt onto piece of waxed paper. Beat egg whites until frothy; add cream of tarter and beat at high speed until moist peaks form. Gradually add ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time; continue beating until stiff but but not dry. Set aside.

Beat youks a full 2 minutes until very thick and light. Add remaining sugar very gradually; continue beating at high speed until thick. Beat in lemon juice and water, blending until smooth; stir in lemon peel. Add flour all at once; gently fold, then partially stir until well blended. Add to egg whites and fold in quickly but gently. Pour into ungreased 10-inch tube pan; cut through batter with table knife to remove large air bubbles.

Bake at 325 degrees about 1 hour or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Immediately invert on wire rack; leave in pan until completely cool. Loosen around tube and sides with narrow spatula; turn onto cake plate. Before serving, slice cake into two layers. Whip cream; spread half of cream on bottom layer and top with half of fruit. Put top layer in place and spread with remaining cream and top with fruit. Chill until ready to serve.

Cook needn't panic during baseball days

Baseball, the great American pastime, can be just a pain in the neck to many a harassed mealmaker. When Little League games drag on for hours, when the gang gets mired down in traffic coming home from the stadium, when Dad refuses to leave the TV in the bottom of the 10th, mothers start thinking about organizing a union.

Happily, there is a solution. On game days, prepare a meal you can keep simmering on the back burner until all the hungry have returned. This new recipe for Hearty Baseball Sandwiches, created appropriately enough in The Test Kitchens of The R. T. French Company of No. 1 Mustard Street in Rochester, New York, would be a natur-

Hearty Baseball Sandwiches combines baseball's holy of holies, the frankfurter, with pickles and cheese in zesty sauce, easily made with an envelope of seasoning mix for sloppy joes. The sandwiches look sharp, too, with their frankfurter filling nestled inside hollowed out, toasted hard rools.

The salad is sheer genius. Crunchy Potato Sald depends for its very crunch on salted peanuts, a favorite of generations of fans. The salad is a time saver, too, relying on country style mashed potato flakes.

Complete your baseball supper with olives and pickles, choice of lemonade or soft drinks, and for dessert, ice cream sandwiches from the freezer. You may find that home runs and double plays are not the only things that bring loud cheers!

HEARTY BASEBALL SANDWICHES

8 hard rolls
Butter or margarine
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 cup water
1 envelope (1½ ounces) seasoning mix for sloppy joes
1 pound frankfurters, sliced
¼ cup sliced sweet pickles
Shredded lettuce and cheese

Hollow out rolls by cutting a slice from top, then cutting out center with small knife leaving a shell; spread insides with softened butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes, until lightly toasted. Stir together tomato paste, water, and contents of seasoning mix envelope in sauce pan. Add sliced frankfurters and pickles. Bring to a boil over medium heat. Reduce heat; simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon frankfurter mixture into rolls; garnish with shredded lettuce and cheese.

CRUNCHY POTATO SALAD

½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 and 1-3rd cups country style mashed potato flakes
½ cup mayonnaise
1½ cups chopped celery
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup chopped peanuts
Lettuce

Combine water and salt in saucepan; bring to a boil. Remove from heat and add milk. Stir in potato flakes. When liquid is absorbed, whip lightly with fork. Chill. Stir in mayonnaise, celery, carrots, and peanuts. Serve on lettuce.

Nutrition director shares secrets of balancing diet

Somehow Dorothy Rathmann manages it.

Dr. Rathmann also travels a lot in her job as director of nutrition for CPC International, Inc. (Best Foods). When on the road, she admits she has to fight diet-destroying urges. She must politely find a way of sampling the special dishes of those who want to entertain her in their homes or introduce her to the "best restaurant in town."

Obviously, Dr. Rathmann knows the secret of juggling all these high-caloric problems. She's trim, pink-cheeked with a lovely complexion and puts in yeoman hours.

A graduate of Grinnell College in Iowa with a Ph. D. in biochemistry from the University of Rochester, Dr. Rathmann feels that fate had a hand in bringing her to her current fascinating job. She was a bench chemist at Mellon Institute working, of all things, on corn coloring for animal feed. While there she was asked to do a history of corn products.

This led to a permanent job with the company then known as Corn Products. She has since been an active force in nutritional research, food planning and food additives for the company and, through her committee work, nationally.

Because of her many years in the nutritional field, Dr. Rathmann is often bemused and, at times, discouraged, when she gets playbacks of the myths about food so many people buy as truths.

For at least 20 years she has been active in trying to get the word across to school children about what foods do for you. Yet, many young people still take off on a vegetarian bent with exagerated ideas about the values of foods. There are those opposed to anything that has been processed. Many beginning vegetarians study and discover they need protein daily, she adds, but some on extreme vegetarian or cult diets discover too late the damage done to them physically.

For example, some believe rice is a perfect food. Therefore, those who follow a strict rice diet believe they don't need to eat other foods. Rice, Dr. Rathmann says, is a very fine food source but everyone needs protein, vitamins and minerals from fruits and vegetables.

Many dieters believe that bread is merely a harmful carbohydrate (it provides more protein than most people realize and everyone needs carbohydrates in a healthful diet) and that potatoes are not good for you at all (potatoes are a well-balanced source of nutrients — it's the butter and sour cream than can add calories).

Dr. Rathmann also was involved in early studies of the effect of diet on diseases that affect the heart.

"The interpretations of studies in 1956-57 were loaded with 'maybes.' Most doctors when did not see anything in the diet area that would probably cut down on the growing incidence of heart disease.

"Now we can see how doctors can help by providing patients with menus, insisting on weight control and encouraging people to avoid excessive eating of fatty foods, rich desserts and hard fat," she explains.

The idea that lean meat, fish and chicken were good for Americans was hardly accepted in the late 1950s.

"Now the swing is the other way," she says with a pleased smile and adds that she tries to follow her own advice.

"I don't eat awfully rich foods anymore or stuff myself with holiday-type foods. I eat frequent, light meals and when I travel avoid eating eggs for breakfast every day."

When on the road Dr. Rathmann enjoys french toast, waffles (they do contain some egg, she admits) and Canadian bacon but tries to avoid fatty bacon.

She enjoys cooking and learned many recipes from her mother who is in her mid-80s and still likes to prepare such Rathmann favorites as German-style stew, baked applies, sauerbraten and bread pudding. Dr. Rathmann's secret to enjoying these specialities she has loved since childhood is to eat smaller portions.

"It takes discipline," she admits, "but after all anything truly worth enjoying comes with work and discipline."

Fruit salad is a salute to summer

As temperatures soar, take advantage of the bounty of fruits coming your way from California. The "land of eternal sunshine" is sending an abundance of bright juicy Valencia oranges, luscious plump peaches and delicate avocadoes to market every day. Use these great summertime favorites in your summer menus—as simple desserts, in fruit salads, or by themselves as snacks.

Fresh Western Valencia oranges are in your markets in abundance now and through the month of October. Valencias from California and Arizona have only a seed or two so are perfect for juicing, eating as a snack, or using in a salad or dessert. They taste great with your other summer fruit favroites, too. Take this Sunburst Fresh Fruit Salad, for instance. It's a colorful combination of avocado, peaches, blueberries and oranges—perfect for a luncheon or as an accompaniment to a light summer dinner menu.

SUNBURST FRESH FRUIT SALAD

- 1 small avocado
- 2 teaspoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons dairy sour cream
- Dash hot pepper sauce
- 3 California-Arizona oranges, peeled, sectioned
- 3 fresh peaches, peeled, sliced
- ½ cup fresh blueberries (optional)
- Crisp salad greens

About 1 hour before serving, peel avocado; remove pit and mash with fork. Add lemon juice, sour cream and hot pepper sauce. Chill until serving time. Arrange orange sections and peach slices on crisp greens. Pile avocado dressing in center and top with blueberries. If you don't plan to serve the salad quickly be sure to dip peach slices in lemon or orange juice to prevent discoloring.

- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- 6 baking apples, halved crosswise, cored and pared

Measure corn syrup, margarine, lemon rind and cinnamon in small saucepan. Bring just to a boil. Meanwhile, arrange apple halves hollow side up in baking dish. Spoon syrup mixture over apples. Bake in 350-degree oven, basting frequently, until apples are fork tender, about 50 minutes. Cool. Makes 6 servings.

SAUERBRATEN

- 1 cup corn oil
- 1½ cups vinegar
- 1½ cups water
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 teaspoon peppercorns
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 large onions, sliced
- 3 to 4 pounds rump or round beef roast

Stir together corn oil, vinegar, water, bay leaves, peppercorns, salt, sugar and onions. Stir until well mixed. Pour over beef in bowl. Cover tightly. Store in refrigerator 4 to 5 days, turning meat once a day. Remove meat from mixture and drain. Strain to remove spices and reserve liquid. Brown meat on all sides in a heavy kettle. Place rack under meat and add one cup of the marinade. Cover meat tightly. Simmer 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Remove meat and keep warm while preparing Ginger Snap Gravy as directed below.

GINGER SNAP GRAVY:

Add enough strained marainade to liquid in pot roast kettle to make 2 cups. Add enough strained marinade to liquid in pot roast kettle to make 2 cups. Add ½ cup crushed ginger snaps (about 10). Bring to boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat; continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Serve hot with sauerbraten.

BREAD PUDDNIG

- 2 tablespoons raisins
- 2 cups milk
- 3 eggs
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2-¾ cups soft bread crumbs (about 6 slices bread)
- 1 tablespoon melted margarine,
- 2 tablespoons sugar

Soak raisins in warm water to plump. Drain, discarding water. Scald milk; cool slightly. Beat eggs slightly. Gradually stir in corn syrup and vanilla, then milk. Stir in raisins, then 2 cups bread crumbs. Pour into 1½-quart baking dish. Toss remaining crumbs with melted margarine. Lightly sprinkle over mixture in dish. Sprinkle all with sugar. Set into pan of hot water. Bake in 350-degree oven until knife inserted into center of mixture comes out clean, 50 to 60 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Steak by the ounce

DOUGLASTON, N.Y. (UPI) — A new restaurant in this suburb of New York City features steak by the ounce—from 55 to 70 cents an ounce, depending on the cut. The steaks are cut to order for each guest and grilled on an open hearth.

This elegant dish is supper for 4

The Hungarians have a name for it. "Palacsinta!" Big, lacy-light paper-thin pancakes or crepes. By any name they're egg-rich, butter-tender and the base for an elegant supper dish serving four.

The in-between filling is a lively cream sauce with chopped cooked ham and diced hard-cooked eggs, flavor heightened by a touch of Worcestershire and mustard. Two crepes, a layer of filling. Repeat. When finished, your high and handsome Palacsinta stack goes into the oven for a fast 15-minute baking. Results are beautiful, bountiful, and would you believe — inexpensive?

Big farm-fresh eggs make it so. Eggs in the crepes. Eggs in the filling. Good nutrition in your family's diet. A splendid source of protein vitamins A and D, essential minerals and notable amounts of B-complex vitamins. So good for breakfast, lunch, dinner. So good for all ages.

These top-quality eggs not only do wonders for pancakes, but today's creative cook is finding them excellent in budgeted casseroles, skillet suppers, creamed dishes and hearty omelets. If you're keeping an eye on your food dollar, specify eggs when you shop. You'll get more for your money every time.

HAM AND EGG PALACSINTA

- 12 baked crepes
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3½ level tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon onion powder
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ⅛ teaspoon white pepper
- 3 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham

Prepare crepes and set aside. Melt 3 tablespoons butter and blend in flour. Stir in milk; add salt, mustard, onion powder, Worcestershire sauce and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and thickens. Remove from heat. Slice or dice eggs, reserving 3 slices for garnish, if desired. Fold remainder of eggs and ham, into sauce. On a buttered heat-proof serving plate place 2 crepes stacked together. Cover with a rounded half-cup of sauce, spreading it to within ½ inch of edge. Repeat layers, and top with last 2 crepes. Melt remaining tablespoon butter and brush over top crepe. Bake in a hot oven (400-degrees) 12 to 15 minutes; until piping hot. Garnish with reserved egg slices, if desired. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 4 servings.

CREPES: Combine 3 large eggs, 1½ cups milk, 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-3rd cup melted butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon salt in blender jar. Blend smooth (OR, beat with rotary beater until smooth). Heat a 9-inch skillet, and brush lightly with butter or oil. Add ¼ cup batter, and tilt pan to spread. Cook over moderate heat until edges are browned. Turn and brown second side. Turn out, and repeat until all of batter is cooked. Makes 12 crepes.

Make plain pancakes into gourmet entree

PLAIN PANCAKES BECOME GOURMET ENTREE WITH SHRIMP

How do you rate yourself in the culinary sweepstakes? Many of us fit readily into the "good, plain cook" category, and although the foods we prepare are tasty and nourishing, they sometimes lack an imaginative touch and never quite make it into the gourmet class.

Every now and then, however, a recipe appears that is so creative it turns ordinary, every day food into an epicure's dream. If it is also quickly and easily prepared, and not too costly—even "good, plain cooks" may become known as "chefs of distinction."

Whenever you're casting about for an entree that will click with guests, please the family, and focus attention on your creative ability, try an imaginative way of serving pancakes. If you're wondering how to make a gourmet entree with pancakes, be assured that it's what you do with them that adds the glamour. These little cakes, second only to toast as a favorite breakfast entree, have always rated highly whether called flapjacks, griddlecakes, flatcars, or simply pancakes. It's when you glorify them with a curried shrimp filling that they become an ingenious entree for a flavorful brunch, a tantalizing lunch, or a Sunday night supper, tasty enough to set before the bon vivants in your circle of friends.

This savory entree, Curried Shrimp Pancakes, is a combination of tender pancakes filled with succulent shrimp, sauteed celery and onion, chopped apple, raisins, cream of shrimp soup, and a touch of curry. Heat and just before serving top with a sauce of additional shrimp and soup, plus half and half, and lemon juice. Offer a crispy salad, if you wish, with the Curried Shrimp Pancakes, serve with a flourish, and get ready to hear the raves roll in!

A pound of shrimp goes a long way in eating satisfaction and provides great nourishment as well. Shrimp are high in protein, contain several of the B vitamins, and are an exceptional source of many essential minerals. Shrimp are in good supply now, so enjoy them often.

CURRIED SHRIMP PANCAKES

- 1 pound frozen, peeled deveined shrimp
- ½ cup finely chopped celery
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup margarine or cooking oil
- 1½ cups chopped raw apple
- ¼ cup seedless raisins
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of shrimp soup
- 12 thin pancakes (recipe follows)
- ¼ cup half and half (half milk, half cream)
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Thaw frozen shrimp; chop ½ of the shrimp into small pieces; cut remaining shrimp in half lengthwise. Cook celery and onion in margarine or cooking oil until tender, but not brown. Add apple, chopped shrimp, raisins, and curry powder; stir and heat thoroughly. Add ½ cup undiluted condensed soup; mix well and heat.

Spoon equal parts of filling (about 3 tablespoons) on each pancake and roll up. Arrange rolls on heat-proof platter or shallow baking dish. Cover with aluminum foil, crimping it to edges of dish.

Heat in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 15 minutes or until serving temperature. Combine remaining soup, shrimp, and half and half; heat. Stir in lemon juice. Serve over pancakes. Makes 12 rolled pancakes, 6 servings.

PANCAKES

- 1 cup pancake mix
- 2 eggs
- 1¼ cups milk
- 3 tablespoons cooking oil

Combine ingredients; beat until smooth. Bake on lightly greased hot griddle, using about 3 tablespoons of batter for each. Turn pancake when edges are dry and top is bubbly. Brown on second side. Makes 12 pancakes.

Oxford hurt by spending cuts

OXFORD, England (UPI) — Government spending cuts have forced Oxford University to stop filling vacancies in its academic staff for the time being, the university announced.

Vice Chairman H. J. Habakkuk said government cuts had "disrupted financial planning" for the period up to the end of 1977.

QUICK-A-RONI CASSEROLE

Saute a 12-ounce can processed meat, cubed 1 cup chopped onions, ½ cup chopped green pepper, 1 cup sliced mushrooms or a 3-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained, and ½ cup sliced ripe olives in 3 tablespoons margarine. Combine sauteed mixture with 2 cans beef-a-roni and ½ cup sour cream. Spoon mixture into 1½-quart casserole and bake for 20 to 25 minutes. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Garnish with olive and mushroom slices if desired. Serves 4 or 6.

A western breakfast starts a day right

Out where the blue begins, out where the snow-capped mountains turn rosy in the sunrise, they really eat big, beautiful breakfasts. OK, so you don't have the time for such doings most mornings. But if you want to make it a family heyday full of the real pleasure of home life, serve a fine substantial brunch on Saturday or Sunday.

Fill your breakfast table with the bounty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and you can't go wrong. A Tomato Western Platter is as grand as all outdoors, and easy to make, too. Fresh tomatoes are in very good supply at your market. Take the hint and grill those firm, red tomatoes topped with savory Parmesan cheese. Complete the platter with fluffy scrambled eggs and crispy slices of Canadian bacon and plenty of home-fried potatoes. That's really wonderful eating first thing in a new day.

Start breakfast with some juicy, colorful fresh fruit. Cantaloupes are in the market in good supply in all their golden glory, the hot sunshine smell still lingering in the luscius fruit. Why not serve a wedge of cantaloupe with a quarter of fresh lime to squeeze over it for tang and contrast. A fresh fruit compote is another very fine starter for breakfast.

Do you know how nourishing cantaloupe is? It's a fruit with a proud nutrition pedigree. The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association says that cantaloupes are a good source of both vitamins A and C. Eat cantaloupes nice and ripe because the vitamin C is more abundant as the melon gets riper. Give cantaloupe time at home at room temperature to take on a yellow appearance and acquire a distinctive aroma that signals full ripeness.

Here are the makings of a wonderful morning meal just brimming with good cheer and good nutrition.

NORWALK, Conn. — (NEA) — Ed Lindblom's bright blue eyes and blondish hair reflects his Scandinavian ancestry.

A man of the waters if not of the sea, he was born in Wilson, Conn., and worked on a lake dredge before retiring, he thought, to Florida. However, his wife missed their four grown children and five grandchildren who remained in the Northeast. So a few years ago the couple moved back to Connecticut.

Lindblom came out of retirment and into the retail fish business, "pretty much by chance." A neighbor had space in an old oyster shed and the area needed a good fish store.

Now, three days a week Lindblom gets up at 3 a.m. to buy fish and returns to the store by 8 a.m. He enjoys the work and his customers appreciate the fine selection of properly kept fish.

His location reflects the romantic period of the community's history around the turn of the century. Norwalk then was a major center of fishing and, especially, of oystering. Oyster sloops sailed in and out of its harbors and the center of activity was a great wooden oyster shed. Up to 300 people once worked there shucking oysters along a conveyor belt on its second floor. They had to watch their steps since there was a cutout for the masts of the sloops which pulled right into the building to hoist nets full of oysters to the shuckers before returning to Long Island Sound and other fine oystering points of the era.

The oyster shells were sent downhill via little iron cars from the shed and the mountains of oyster shells eventually became landfill. Some work still goes on but the staff is down to three — shucking oysters by hand doesn't pay and most oysters in the area are sold unshucked. Lindblom's fish store, however, is still in the old oyster shed where he sells the local waters' yield of bluefish, flounder, mackerel and weakfish.

Lindblom feels strongly that the fishing limit should not be extended 200 miles offshore and points out that the haddock "is just about extinct because of the Russian trawlers fishing the area."

For those who feel squeamish or unsure about selecting and keeping fish or seafood Lindblom explains that fresh, cleaned fish can keep a week if properly chilled. Live lobsters will keep a week if kept cool and moist.

Clams and oysters will keep in their shells at least a week, unfrozen (or they may be unfrozen in the shell or shucked and kept longer), in a cool, dry place. Many, however, prefer to keep them in a kettle or collander in the refrigerator for only two or three days, uncovered, but not in a tightly sealed plastic bag. Lindblom also reveals that there is no need to put hard shell clams in water to which cornmeal has been added because these have no appreciable amount of sand. However, steamers do need to be so treated to allow them to clean themselves of sand before they are table ready.

As more Americans travel from coat-to-coast Lindblom's tips from Connecticut are welcome. As are some favorite recipes from the area:

BAKED STUFFED JUMBO SHRIMP

- 8 giant shrimp, shelled, deveined, split
- ½ cup thick cream sauce (2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup milk)
- 12 ounce bag small frozen shrimp, finely chopped
- Salt, pepper

Combine chopped shrimp, cream sauce and seasonings and divide into 8 equal portions. Mound a portion on each shrimp and chill. Dip each shrimp first in flour, then in beaten egg thinned with milk, then in seasoned bread crumbs. Deep fry; serve with lemon and melted butter. Makes 4 servings.

OYSTERS ROCKEFELLER

- 36 oysters in shell
- 2 packages frozen creamed spinach
- 6 drops tabasco sauce
- Lemon juice
- Bread crumbs

Shuck and drain oysters. Place on deep half of shells. Cook spinach as directed. Add tabasco sauce, lemon juice and bread crumbs. Spread mixture over oysters, dot with butter, bake in hot oven for 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

BROILED BLUEFISH

- 4 bluefish fillets
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Thyme

Preheat broiler. Mix mayonnaise, lemon juice and thyme. Rub over fillets. Lay fillets on greased foil. Broil till fish flakes when pricked with a fork or toothpick. Serve with dilled tartar sauce made of finely chopped dill pickles, finely chopped onion, mayonnaise and lemon juice.

Divorced parents held for murder

FONTANA (API) — The divorced parents of a Riverside girl were charged with murder Monday, 10 years after their daughter was allegedly killed.

Police charged Antonio Rivera, 37, od Colton and Mrs. Merla Bueno, 35, of San Bernardino with killing their 3-year-old daughter, Judy, on a Saturday in either 1964 or 1965.

The remains of the girl, found in the Jurupa Hills near here last year, remained unidentified until a coroner's inquest was held and the girl's birth certificate located.

Police said Rivera and Mrs. Bueno deny ever having a child named Judy.

Cooking vegetables matter of reducing

Fresh vegetables, especially the ones you can enjoy raw, are great for reducing diets. But the kind of reducing we are talking about concerns the best way to cook vegetables to preserve their nutrients. The three R's to learn are: reduce the amount of cooking water; reduce the length of cooking time; and reduce the amount of exposed surface area.

To prepare vegetables for cooking, remove damaged leaves or inedible material. However, keep it to a minimum. When preparing a dark green leafy vegetable for cooking, the outer leaves, if good, should be used because they contain more vitamin A than the pale inner leaves. The stems and ribs of such a vegetable are less palatable and have less nutrients than the leaf blade, so don't feel guilty discarding them.

Cook Fresh—Keep Value

Try to estimate as closely as possible the amount of cooked vegetable you will need so you won't have any leftovers. Cooked vegetables lose valuable ascorbic acid (vitamin C) the longer they are kept. After a day in the refrigerator, they have about 75 per cent as much ascorbic acid as when freshly cooked; after two days, about 66 per cent. Reheated vegetables have only 33 per cent to 50 per cent as much ascorbic acid as when you first served them.

To cook vegetables properly and save a lot of their good taste, crisp texture, vitamins and minerals, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association suggests you follow these basic cooking principles:

1. Use as little water as possible
2. Bring to a boil rapidly
3. Lower the heat to keep vegetables simmering
4. Cover the pot
5. Cook only until tender, not mushy

DUTCH PANCAKE WITH SOUR CREAM EGGS

To make pancake, combine 3 eggs, ½ cup milk, ½ cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Whir to blend. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet and whip into batter in blender. Pour into skillet. Place in 425-degree oven and bake 25 minutes or until puffed and golden brown. Spoon Special Sour Cream Eggs into center and garnish 1-3rd cup grated Monterey Jack or Cheddar Cheese and a tablespoon minced freeze-dried chives. To make the Sour Cream Eggs, melt 1 tablespoon butter in large skillet. Beat 9 eggs with 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons minced freeze-dried chives and 1 cup dairy sour cream. Cook over medium heat, stirring as little as possible while eggs cook. When the eggs are almost set, sprinkle with 2-3rds cup shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar Cheese and mix in lightly. Serves 4 or 5.

The French go all out when unexpected company arrives

Although French supermarkets are growing in popularity, much shopping is still very specialized. Many French housewives will go to one market for their produce, another for their meats and still another for fish. There are even two different shops for baked goods. One is the boulangerie where the French buy their bread and rolls and the second is the patisserie. The latter sells hors d'oeuvres such as hot cheese tarts or pate en brioche as well as the sweet dessert pastries you might expect.

Simple desserts are the usual fare in French households—fruit and cheese, pudding or custard. But, for special occasions or when unexpected company drops by, the local patisserie has the answer.

Tarts of all sizes and varieties are among the most popular offerings of the pastry shop. Beautifully garnished, these luscious fruit and cream-filled pastries make a tempting sight.

These Chocolate Bavarian Tarts look and taste like they came from the finest French patisserie. The pastry, made with margarine, is a cookie-like dough, rich and tender. As is common when making sweet pastries, sugar and egg yolks are added to the dough.

Chocolate lovers will find the rich Bavarian filling light and delicious. Topped with extra whipped cream and slivered almonds, these tarts are obviously not for the calorie conscious, but when you want to splurge, they are divine.

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN TARTS

- 1½ cups unsifted flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup margarine
- 1 egg yolk
- 3 to 4 tablespoons ice water
- Chocolate Bavarian (recipe below)
- Sweetened whipped cream
- Slivered almonds

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or two knives, until misture resembles coarse meal. Stir in egg yolk and enough ice water to make the particles adhere. Form dough into a ball, wrap and chill for 1 hour.

On a lightly floured board, roll dough out to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into 16 4-inch circles. Fit circles over backs of inverted 2½x1½-inch muffin-cups or tart pans. Prick surfaces with a fork, then chill 15 minutes. Bake at 400 degrees F. about 8 minutes or until golden brown. Cool in pans on wire racks.

To fill, carefully remove cooled tart shells from pans. Fill each tart shell with about ¼ cup Chocolate Bavarian (recipe below). Chill until ready to serve. Serve garnished with a dollop of sweetened whipped cream and slivered almonds. Makes 16 tarts.

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN: Combine ¼ cup sugar, ¾ cup cocoa, 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin and scant ¼ teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Blend in 1 cup milk and 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Add ¼ cup margarine. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until margarine has melted and mixture becomes smooth and slightly thickened. Stir in ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Chill until thickened, about 1½ hours. In small deep bowl, beat 2 egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar until stiff peaks form. Using same beaters beat chocolate mixture until softened and creamy. Fold beaten egg whites and 2 cups whipped heavy cream into chocolate mixture. Use to fill prepared tarts.

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) The last American military personnel in Laos left here recently for home, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The spokesman said three Americans flew out of Vientiane to complete a total withdrawal of 185 military personnel, in accordance with the protocol setting up the Laotian Coalition Government.

"We have had a gradual pullout of our American military personnel since last year," the spokesman said.

The new coalition government was formed on April 5, and, according to the peace agreement of Feb. 21, 1973.

This souffle raises reputation of cook

There's nothing quite like a souffle to raise your reputation as gourmet cook.

Yet here is a recipe that is as simple to prepare as it is beautiful to serve and delicious to eat.

What gives this souffle a specially piquant flavor is its base of split pea soup, deviled ham and spices.

For flavor contrast, serve this souffle with broiled chicken and a tossed green salad. You'll make 6 to 8 people very happy.

SORRENTO SOUFFLE

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon minced garlic
- 4 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- ¼ teaspoon dill weed
- 1 1 pound 4 ounce can green split pea soup
- 1 2¼-ounce can deviled ham
- 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 4 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

In a 3-quart saucepan melt butter, add garlic and cook for several seconds before adding flour, salt, pepper and dill. Cook 1 minute while stirring constantly. Stir in soup and blend well; cook until it thickens. Remove from heat and stir in deviled ham which has first been mixed with a little of the souffle mixture. Mix in egg yolks. Whip egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Fold into the souffle mixture with a rubber spatula. Ladle into a 2 quart souffle dish. Set souffle dish in a pan of very hot water (1 inch deep) and bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for about 60 minutes, until a deep golden brown. Serves 6 to 8.

Top catches found in market or sea

During the summer fish abound on the shores of America, from Cape Cod to Florida and from Canada to California. You can find a good catch of fish in the sea or at your local market—and it's a good time to think about different ways to prepare it.

Man has relied on fish for his food since prehistoric days. The old Chinese and Egyptian civilizations, the ancient Greeks, and the New England colonists all knew the value of fish in their diets. But you can bet they never turned it into a meal as tasty and eye catching as this one.

For a family dinner, a Sunday supper or a company buffet, start by taking that sometimes—forgotten round mold from the closet. There's nothing quite as pleasing as a dish made in a ring. It always seems to convey that extra bit of care included in its preparation.

Add the fish fillets and herb-seasoned stuffing and bake. Turn the mold out on a serving dish, place the cooked peas in the center, and you have a fish dish in-the-round that's actually a whole meal in itself. The stuffing replaces, and is a welcome change, from the standard potatoes. The peas provide the green vegetable and a sparkle of color. Add a salad, if you like, and you have a fine meal for family or company.

STUFFED FISH MOLD

- 6 large flounder fillets
- 1 package (8 ounces) herb-seasoned stuffing
- ¾ cup condensed chicken broth
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2 eggs
- 2 packages white sauce mix
- 2 cups milk
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon dried dill weed or 1 tablespoon fresh dill, chopped

Heavily butter a 1½ quart ring mold. Dust inside of mold with dry bread crumbs. Lay flounder fillets crosswise down into mold allowing excess fish to hang over edges. Make sure whole mold is lined with fish.

In a bowl mix stuffing, chicken broth, parsley and lemon rind. Let stand 15 minpare white sauce according to utes. Stir in eggs. Spoon mixture into lined mold and pack tightly. Fold fish over stuffing. Place into a shallow baking pan. Add water to the pan to the depth of 1 inch. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour.

While fish is baking, prepackage directions in a saucepan and stir over low heat until thick. Stir in lemon juice and dill. Loosen edges of fish ring and unmold onto a serving platter. Fill center with cooked peas and mushrooms, if desired. Spoon over hot dill sauce. Serves 6.

Candidate didn't beat around bush

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) —Mary Christian Heising isn't one to beat around the bush.

Mrs. Heising of La Jolla, Calif., seeking the District 2 post on the State Board of Equalization, has asked the 76-year-old incumbent, John Lynch of Clovis, Calif., to resign and support her.

She said it is "time for new thoughts and new blood" on the board.

Sauces are secret of French cooking

The glory of French cooking lies in its sauces. Served with fish, meat, poultry, vegetables and desserts, they complement and enhance numerous dishes. Even a thick, juicy steak (which most Americans would swear can't be topped; is sauced by the French for a superb blend of flavors.

The French handling of steak is unique in other respects as well. To begin with, the French cut up the beef carcass differently than American butchers. Most steaks are small, boneless pieces of meat as opposed to our large T-bone, porterhouse and sirloin cuts. Instead of broiling, the French usually pan-fry steaks. While the meat is kept warm the all-important sauce is made from the pan juices. Often this is a wine sauce made with a burgundy or bordeaux. Mushrooms, shallots and other seasonings are also added to taste.

You can add a French accent to your favorite steak, cooked indoors or out, with our delicious Mushroom Wine Sauce. Margarine adds rich flavor to the spirited sauce. Serve your next steak dinner with a French flair for delicious, memory-making meal.

BROILED STEAK WITH MUSHROOM WINE SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons margarine
- ¼ pound mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 2 teaspoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Generous dash pepper
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- ½ cup dry red wine
- ¼ cup water
- 2 pounds boneless sirloin steak

In small saucepan melt margarine over medium heat. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic; saute until onion is transparent, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Stir in flour, salt, pepper and tomato paste. Blend in wine and water. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Cover, reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes.

Meanwhile broil steak to desired doneness. Serve with wine sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Selectivity key to mutual funds

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — With the miserable performances of mutual funds, how in good conscience can you recommend their purchase? — G.G.

A — In my office, about 400 open-end mutual funds are monitored. Of these, 207 have been in existence 10 years or more. In the decade ended 1973, the total return on the Dow Jones Industrial Average — including dividends — was 59 per cent compounded annually, whereas the 207 funds returned an average of 74 per cent, a figure which was held down by 7 funds that were in the minus column. Just as not all railroads are Penn Centrals, not all funds should be compared to those 7 which declined in value. In fact, 42 of the 207 funds returned more than 10 per cent annually, a rate which most investors would find satisfactory. These 42 top-performing funds showed a total average return of 146 per cent in the decade.

Although past performance carries no guarantee of future prospects, it is one criteria in selecting promising issues for purchase.

Q — Could you give me your opinion on the growth and dividend prospects for Avon Products (NYSE), Int'l. Business Machines (NYSE) Woolworth (NYSE) and Xerox (NYSE)? —F.B.

A— There is little doubt that the continuing high rate of capital spending will be beneficial to IBM and Xerox. This is further buttressed by the recently reported upsurge in durable goods orders. Although the exceptionally strong growth rates achieved by both companies — 18 per cent for Xerox and 14.5 per cent for IBM compounded annually for the last 5 years — are expected to moderate somewhat in the coming years, the rate will still by above average. Dividends, which have been raised annually, should continue in this pattern.

Woolworth's somewhat stodgy earnings performance improved markedly in the year ended Jan. 31, 1974, stimulated by rising sales. The rising sales trend continued in the first 13 weeks of the current year, when sales were up 13 per cent year to year. Dividend increases have been few and far between, but a boost this year is a strong possiblity. Prospects for Avon are less promising than for your other 3 issues. Oversaturation is a problem which may restrict future growth. Sell Avon on any meaningful upturn.

Q — My mother recently left me $10,000 face value E bonds and a $5,000 bank certificate earning 6½ per cent. We are in our early 60s and need neither the income nor taxes on these. What would you advise us to do with this inheritance, so as not to waste the money my mother worked so hard to accumulate? — J. C.

A — Since payment of taxes on the accrued E-bond interest may be postponed until the bonds are cashed. I would defer action until that time. If at some future date you choose to convert the E bonds, the tax liability on accumulated E interest may again be deferred until the H bonds are cashed. However, if a more advantageous rate of interest is available in marketable government debt securities at reitrement, this equally safe investment would be advisable. The bank term certificate should be held, rather than incure the steep interest penalty for premature withdrawal.

Vacations with or without kids

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK

There are families who take vacations with their children.

There are families who prefer to stay at home with their children. The sniveling cowards!

Sure, it's easy to spend time with your kids when you have a stove to cook on . . . a washing machine that doesn't eat quarters . . . and a freezer you can run to for a gin popsickle anytime you want.

But out there on the road . . . in a leaky tent, a sandy bed, and mildewed marshmallows . . . it's a jungle.

Our neighbors, Wanda and Duward, have never taken a vacation in their lives. When their children were infants, do you know what her excuse was for not traveling? "What fun would it be for me to wash diapers in a saucepan and sit in a mosquito-infested cabin while my husband fished?" So, who promised her a rose garden?

When their children were toddlers, she again stayed home saying, "All our children can do now is fall in a lake, upset a boat, or drool chocolate all over their clothes." So what are kids for?

When their kids were 9 and 11, she informed me they were staying home because other parents told them all their children cared about was putting quarters in a magic fingers vibrating bed.

But there were other chances for them to be one of the gang. One year they rejected a vacation because their daughter had a boyfriend who threatened to tur nto crime if she left him. Another year, their son had a job and they would have had to plan their vacation between 9 p.m. Sunday and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

It's hard to love people like Wanda and Duward . . . people who are practical, sensible, and perceptive. I had just about given up on our having any kind of a relationship when she informed me this year she and Duward were going on a vacation . . . without the children.

"I think they're old enough to be trusted and mature enough to be left at home alone," she said. "I have a freezer full of food for them, notes all over the refrigerator, and emergency numbers in case they need us."

Last night, Wanda and Duward arrived home.There were 123 lights burning. The dog was on the roof. Stereos were blazing. Her china service for 12 was soaking in the sink. Their son was wearing the same clothes as when they left. There were car tracks on the front porch. There were phone messages from 18 neighbors . . . some of them as far as 50 miles away.

Poor Wanda and Duward. A couple of summer vacations would have conditioned for them for this.

A spotted African snail isn't violent

By DR FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Two days after I'd put some young fish in my tank, I caught a spotted African snail chomping on one. You can bet I was pretty shocked about this. I think you should warn other people that hose innocent-looking spotted African snails are really killers in disguise. —P.D.

Dear P.D.: These snails shouldn't be considered all that violent. Their primary prey is a lettuce leaf and even that only occasionally. If a spotted African (paper shell) snail did stumble across a fish, you can be sure that the latter was long gone before the snail even arrived. Many fish are fond of, and frequently feed on, live young paper shell snails. The snails, however, do not reverse the process. (Snails should be kept out of fish breeding tanks, however, particularly if the fish are egg layers.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: The day Sir Thomas spent most of his time in the cat box, we knew something was wrong. He was straining — we thought from constipation. But we took him in for a check-up instead of giving him a laxative. As it turned out, he actually had a blocked bladder, and getting him in early gave the doctor a chance to save his life.

Since then, we've been instructed to feed him only cat foods with a low ash content. Of course, Sir Thomas likes foods best that have a high ash content so it is often a hassle. I've since read that blocked bladders in cats are caused by a virus, not by ash in the food. So is all this fussing over food really necessary? —D.G.

Dear D.G.: Viruses cause countless problems in cats and have been incriminated in the urinary blockage syndrome. Your veterinarian didn't recommend a low ash diet because it's been proven that a high ash diet causes feline bladder problems. Rather, he and most other veterinarians (including myself) recommend it because clinical experience indicates that cats fed food with low ash content are less likely to have a recurrence of bladder irritation and blockage. Since urinary blockage is one of the major causes of death in adult male cats, feeding the diet most helpful in avoiding the problem should be more than worth any trouble involved.

Rome bandits mixing it up, hit cemetery

ROME (UPI) — First it was jewelers and banks. Then public utilities. Then hospitals. Now bandits hit the Rome cemetery.

Police said four men with pistols and sawed-off shotguns drove up to the office of the Verano cemetery and ordered Cashier Mario Ranaldi, to hand over all money in the office.

When he resisted, one of the bandits wounded Ranaldi and two other persons, one of them critically, grabbed $23,000 and fled.

Robbers in Rome have been diversifying their targets more and more over the years, first switching from banks and jewelers' shops to offices of public utilities and other companies on paydays and later extending their raids to hospitals and one mental asylum.

Silver spoon for berries

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

QUESTION: I am enclosing a detailed drawing of a very lovely old silver berry spoon, two inches in diameter with a perforated bowl. Its scalloped edges come down to form eight sections to the round bowl. Each section has a raised likeness of a different fruit. From my description of its hallmarks, can you tell me who made it and its worth?—Mrs. C.C.G.

ANSWER: Your fancy berry spoon was made by Holmes and Edwards Silver Company, Bridgeport, Conn. This type usually sells within the $12-$18 price range.

Holmes & Edwards Silver Company was founded in 1882 by George C. Edwards and C.E.L. Holmes, and became leaders in the field of inlaid silver flatware. In 1885, the firm registered a patent for production of imitation silverware, plated silver and other tableware, and this firm was one of the original companies to become part of the International Silver Company in 1898.

QUESTION: Can you tell me if new blue opalescent blue candlesticks are floating around to confuse the novice? My sister recently purchased a pair of "Dolphin" candlesticks, nine inches tall. They are really very beautiful, but I am certain they are new because of their "slick" surface. The tops have a petal design, and the base is six-sided. The milky opalescents appear on the base and around the top portion which holds the candle. What is your opinion?—K.E.

ANSWER: It's very possible your sister's candlesticks are new since a number of new blue opalescent pieces are currently being marketed. They include Dolphin candlesticks, nine inches high; a sugar and creamer (both covered) in the "Peacock" pattern, pedestal cake stand, 14 inches across diagonal; children's plates, 7⅜ inches across, "Mule" and "Chick" patterns; and a 5½-inch two-piece Santa-on-sleigh candy dish.

QUESTION: From my sketch of the enclosed "globe-like" mark, can you tell us who made our child's plate, and its approximate value? It is perfect; however, the center decoration in blue does show some wear. The only discernible words are "Brownfield Guild Pottery," printed on a banner across the two globes.—Mrs. I.B.

ANSWER: Your plate was made in Cobridge, England. The twin globe-like mark was used by the Brownfield Pottery from 1891 well into the present century.

QUESTION: Would an old World War II WAC doll be of interest to anyone? If so, how much?

The doll that I have was sent to me by my sister 20 years ago. It is 15 inches tall, with a composition body, molded hair, painted eyes and mouth. Her arms and legs are jointed, and she is dressed in the original WAC uniform. Since I never cared for this doll, she is almost like new—and still in the original box.—J.S.

ANSWER: WAC dolls like you have described usually sell around the $60 figure.

QUESTION: Your recent comments on Dedham pottery was of much inerest to me, since I have two of the 8½-inch turkey plates. Would their value be more or less than the rabbit border plates you touched upon?—S.T.

ANSWER: The Dedham turkey plates are currently being priced for about $65, slightly higher than the rabbit plates, which are more common.

QUESTION: We have recently acquired a fluting iron (two pieces) and am wondering if you could give us some idea of what these old irons sell for.—J.P.

ANSWER: Most of the old fluter irons on the market today are priced from $12-$18.

QUESTION: I am interested in knowing the value of eight matching punch cups in greenish carnival glass with a gold wash, each marked with the letter "N". The pattern is pine cones and leaves.

These cups were my mother's, and are very old as they were a wedding gift.—I.J.

ANSWER: If perfect, your carnival glass punch cups are worth about $18-$22 each.

Hungary now comfortable under Kadar

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Janos Kadar, first secretary of the Hungarian Communist party, told his countrymen recently: "Our economic policy, our agricultural policy and our cultural policy are unchanged."

And although the liberal overseers of the nation's economy, culture and farming had just lost their jobs, the majority of Hungarians believed him.

"A few plays will be banned, a few books will not be published, but as long as Kadar is around there will be no nastiness," a young Hungarian novelist remarked to UPI.

Just how long Kadar will be around is the current talking point, from Budapest's Feszek — Bird's Nest — intellectuals club to the traditional village barbershop meeting place.

Although only 61, Kadar's health bears the scars of four years Stalin-era imprisonment and torture and 17 years in power.

Rumors Denied

And the recent demotion of some of his most trusted aides fueled speculation that he, too, was on the way out.

Rumors he would step down at the Communist party's 11th congress in March, next year, were flatly denied by party officials.

"Perhaps in three or four years, yes, but next year, no," an editor of the Patriotic People's Front newspaper, Magyar Nemzet, said.

Western diplomats say there are no indications that "Fonok" (Boss) Kadar has been losing his grip.

They say the men promoted in March to key party and government posts—Karoly Nemeth, 51, secretary for the economy, Imre Gyoeri, 50, secretary for culture, and Janos Borbandi, 51, deputy premier in charge of farming, the army and police—are as loyal to Kadar as the men they replaced.

"Kadar has the trust of the nation, the support of the party and the complete confidence of the Kremlin," is how one western diplomat summed it up.

Even Kadar's health seems to be holding up. Although his heavy face is deeply lined, his step is brisk and his physique robust.

A tough but modest man, Kadar is probably the most popular Communist leader in Eastern Europe: something that seemed impossible 17 years ago when he turned against the 1956 uprising and accepted the leadership of a regime installed by Soviet troops.

His actions since then, in winning for Hungarians many of the freedoms they fought for have convinced many that in the long run, at least, he did not betray the revolution.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Face-lift a flop

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My wife has spent thousands on plastic surgery trying to have her face lifted so she will look just as she did 30 years ago. I don't mind too much about the money, since we are well off, but what makes me angry is that after all the money and pain, she never seems satisfied or any happier with herself or the way she looks.

For the first month after recuperation, she buys new clothes to celebrate. Then, in about two months, the clothes are forgotten and she turns into a kind of housecleaning fanatic. It's as if the house is never quite perfect, never quite clean enough.—P.G.

Dear P.G.: Usually, women who never seem satisfied with plastic surgery, or who are desperately unhappy about their appearance without it, are trying to solve all their problems from the outside instead of facing their inner problems.

Plastic surgery is not a magic wand that restores youth and happiness. Youth is as much a state of mind, an attitude, as it is a matter of years, and happiness generally comes from within. A face can be lifted, wrinkles can be removed, but habits and behavior and attitudes toward life take much longer to alter.

Many Americans are so concerned about staying and looking young that they ruin their lives in this futile search for eternal youth. This passion for youth is not surprising in our society since so much of our advertising and entertainment places a premium on being young. The fear and stress of growing older, however takes a great toll on happiness and health. People can become so anxious and preoccupied about their looks that they wreck their marriages, their sex lives, their jobs, and they end up lonely and depressed.

Sometimes a person consciously or unconsciously encourages a spouse to focus too much attention on being and looking young. A man may constantly look at younger women in his wife's presence. He may comment about lines on his wife's face or make disparaging remarks about her appearance. If he does, he shouldn't be too surprised if his wife becomes anxious, depressed and insecure.

One of the signs of maturity is the ability to focus on the whole human being rather than merely on the physical or superficial aspects of a person. I don't know, from your letter if you've ever discussed your feelings about your wife's attitude about her appearance. If you had an honest discussion with her you might be able to make her feel more secure and more ready to accept her years.

It sounds as if she is in flight from herself and she is constantly searching for different routes to take, all of which avoid her real problems. Many women compulsively keep their homes spotless in order to hide their real feelings. Some women work out their anger in this way, but unless they are aware of the true source of their inner rage, their activitiy is futile.

Usually, a woman with the housecleaning compulsion is despondent and miserable. She is in need of help. Sometimes this help can come from better communications with her husband and sometimes she needs professional guidance.

Your wife seems to need help to face herself. Encourage her to seek attention now and you may save both her and you a great deal of pain in the future.

Two bath towels equal one beach poncho: sew one end of one towel to the side of the other to make an L shape. It's as easy as that.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee
If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out, We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.
Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.
Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

Put the strength of 4 rayon cord belts and 2 polyester cord radial plies between you and the highway! Belts help keep tread flat on the road while the polyester cord plies help give you a comfortable, smooth ride.
